Property Taxes Carry Big Load

Of all California counties Marin relies most heavily on the property tax as compared with other revenue sources to meet budget requirements, Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell reported today.

He said the comparative figures for all 58 counties are contained in a survey conducted by the State Controller's office in Sacramento.

In Marin, 44.22 per cent of the total budget requirement for the 1966-67 fiscal year was met by property taxes. Bulk of the rest came from federal and state subventions and fees and fines collected by the county.

Next to Marin came Orange County, with 40.80 per cent paid from property taxes, and Placer county, with 38.77 per cent. At the other extreme were Amador County, which financed only 17.07 per cent from property taxes, and Sierra County, 19.83 per cent.

LESS OTHER AID

Mitchell said the main reason for Marin's heavy load on property is that Marin receives considerably less in federal and state subventions than other counties because of the lighter welfare load.

Public assistance (welfare) revenue from state and federal sources totaled $4,401,396 for Marin for 1967-68. Sonoma County, which has a smaller population than Marin, received $13,300,000 in public assistance revenue from state and federal sources.

BUDGET RISE

In the 1967-68 fiscal year, Marin's budget increased by 8.8 per cent over the previous year, which is slightly below the statewide average rise of 9.02 per cent. Imperial County had the highest increase — 20.13 per cent. Sonoma County was a close second with 18.58 per cent increase. At the other extreme was Del Norte County, whose budget dropped by 35.5 per cent.

The State Controller's survey also shows that the assessed value in unincorporated areas in Marin is only 34.8 per cent of the total. Only five other counties have a lower assessed value for unincorporated areas.

LOWEST COUNTY

The lowest is Alameda County, with only 10.6 per cent of assessed value in the unincorporated area, and the bulk of valuation in urban industrial areas. At the other extreme are Alpine, Mariposa, Mono and Trinity counties, which have 100 per cent in the unincorporated areas. They have no incorporated cities.

Sonoma County has 56.77 per cent of the value in unincorporated areas, Napa 54.53 per cent, and Solano 35.24 per cent.

A comparison of county tax rates shows San Mateo to be lowest with $1.33 per $100 assessed valuation. Alpine is highest with $4.32. Marin falls in the middle with $2.30.

Police Chiefs Favor Switch To Citations

By DON BRANNING

Marin County police chiefs gave approval today to a system by which persons could be cited for some misdemeanors without having to be booked and jailed.

The police chiefs met with members of the Marin County Human Rights Commission, which is advocating that procedure as something that might improve relations between police and members of underprivileged minority groups.

Marin Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos said he would recommend the board of supervisors pass an ordinance giving sheriff's officers the discretion.

SOUNDS CAUTION

Mountanos emphasized that his approval of the idea was a cautious one. He said that persons should continue to be booked for such offenses as petty theft, driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs, contributing to the delinquency of a minor, hit-run offenses and other serious misdemeanors.

The Sausalito department instituted a citation system on Jan. 1. Sausalito Police Chief Eward S. Kreins said it hasn't been in effect long enough to give it a real trial, but he said he could see no reason why it would not work.

NOVATO REPORTS

Novato Police Chief Robert J. DiGrazia said his community has had a similar ordinance since 1962 and it has been successful.

A citation procedure allows the officer, at his discretion, to cite a person for a misdemeanor offense, requiring the individual to sign the citation and guarantee his court appearance on a specified date. The citation form used in Sausalito also allows the officer to specify that the person to be booked.

Diplomat To Enter Texas Governor Race

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Eugene M. Locke, deputy ambassador to South Vietnam, announced today as a Democratic candidate for nomination as Texas governor. The White House formally announced this morning that Locke had resigned his Vietnam post.

Texas Gov. John Connally earlier said he would not seek a fourth term as governor.

STUDENT STAGES DRESS-IN

Samuel Saporito of Terra Linda took a lot of ribbing yesterday at Santa Margarita School when he donned his mother's skirt and blouse to protest the boys' clothing worn to school by girls. Sam, 11, said he was tired of girls in jeans and boys' shirts and thought they ought to look more like this. Opinion at the school, he said, was "about 50-50, half for, half against, but the teachers were fore me." Some sixth grade classmates asked him for dates and a few girls asked him to play with them.

Probe Set On Charges By Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI)—The International Control Commission (ICC) headed to a border village today to investigate Cambodian charges that U.S. and South Vietnamese forces killed three Cambodian soldiers.

The government said the dead were three members of a small "surveillance force" of the Cambodian army patrolling the border of the nation's Prey Dang province at the border.

The charges followed by only a week assurance by Chester Bowles, President Johnson's special envoy, to Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia that the U.S. would not insist on the "right of pursuit" of Communist forces into Cambodia.

Red Rockets Pound U.S. Army Hospital

SAIGON (UPI)—A Communist force today slammed rockets into a hospital at a major military headquarters complex near Pleiku in central Vietnam, U.S. spokesmen reported.

One of the 122 mm rocket rounds made a direct hit on a ward of the 71st medical evacuation hospital at the headquarters and wounded 10 Americans recuperating from earlier war injuries, the spokesmen said.

A South Vietnamese patient was killed.

OTHERS WOUNDED

The officials said seven other Americans were wounded in the midnight attack which also sent the rockets whistling into the U.S. airfield and the South Vietnamese II Corps headquarters. The headquarters directs operations for most of the central section of South Vietnam.

Along the Demilitarized Zone U.S. Marines battled a large force of North Vietnamese troops yesterday in the second consecutive day of DMZ fighting.

MARINES PINNED

Officials said a Marine platoon ran into a "large enemy force" seeking to penetrate into South Vietnam about five miles east of the Gio Linh border post. The Leathernecks, reinforced by two additional platoons, were pinned down by the North Vietnamese but managed eventually to withdraw to permit artillery and air bombardments of the Communist positions.

The fight cost the Marines three killed and 25 wounded, officials said. At least 25 North Vietnamese were reported slain.

To halt the threatened attack American B52 bombers laid down tons of explosives in saturation patterns that virtually obliterated large sections of DMZ jungle.

In the air war U.S. pilots took advantage of clearing weather to fly 123 missions against North Vietnam, the most since Jan. 4. Most of the raids were directed against the Hanoi-Haiphong area but some targets as close as 46 miles to the Red Chinese border were hit.

A hit-and-run force of Communist guerrillas Friday bombarded the base camp and headquarters area of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division at Cu Chi 21 miles northwest of Saigon. Spokesmen said three Americans died and 45 were wounded.

Dutch Oil Blast Kills Two Men

ROTTERDAM (UPI)—An explosion ripped through a Shell Oil Co. refinery in Rotterdam Harbor today, sending flames nearly 400 feet into the air.

A spokesman for the plant said two persons were known dead and 65 injured, some seriously.

Infection Of Blood Is Feared

PALO ALTO (UPI) — Mike Kasperak, America's only surviving heart transplant patient, was bleeding internally throughout his body, his doctors reported today.

Kasperak's condition was described as "extremely critical."

A mid-morning medical bulletin issued at the Palo Alto-Stanford hospital said the heart patient had received more than 20 points of blood since undergoing surgery yesterday to control bleeding from a stomach ulcer.

The bulletin said doctors feared he was developing an overwhelming blood infection.

Kasperak was receiving continuous transfusions of blood and plasma and massive doses of antibiotics and steroids, the medical bulletin said.

HEART WORKING

The medical bulletin issued at 10:40 a.m. said the patient was semiconscious and that his breathing was being aided by a respirator.

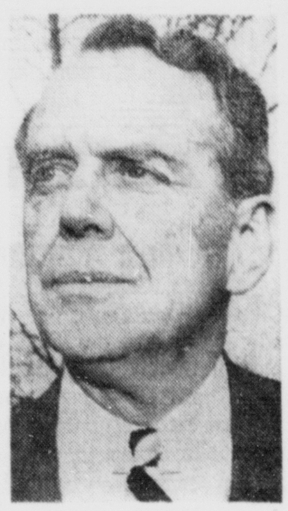
Despite his third major operation in five days, Kasperak showed no signs of rejecting the heart, doctors said. The organ has functioned without complications throughout the crisis period.

SPLEEN REMOVED

Surgeons removed Kasperak's spleen and sewed up a bleeding stomach ulcer in a 2½-hour operation yesterday afternoon to stop a reoccurrence of heavy internal bleeding. About 20 hours earlier, he underwent two hours of emergency surgery to remove several ulcers in the small intestine.

The world's first heart transplant recipient, Louis Washkansky of South Africa, died of an infection—double pneumonia—18 days after receiving a woman's heart. The heart functioned normally until his death.

Dr. Philip Blaiberg, a retired South African dentist, is the world's longest surviving heart transplant recipient. He was progressing so well today on his 19th day with a new heart that doctors suspended medical bulletins on his condition.



CLARK M. CLIFFORD
Neither hawk nor dove?

Hawks, Doves Both Seem To Favor Clifford

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leading congressional hawks have cheered President Johnson's choice of Clark M. Clifford, longtime White House adviser and highpowered Washington lawyer, to become secretary of defense.

Leading doves also were friendly or noncommital, at least until Clifford's views on prosecuting the Vietnam war come into sharper focus. This may develop at Senate confirmation hearings, expected soon.

REPLACES McNAMARA

Johnson announced yesterday his nomination of the 61-year-old Clifford—"a very wise and prudent counselor to many presidents"—to replace Robert S. McNamara as head of the enormous Defense Department.

Assuming Senate approval, Clifford will take over from McNamara before March 1. Then McNamara, the record holder in time served with seven years as defense chief, will move on to become president of the World Bank—a move announced about two months ago.

Park Site Contract Predicted

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The state and the owner of the Brazil and Souza ranches will sign an agreement early this coming week on a sale price to add 2,140 acres to Mount Tamalpais State Park, a high state official predicted yesterday.

The deputy director of the state Parks and Recreation Department, Frank D. Nicol, in a telephone interview with the Independent-Journal, said "all indications are that the party wishes to sell."

The owner of the ranches, the First Christian Church of America, headquartered in Beverly Hills, has demanded $3.3 million, but the state has held firm at its offer of $3,012,000. The agreement will be reached at, "or less" than the state's offer, said Nicol.

QUESTION 'MOOT'

He made his prediction when asked if the money allocated to expand the park could be used instead to buy park land elsewhere in the county — not adjacent to existing state parks. "The question is moot," he said, "since I think the Brazil-Souza ranch is going to be acquired, and I'd guess early next week."

"We just didn't come to a secondary specific proposal," he said, "but although the principal feeling has favored expansion of the existing park, we didn't rule out acquisition elsewhere in the county."

DELAY FOR PROBE

Nicol's boss, William Penn Mott Jr., department director, had set Dec. 11 as the deadline for the church to accept the state's offer. Then, on Dec. 13, he granted the Marin County Board of Supervisors' request that he keep the offer open while the county counsel's office investigated the church and the complicated transactions involving the ranches.

However, the supervisors' jurisdiction in the matter "will terminate" if the ranches are acquired by the state, Deputy County Counsel Joseph A. Forest said yesterday when informed of Nicol's prediction.

Any further investigation of the matter would be up to the state attorney general, Forest said.

County Chamber Opposes Buses; Calls For Eight-Lane Freeway

Immediate widening of Highway 101 to eight lanes from San Rafael to the Golden Gate Bridge and a halt to proposals for a public bus system have been called for by directors of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau.

In a policy statement adopted Thursday, the board of directors also urged that widening of the freeway be in addition to its improvement through San Rafael and relocation around Novato.

"Any commitments" toward a public bus system, the board said, should be held "in abeyance until other less costly, and possibly more promising, methods are researched." The statement did not suggest other methods, but elsewhere commented that "despite prolonged discussion and exhaustive study, decisions are still pending."

The freeway is too crowded for good bus service, the statement said, and Marin's "affluent" commuters have less stable commute time requirements "than lower echelon employees."

Perhaps Greyhound Lines should be subsidized to improve its service, the statement said. Eventually, Marin commuters may use the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge to connect with the Bay Area Rapid Transit District system in the East Bay to San Francisco, the board statement concluded.

Bagley Sees More Hard Times For Taxpayers, School Officials

Property owners cannot look forward to tax relief for at least several years, and school officials will have to keep struggling for their revenue, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, said yesterday.

"Any real tax relief" will require at least $500 million a year in the state budget, he told about 25 school district officials who met with him at the Tamalpais Union High School District office in Larkspur.

The $145 million budgeted during the current fiscal year for state aid to schools "was only a drop in the bucket," said Bagley.

He offered the "hope" that $500 million may be available in about three years "from further economy in state government."

Last year's tax bill provided that the legislature must earmark $155 million by July 1 "directed toward property tax relief," Bagley added. Otherwise, the sales tax would drop by one-half cent.

State, city, county and school officials, however, all seem to think that the money should go to help their budgets, said Bagley, "so it's subject to raid."

The money also "may be eaten up by "Medi-Cal," he cautioned.

If state revenue is allocated to school districts for property tax relief, he said, "we'll have to attach some strings" to see that it is used for this purpose.

Only three or four school districts in the state used their share of the $145 million this fiscal year to cut property tax rates, noted B. Mike Kahl, administrative assistant to Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael. The rest used the windfall "to enrich educational programs," said Kahl, who

U.S. AIDS EARTHQUAKE AREA

In Sicily, U.S. Air Force and Italian military men unload emergency supplies rushed in today by U.S. transport planes. The 57th tremor since the killer jolts last Sunday rocked the area today and torrents of rain and hail worsened the plight of the 50,000 survivors. Official death toll is 198, but searchers predict finding at least 100 more bodies among the ruins. (UPI Cablephoto)

Nevada H-Test Felt Far Away

HOT CREEK VALLEY, Nev. (AP) — The apparently unexpected force of an underground nuclear test explosion yesterday hit college seismographs 1,700 miles away with the intensity of an earthquake.

The tremor jolted buildings in Salt Lake City and Los Angeles. In San Francisco, the pendulum of an upright clock banged against the sides of its case.

The blast registered 6.25 on the Richter scale, or equal to a fairly strong earthquake, on seismographs at Spring Hill College, in Mobile, Ala., 1,700 miles away.

In Eureka, Calif., about 700 miles away, residents reported "a gentle ground roll" was felt.

The explosion, unleashing energy equivalent to nearly a million tons of TNT, was touched off 3,200 feet beneath the surface of Hot Creek Valley in central Nevada in an experiment to see if even more powerful tests could be conducted in the area.

When asked about the blast being felt over such a wide area, an Atomic Energy Commission spokesman declined to do more than refer to the AEC's announcement Jan. 8 that the explosion was scheduled.

The announcement said "ground motion will probably be felt at least as far as 75 to 100 miles from the detonation." It added that persons "who might be on tall structures within about 90 miles of the shot location or in mines within about 50 miles are being alerted so they can avoid any possible hazard resulting from ground motion."

"Any damage to structures would be limited to a relatively small area around the site," the AEC said at that time.

An inspection by helicopter of Moore's Station, 5 miles from ground zero, revealed no visible damage yesterday. But the AEC said it was investigating reports that windows in the Ely High School building 90 miles away were cracked by the tremor, and that plaster in the old Brown Hotel at Eureka, Nev., 70 miles away, had been cracked.

Minor cracks were found in the pavement on bridges on U.S. 6 within 12 miles of the blast.

The AEC exploded the device, as part of a program to find an area in which to conduct nuclear detonations more powerful than can be conducted on its permanent Nevada test site near Las Vegas.

Federal Highway Fund Cutback Rumor Is Hit

COMBINED AP & UPI

SACRAMENTO — A top state official expressed alarm today over a reported federal proposal to cut back $600 million, nationwide, highway construction aid.

"California highway planning takes a long time and you just cannot all of a sudden shut the thing off," said James Schmidt, assistant secretary of the Highway and Transportation Agency.

He said state officials had received no official notification of the proposal from the federal government but were braced to issued a "strong protest" if the proposed cutback comes.

He noted that California Business and Transportation Secretary Gordon Luce met earlier in the week with U.S. Transportation Secretary Alan Boyd but reported Luce had made no mention of an economy cutback.

OUT OF STATE

Luce was out of state and not expected back at his desk until Monday.

Schmidt noted the funds involved were held in trust by the federal government for the states and "nobody should play politics with this."

"If true, the cutback would be very disruptive to the highway program," he said. "It would take away jobs and put people out of work."

In Washington, administration officials say privately the government will hold back $600 million in highway funds as a means of fighting inflation.

The reports yesterday were not officially confirmed.

EARLIER WARNING

A warning such a move might be taken was sounded last October by Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd. In telegrams to the nation's governors he raised the possibility of a holdback of either $600 million, $1 billion or $2.2 billion—out of a total of $4.4 billion in federal money earmarked for highways.

Governors and members of Congress weren't happy at the suggestion then. If the holdback being reported now materializes the administration can expect a torrent of criticism.

NO DECISION

Boyd so far has said only that no decision has been reached.

Sources who reported the holdback is definitely coming said it is viewed by the administration as a means of curbing inflation.

The possibility of a holdback was touched on yesterday by Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts, chairman of the National Governors Conference, at a meeting with President Johnson. Volpe said the governors feel strongly there should be no curtailment.

FREDERICK M. ESHERICK

Ohio Youth, 16, Delivered To Death Row Cell

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fred M. Esherick Jr., 16, youngest Ohioan ever condemned to death, was delivered to the Ohio penitentiary yesterday.

Esherick was convicted in Lake County in the stabbing death of his father. He was sentenced Jan. 8.

The youth arrived unannounced at the prison. He needed a haircut and wore an open necked shirt and jacket in sunny, 35-degree weather. Leg irons appeared to be no hindrance as he walked, seemingly in casual fashion, along a walk dampened by melting snow.

Esherick is scheduled to die in the electric chair May 15.

A Lake County Common Pleas Court jury of 10 men and 2 women found the youth guilty Dec. 6, and did not recommend mercy, making the death sentence mandatory.

Esherick was charged with stabbing his father Fred Sr., 45, a power company truck driver, and striking and stabbing his mother, Aldona, 48, with a bayonet and his fists at their Painesville home last May 5.

The prosecution said the adopted youth then put his parents in the trunk of the family car and drove them to a nearby creek where he dumped them.

Mrs. Esherick survived the attack and was the prosecution's main witness at the trial.

She testified that her son told her: "Daddy is dead and I am going to kill you."

Reagan Subpoenaed In Assessment Row

BERKELEY (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has been subpoenaed to appear before the assessment appeals board of Los Angeles County Wednesday.

A man who identified himself as Bryan W. (Bill) Stevens, a teacher at San Marino High School, served the paper to the governor during yesterday's meeting of the University of California board of regents.

The subpoena ordered Reagan to show cause why he should not have the assessment raised on two pieces of property he owns on Mulholland Highway, according to Stevens.

GOVERNOR ANGRY

As the governor stalked back into the board meeting, Stevens replied that he thought it was "cheap of you to say that to me."

Following the meeting Reagan said the land was unimproved and that no one knew its real value.

Stevens said, "A realty corporation has an option to buy the land at $8,000 an acre. It is assessed at only $400 an acre and the governor pays taxes on only $100 per acre."

Stevens said he was acting as an individual.

ASSESSES TRIP

On other matters, Reagan says he has found the Republican Party "united, enthusiastic and very gung ho" during his eastern speech-making trip.

The governor spoke in New York, Washington, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia this week and will talk to a St. Louis audience tonight. But he hurried back to California yesterday to attend the board of regents meeting. He is a member of the board.

Reagan said that on his trip he has found that "Republicans are united, enthusiastic and very gung ho for the campaign to get under way."

He said former Vice President Richard Nixon seems to be out in front in polls on possible GOP presidential candidates. But he added: "I don't believe there has ever been so many people who seriously and honestly have not made up their minds."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Tourists Stay Home

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans are showing such ready compliance with President Johnson's plea for cutbacks in foreign travel that restrictive legislation may not be necessary, according to a member of the administration.

Undersecretary of State Eugene Rostow said yesterday it appears possible that the goal of a $500 million reduction in the overseas spending of U.S. travelers could be reached on a voluntary basis.

Wilson Expels 25

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party today expelled — at least temporarily — 25 members who rebelled by abstaining in a crucial vote of confidence in the House of Commons, qualified sources reported.

right-winger Reginald Paget, had demanded that Wilson resign as prime minister. Another rebel was Michael Foot, leader of the party's left wing.

A least one of the rebels, Even without the rebels' votes, the Laborites easily won the motion Thursday night, approving Wilson's proposals for cuts in social welfare spending. The vote was 304-9 with the opposition Conservatives abstaining en masse.

Apollo Bug Sought

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Engineers raced the clock today to solve a mysterious computer power failure that threatened to interfere with a renewed attempt to launch the first unmanned Apollo moon landing spaceship Monday.

Until the trouble is pinpointed and corrected, the fate of the Monday firing date for the Apollo 5 spacecraft and its Saturn 1 rocket remained in doubt. Officials did say it was unlikely the original 8 a.m. EST launch time could be met.

Young Soldier Turns Pacifist

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Spec. Frederick Chard of Boulder, Colo., was placed in an Army stockade at the Presidio yesterday after refusing to report back to duty with Army Security Agency.

Chard, 20, was stationed at Okinawa. He decided to refuse to return to the Pacific outpost during an emergency leave in the San Francisco area.

A spokesman for the War Resisters League said the Army will probably try Chard at a general court martial.

Chard told the league he had read about the Tonkin Gulf resolution and became disillusioned with U.S. policy in Vietnam. He also said his viewing of Felix Greene's "Inside North Vietnam" film "clinched my decision."

The soldier allegedly refused a direct order to board a bus that would have taken him to an airport for a flight back to Okinawa.

The War Resisters League said Chard requested a conscientious objector application from the Army Wednesday but never received one.

Lady Bird-Eartha Row Goes On

Mrs. Johnson, who choked back tears during Miss Kitt's impassioned outburst Thursday, said last night she was sorry the nation heard "only the shrill voice of anger and discord."

Miss Kitt's outburst, however, made her the hero of the hour to Washington's antiwar demonstrators. Abut 100 women paraded outside the White House yesterday, some carrying signs proclaiming: "Eartha Kitt speaks for America."

In a series of interviews, Miss Kitt said she did not feel she had been guilty of "bad manners" in speaking out.

At a cocktail party last night, given by Washington hostess Perle Mesta, Miss Kitt's words were the major topic.

Mrs. Mesta was brief and to the point.

Bagley Sees More Moderation In Open Housing Controversy

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The man who tried to modify — but not repeal — the Rumford Act last year hopes today that the controversial open housing law will stay on the books unchanged.

But if a Senate effort to repeal the Rumford Act is renewed, said Republican Assemblyman William T. Bagley of San Rafael, "I will come forth with a modification proposal."

Last year the Assembly passed Bagley's modification bill and the Senate approved outright repeal. A move for a two-house compromise failed during the closing hours of the 1967 regular legislative session.

EMOTION GONE

"It seems that all of the emotion has been drained out of the issue and this is good," Bagley said.

He said the 1963 law against racial discrimination in housing seems to be working well and "you don't see people being hauled in and hit over the head with charges" by the State Fair Employment Practices Commission, which administers the act.

Californians voted 2-1 in 1964 to nullify the open housing law, sponsored by Negro former Assemblyman W. Byron Rumford, a Berkeley Democrat.

But Prop. 14, the nullification initiative, was declared unconstitutional by the state and federal supreme courts.

Bagley's bill was held in the Assembly Governmental Efficiency and Economy Committee for months last year until members finally voted 5-4 for it. The committee's membership remains the same this year, but Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, promoted Negro Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, to chairman.

Brown fought vigorously against any Rumford act changes in the committee last year.

Bagley says he introduced his modifications of the Rumford law last year to head off the legislative move for outright repeal and the California Real Estate Association's drive for another ballot initiative.

Bagley's bill would have revised enforcement procedures and would have removed single-family dwellings from any anti-discrimination restrictions.

Referring to present legislative inaction, Bagley said:

"The longer we can go on in the current atmosphere, the less the issue is in prominence. It's much better that we don't approach the issue with the emotion of 1964."

"I would hope, even foresee, the repeal effort die aborning," Bagley said of this year's legislative session. "There is no real reason for us to get completely involved."

Log Ban Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Union officials have joined with lumber company owners in urging a curtailment of lumber exports from the Pacific Northwest for three years.

Election Seers Disagree On Who'll Be Candidates

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Michigan Gov. George Romney sees the Republican presidential contest shaping up as strictly a two-man struggle between himself and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

New Mexico Gov. David F. Cargo also feels it is a two-man race, but he thinks the leading contenders are Nixon and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

And Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., says he feels Rockefeller is in a "good position" at this stage and may be drawn into the battle for the Republican presidential nomination.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, meanwhile, told a cheering, overflow crowd in Milwaukee that President Johnson must be replaced by another Democrat because of his handling of the Vietnam war.

'CANNOT WAIT'

"We cannot wait another four years," the Minnesota Democrat told about 1,500 persons at the University of Wisconsin's Milwaukee campus.

Romney, confident that a week of campaigning in New Hampshire has got his popularity "on the upturn," also opened his Wisconsin primary bid today in Milwaukee.

The Michigan governor said on arrival last night that he felt the GOP race would boil down to a choice between himself and Nixon.

"It looks like its just the two of us," Romney said. He said he still trails Nixon in New Hampshire, but added: "I expect to win."

Morton told newsmen in Boston he felt Nixon was the frontrunner at this point among delegates to the August GOP national convention.

But he said Nixon does not have the convention locked up and suggested that "Rockefeller, despite his protestations, may be drawn in.

Cargo told the New Mexico Press Association yesterday that Rockefeller has the strongest support among the Republican governors and Nixon probably has the most delegate support.

REAGAN FADING?

He said California Gov. Ronald Reagan "started out with a boom, but it has gone by the wayside.

"Romney started out with a couple of booms, but he has probably gone by the wayside too," Cargo added.

On the Democratic side, Rep. William Fitts Ryan, D-N.Y., became the first member of Congress to publicly urge Sen. Robert F. Kennedy to seek his party's presidential nomination.

Ryan, a Vietnam dove, said it is clear President Johnson can no longer offer himself to the American people in a spirit of peace and progress.

But public opinion analyst Louis Harris predicted yesterday Johnson would enter the November elections as the favorite despite the fact he is not now a popular chief executive.

The polster said he considered Nixon the current leading Republican candidate, but said a Nixon vs. Johnson race would turn out to be "an unpopularity contest."

Greece Recognized

ATHENS (AP) — Turkey today became the first Atlantic Alliance nation and the second country to extend open diplomatic recognition to the Greek military regime. The Congo accorded formal recognition by making an official call on the Greek regent one week ago.

Peking Leader Discusses Atom

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai was quoted yesterday as saying Red China has announced its nuclear tests "whenever new properties were obtained" but he did not confirm that Peking exploded its seventh bomb Christmas Eve.

Kyodo News Service's Peking correspondent, said Chou told a visiting delegation of Japanese Socialists that China has held "only six or seven nuclear experiments." The Chinese have officially announced only six, including a hydrogen bomb blast.

Kyodo said Chou did not explain what he meant by obtaining new properties.

Novato Car Theft

Someone stole his 1964 model car from in front of his house at 6 Wallace Court, Novato, Robert Allen Booth, 27, reported Thursday to Novato police. The theft occurred some time Wednesday night or yesterday morning.

San Francisco's Teacher Dispute Brings Offer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Superintendent of Schools Robert E. Jenkins has offered to meet with representatives of the San Francisco Federation of Teachers Monday in an effort to prevent a threatened strike by the union's 1,400 nembers.

The offer came after Jenkins refused to meet with the union yesterday and the union boycotted a meeting Thursday between Jenkins and two other independent teachers' organizations.

The Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, had set yesterday as a deadline for negotiations on its 92 demands for better quality education and higher salaries.

James E. Ballard, AFT Local 61 president, said his union did not attend the meeting Thursday with the other teachers' organizations because "we are not interested in this type of arrangement." The three groups are engaged in a dispute of some years' standing for membership of the city's 4,000 teachers.

Fairfax Plan Due Hearing By County

A hearing on the Fairfax general plan, drawn up by the county planning staff, will be held before the Marin County Planning Commission Monday morning.

The meeting opens at 9 a.m. on the third floor of the Civic Center.

A request for permission to build a convalescent hospital at 170 San Geronimo Valley Drive, Woodacre, is set for discussion at 9:35 a.m.

Other items on the morning agenda include:

A recommendation for a resort-commercial zoning for Muir Beach, rezoning in the Black Point Area along the Petaluma River, discussion of undergrounding plans by Pacific Gas and Electric Co., and a review of the use permit for Synanon Foundation at Marshall.

At 2 p.m., the commissioners will hear a request for resort-commercial zoning for 75 acres at Sand Point in Dillon's Beach.

An amendment to the zoning ordinance that would allow some conventional housing to act as a buffer in a mobile park will be discussed.

The commissioners will also review the suggestions that non-conforming highway signs be eliminated gradually through a system of amortization.

Manzanita Center Near Completion

The Manzanita Community Center is 80 per cent finished and is scheduled for completion March 31, the Marin City Community Services District Board was told last night.

Plans for a dedication ceremony will be discussed along with other items at a joint meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Civic Center with the Marin Housing Authority, redevelopment agency and board of supervisors.

The board heard Sheriff Louis Mountanos commend Lt. Ellis Seibert of the Marin City substation for an outstanding job in the post. Mountanos announced dispatcher John A. Earl has been promoted to patrolman and new deputy Calvin W. Carr has been named dispatcher.

James E. Mitchell of the social security office in Sacramento outlined to the board the advantages of placing employees under the social security system.

CHIEFS

Los Angeles, sat in on the meeting between th law enforcement officers and the human rights commissioners at the Civic Center. He said the citation system would better relations between police and lower income minority groups, because having to go to jail is a severe financial penalty on those people.

"If you have to lose two days of your time for a traffic offense, when you are making $60 a week, somebody loses pork chops," Wright said. "The people who have old automobiles that are stopped by police are poor people."

Police department representatives also included Chief Dan Terzich of Mill Valley, Lt. Lincoln Borba of San Rafael, Sgt. Ralph Anderson of the California Highway Patrol, Chief William S. Woodington of Belvedere, Capt. James D. Wright of Sausalito and Sgt. M. D. Lafferty of Novato.

Also attending were Municipal Court Judge Hadden W. Roth and Asst. Dist Atty. Leonard Shaw.

MARIN FIRE CALLS

3 p.m., Fairfax — Fire in engine compartment of school bus, parked on Broadway, in front of Central School, apparently started by backfire. Some damage to wiring and motor.

5:14 p.m., Mill Valley — Engine fire in car of Mrs. Charles Townsend, 211 Tiburon Boulevard. Car parked at Strawberry Shopping Center. Damage to wiring.

$42,000 Loot Found From Fallon Burglary

More than $42,000 worth of loot taken in the Jan. 11 burglary of a trailer house on a Fallon ranch was recovered yesterday afternoon by sheriff's officers, but no arrests have been made.

Inspector Kenneth Irving said the items, two hand-carved jade trees and figures whose value was estimated by the owner at $20,000 each, and a portion of a large mahogany silver case of silver worth $2,500, were found in the San Francisco area following information received by his department.

Irving declined to give more details, except that the remainder of the loot, including a jewelry box and jewelry, a statue, a religious painting, two clocks, a television set and two table cigarette lighters, is believed to have been moved out-of-state.

He said arrests in the burglary are hoped to be made soon, also probably out-of-state.

The loot was taken from the trailer of Alice Gatterdam who lives on the Gamm Ranch in Fallon. The theft was reported by Walter Pfiester, who lives nearby on the ranch. Officers said entry was via an unlocked rear door.

The victim wrote Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos that "these things are extremely expensive and most cannot be replaced. They must be found." Officers said she had requested that they check pawn shops and art galleries in the Bay Area.

Irving said the recovered portion of the loot has been returned to the victim, who now has it safely stored.

RELIEF

represented the absent senator.

Citing the failure last year of several school bond measures, Bagley said "there is not much chance" of changing the state constitution to lower the present requirement that bond measures be approved by a two-thirds margin. The voters defeated such a proposed amendment in 1966, he noted, "and now there's a changed atmosphere of California politics to the more conservative."

"Home rule becomes a hollow cliche without the money to carry it out," Bagley said.

Among persons commenting from the audience was Van Norden Logan, Ross School District trustee. "The only way to property tax relief is to not tax property," he said. "The cost of basic education should be shifted to the income tax," Logan suggested.

David D. Ring, former Reed Union School District trustee, said that the state "is not paying its share of school costs. We need statewide equalization of the tax burden for education," Ring added.

Bagley, however, responded that "equalization" could mean "taking money from the core cities for the smug suburbs."

Dr. John C. Siemens, chairman of the Tamalpais Union High School District board of trustees, thanked Bagley for his talk, "but we wish you could have been more encouraging."

Youth Charged With Burglaries In Sausalito

A San Francisco youth was charged in Marin Municipal Court yesterday with three Sausalito burglaries which allegedly netted him goods worth almost $10,000 last month.

Duane Von Burroughs, who just spent his 18th birthday in juvenile hall and was judged an unfit subject for Juvenile Court, was arraigned on three counts of burglary. Bail was set at $1,000.

He is accused of burgling the homes of Dr. Cecil R. Adams at 109a and Lawrence C. Watkins of 109b Filbert Street, and David E. Redmond of 257 Santa Rosa Avenue, Sausalito.

Items worth $6,695 were taken from the Adams home, while goods worth $3,300 were stolen from the Watkins home, Dec. 12.

Von Burroughs was arrested outside the Redmond home Dec. 18, when a witness allegedly said he saw him coming out of the house.

He is to return to court Monday for entry of plea.

Two Youths Hurt As Car Hits Pole

Two San Rafael boys suffered minor injuries yesterday at 9:50 p.m. when their car went off Summit Avenue near Fairway Drive just outside San Rafael, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The driver, Scott M. Cherry, 16, of 23 Heartwood Court, was treated at Kaiser Hospital for scalp cuts. His passenger, Carl D. Sampson III, 16, of 128 Tamal Vista Drive, was treated at Marin General Hospital for scalp cuts and bruises.

Cherry's car hit a utility pole and bounced 40 feet down the roadway, the highway patrol said.

LIGHTS CANDLE AS A BEACON FOR FIREMEN?

Brian Conner, 6, lit a candle in the window yesterday and, far from showing a light to the world, it set fire to the drapes.

He ran to tell his mother, Mrs. Donald L. Conner and while she attempted to beat out the spreading flames she yelled at him to call San Anselmo firemen.

"How?" he asked. Said his mother: "Don't say 'How?', just do it." Brian picked up the receiver, dialed the operator and told her the problem.

By the time firemen arrived at the Conner home at 5 Foothill Road the fire was out but had caused an Foothill Road the fire awas out byt had caused an estimated $600 damage to the kitchen.

"He was lighting a decorative candle I have on the window shelf. The wick got too near the drapes," said Mrs. Conner. "Now, at least, he knows what to do in an emergency."

School Library Dropouts Mean Extra Meeting

Requests from several school districts to pull out of the county schools library services program will be heard Monday in a special meeting of the Marin County Board of Education.

The meeting has been called for 8 p.m. at the Marin County superintendent of schools office in Corte Madera.

Reed, Fairfax, Lagunitas, Ross and Sausalito districts have already notified the board of their intentions to withdraw from the county program, as they now have their own programs for obtaining library books, according to Asst. Supt. Stanley H. Friese.

The meeting is being called because changes in the county program must be made by Feb. 1, according to the State Education Code, Friese said.

The next regular meeting of the board is Feb. 5.

Couple Robbed At Waldo Point

A Louisiana man was robbed of $50 and his woman companion of Forest Knolls was struck during a strong-arm robbery in Marinship early yesterday.

Sheriff's officers said Robert Norfleet, 19, of Shreveport, La., told them two young Negroes approached him and Prudence Funmaker, 18, about 1:15 a.m. in a parking lot near The Ark, Gate Six. They forced him to hand over his wallet with the money, he reported.

A witness later told officers Miss Funmaker made comments to the robbers, and one of them struck her in the face. She was not seriously injured, officers said. The assailants, apparently backed up by four other friends standing nearby, then fled, according to the report.

Sign Pleas Top Agenda For Novato

Signs for new buildings are the main items on the agenda of the Novato Planning Commission when it meets at 8 p.m. Monday in the Novato Community House.

Wells Fargo Bank is asking for a permit for a two faced free standing illuminated sign of 80 square feet and three other signs totaling 127 square feet on the building now under construction at the southwest corner of Grant Avenue and Fifth Street.

Santa Rosa Savings and Loan Association is asking for a permit for three signs totaling 88 square feet where 80 square feet is permitted for their new building on the southeast corner of Grant Avenue and Highway 101.

Other items to come before the planners include an appeal of a plan review committee decision against a free standing sign for a Mobile service station at Diablo Avenue and Court Road, and the application of Donald E. Herner to construct a single family residence within 12 feet of the front property line where 25 feet is required at 14 Olympia Way.

Strike-Idled Newsmen Get Free Holiday

Air California is offering a sunny lift to idle San Francisco newsmen.

The airline is flying reporters, photographers, editors and columnists from the San Francisco Chronicle and Examiner to Laguna Beach for sun and surf. All expenses, including accommodations at a Laguna Beach hotel, are being paid by Air California.

A mailers' strike against the San Francisco Newspaper Printing Co., which prints both papers, entered its 15th day today.

Flights to Orange County Airport, where connections are made to Laguna Beach, began this week, according to Mike McFadden, public relations counselor to the airline. A group of newsmen left yesterday, returning tomorrow. Another group left today.

McFadden said future flights will leave only Fridays. Wives and children are invited for the weekend trips.

Air California says it's the "fun-loving" airline. It offered free drinks on its planes on Ulysses S. Grant's birthday — "because he was a lush," McFadden says—and on the anniversary of the repeal of Prohibition.

"Bring surfboards," McFadden urged the newsmen, "but photographers are not to carry cameras and reporters are not allowed pencils."

TV Program To Aid Cerebral Palsy Fund

Peter H. Behr, honorary chairman of the 1968 United Cerebral Palsy Campaign, has announced that cerebral palsy and other brain ailments will be discussed tomorrow at 5:30 p.m. on station KTVU (Channel 2).

The discussion, entitled "Who Are the Brain Damaged" ties in with the United Cerebral Fund drive which opened this week in Marin, said Behr. On Thursday, 62,000 letters were mailed to Marin residents, appealing for help in fighting cerebral palsy.

Joint Rec, Planning Session In Mill Valley

The Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission will discuss 1968-69 capital improvements Monday following a joint session with the planning commission on plans for Boyle Park and the Project 17 development.

The joint meeting will start at 8 p.m. in the city council chamber and the parks commission later will move to the city manager's office to take up its remaining business.

CLIFFORD

ther the hawk or dove side of the Vietnam question.

"I am not conscious of falling under any of those ornithological divisions," said the tall, handsome Clifford to reporters probing for his position.

However, Clifford is regarded in knowledgeable quarters as a hard-liner on the war. Some sources said he has opposed any extended bombing pauses as a means of encouraging the North Vietnamese to talk peace.

His advice to Johnson is believed to have weighed at least as heavily as McNamara's in some of the major decisions of the war, sources said.

Clifford has served Johnson as chairman of the Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board, the Foreign Relations Advisory Board, and on special missions such as a tour of Southeast Asian and Pacific nations last summer to try and drum up more allied troop support for the war. That mission was rated a partial success.

Before Johnson, Clifford served Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman and John F. Kennedy in varying capacities. Among other things, he helped draft the legislation that unified the armed services two decades ago.

Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said Johnson made "an excellent choice."

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee, said, "I am confident the defense of the nation will be in good hands."

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., a chief congressional critic of Johnson's war policy, said he was pleased and thinks Clifford will keep "an open mind."

Thieves Take Furs And TV In Tiburon

Four burglaries including the theft of a $200 television set, a mink coat, and fur stoles from a Tiburon area apartment were reported today by sheriff's deputies.

Officers said burglars forced the front door of the apartment of Angela Disideri, 16 Salt Landing, the Cove apartments, Wednesday night. The said a pipe wrench may have been used to force the doorknob, a method of burglary much-used several months ago in the Alto area.

Value of the furs and other clothing taken was not estimated.

Charles J. McNeil, 12 Crescent Court, Woodacre, told officers someone taped his kitchen window, then broke it for entry. Taken was an undetermined amount of dimes from a bank on the kitchen shelf, he said.

Burge's Drive-In Restaurant, 6017 Redwood Highway, Ignacio, told officers someone took about 35 curb-service trays, valued at $4.40 each wholesale, from under an outdoor counter Tuesday night.

Burglars forced a hasp on the door of the office trailer owned by Tresch Electrical Co., Novato, and parked at Civic Center Wednesday night. Officers said a pay telephone, a small rivet-type gun, and an electric drill were taken.

OBITUARIES

Charles F. Humphrey Dies At 59

Capt. Charles F. (Spud) Humphrey of San Anselmo, a San Francisco Bar Pilot, died early today aboard a water taxi ferrying him out to a ship he was to have piloted out to sea.

Humphrey, 59, apparently died of a heart attack.

A native of Manila, he lived in Marin for the past eight years at 72 Woodside Drive.

A lieutenant commander in the Navy during World War II, he served in the South Pacific. After the war, he was a Navy pilot at Mare Island, then served as a deck officer and captain with Tidewater Oil Co. He became one of the 25 local bar pilots in 1958.

He was a member of the Marin Historical Society.

He is survived by his wife, Joanna; a daughter, Mrs. Diane Vezzalia of Lafayette; a grandson, and a sister, Mrs. Richard E. Jenkins of Moss Beach, San Mateo County.

Funeral arrangements were pending at Anderson Mortuary, San Francisco.

Storer Sounds Tax Cut Plea In Sacramento

Storer spoke before the revenue and taxation committee of the County Supervisors Association.

The resolution, passed unanimously two weeks ago by the Marin County Board of Supervisors, says in effect that unless there is substantial relief for the real property homeowner early this session, the Marin supervisors will request a special personal meeting with Gov. Ronald Reagan, Sen. John F. McCarthy and Assemblyman William T. Bagley.

"We have had it in Marin County," declared Storer. "This tax is regressive, oppressive and excessive, and has no place in its present form in a civilized society."

School District Plans Will Be Discussed Monday

Two Marin County Board of Education committees will meet at 7 p.m. Monday at the Marin County Superintendent of Schools office in Corte Madera.

The special education committee will discuss new plans for school districts, according to Asst. Supt. Stanley H. Friese.

Friese said that San Rafael, Novato and Dixie School districts have been considering adopting their own programs for retarded pupils.

This would mean reducing the staff, relocating classrooms and changing the summer school enrolment in the county program, Friese explained.

The administrative services committee will talk about letters from Napa Unified School District and the boards of education for Orange and Monterey counties on minor changes they favor in legislation, according to Deputy Supt. of Schools Charles F. McCully.

The education services committee will not meet this month.

Doctor Reports Narcotics Taken

Two burglaries including the break-in of a doctor's office were reported today by San Rafael police.

Officers said intruders Thursday broke a rear window of the building housing the office of Dr. Elizabeth Thornton at 711 D Street, to steal a small quantity of narcotics, an opened box of disposable hypodermic needles, and about 25 syringes, they said.

The burglars also exposed an estimated $150 worth of X-ray film.

Allen L. Oddle, 166 Wolf Grade, told officers Thursday that someone entered the home he shares with three other persons, then stole a $160 television set and $3 in change.

No forced entry was evident, he said.

QUADROS — In Mill Valley, Jan. 19, 1968, Leo J. Quadros, beloved husband of Dolores M. Quadros, loving father of Mrs. John Mercer and Mrs. Hoyt Whetzel and the late James Quadros, brother of Joseph of Novato and Tony Quadros of Mill Valley, Mrs. Alice Stevenson, Frank and Manuel Quadros of San Francisco, grandfather of six grandchildren. A native of Sausalito, California, aged 62 years. A member of Seapoint Parlor No. 198, NSGW.

Friends are invited to attend the funeral Monday, Jan. 22, 1968, at 9:15 a.m. from the Frank J. Keaton Mortuary, Sausalito, thence to the Star of the Sea Church, Sausalito, where a Requiem Mass will be offered for the repose of his soul at 9:30 a.m. Interment Mount Olivet Cemetery. Rosary services will be recited at 8 p.m. Sunday at Keaton's Chapel, Sausalito. (1/19-20)

IN MEMORIAM

NETTRO, ARTHUR "JIM" — In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, ARTHUR "JIM" NETTRO, who passed away JANUARY 20, 1963.

We often sit in silence
No eyes may see us weep;
But forever in our aching hearts,
His memory we will keep.

The call was short, the shock severe.
To part with one we loved so dear;
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts he liveth still.

'Tis sweet to know we'll meet again,
Where parting is no more;
And that the one we truly loved,
Has only gone before.

The flowers we lay upon his grave,
May wither and decay;
But love for him who sleeps beneath,
Will never fade away.

MRS. ROSE NETTRO and JO ANN NETTRO

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Unfaithful Wife Doesn't Deserve Loyalty From Unwilling Child

DEAR HELEN:

I saw my mother at a jewelry counter buying a man's watch. When I mentioned that Dad would sure be surprised, she said, "It isn't for him."

Then she made me swear to keep the secret and told me about "Martin." She got the $60 watch for his birthday, and she has gotten him other presents too, besides helping with his rent. She's been going out a lot lately and Dad thought it was to night school. The "tuition" Dad gave her is being spent on Martin.

I love my father, Helen. Should I hurt him by telling, or should I keep my promise to my mother? Actually, I said I wouldn't tell only because she was so upset, and I had my fingers crossed the whole time.

— IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR ITM:

An unfaithful wife certainly doesn't deserve loyalty from her children, especially when she blows her husband's money on the boy friend.

Tell your mother that she must either "quit night school" and stay home or your father will learn how she spends her "tuition" money.

DEAR HELEN:

How do you keep the boys interested in girls, instead of hunting or fishing or skiing or dragging Main with the gang, all male? These fellas seem to like my girl friend and me, but they're always doing something else on weekends. The sad fact is they like to talk with us at school, but they'd rather go out with the guys.

— FRUSTRATED AND DEPRESSED

DEAR F AND D:

Settle for talk until the guys mature a little, and if you show interest in hunting, fishing, skiing and old cars, they'll catch on about weekends faster.

If it helps any, how to separate the boys from boys is a problem shared by most teenage girls. Fellows aren't all that interested in dates, because of the problems they create, like: insecurity, uneasiness, getting into suits and going broke. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

For three years I've dreamed about this guy. He's eight years older than me, and I'm 16. I liked him so much I even began to plan my future with him, but he didn't see it that way. I guess he figured I was just a kid.

Now he is getting married in February, and my family is invited to the wedding. I just know I'll burst into tears or something and make a fool of myself. Must I go? I don't want him laughing at me.

— HOPELESSLY IN LOVE

DEAR HOPELESS:

Of course you needn't attend the wedding. But right now is the time to wake up from those daydreams. Find a boy friend your age (remember, you don't have to be wild about a guy to date him), and plan something special on that fatal day. You won't believe me now, but pretty soon he'll be just another memory from your growin'-up years.—H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Beth Ann Bailey Engaged To Richard Allan Nolen

Beth Ann Bailey's engagement to Richard Allan Nolen has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David H. Bailey of San Rafael.

Beth has two sisters, Dianna Lee Bailey of Sacramento and Janeve F. Bailey of San Rafael. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dada of Richmond are her grandparents. Beth is a Terra Linda High School graduate and attended College of Marin. She is employed with Sequoia Theater in Mill Valley.

Richard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Nolen of Klamath Falls, Ore. He has two brothers in Oregon. He was graduated from Klamath Union High School and attended Oregon Technical Institute. He served with the U.S. Navy for two years.

A September wedding is planned.

Non-Conformist, Rebellious Children Ignored In Vienna

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

In Vienna, non-conformists in schools are ignored, one reason why there are so few, says Gertrude Sandner, Commissioner of Education and Cultural Affairs for the Austrian city.

She was in the United States in connection with her roles in music and education.

"If we do something that makes young people think we are against the activities they consider normal during their period of revolution from 15 to 18, they feel like martyrs, attracting more students to their cause. If I say something is forbidden, they want to do it all the more."

But if they are left alone, their ranks diminish, she has observed.

In the usual class of around 30, there are two or three who come to school with long hair.

What difference does it make if they wear hair to their knees, she asks. It is an eyesore, but it isn't enough of a percentage for concern in her opinion. It is better not to neglect the majority by worrying about the minority. She's rather take the attitude that "this too will pass."

Miss Sandner permits young people to rebel to the full extent of the law. After that discipline is invoked. But they've never had anything like a sitdown strike.

Many Russian and London public school children wear uniforms and that's one answer to unconformity in dress, Miss Sandner points out.

"The difficulty is that today's youth isn't kept busy. In households everything has become mechanical, so he is deprived of the opportunity for routine chores that filled in time gaps for other generations. He is searching for ways to occupy his time."

Everywhere parents and communities must provide answers to absorb children's free time in her opinion. In Vienna, they have special theaters for youths, providing entertainment suited to various ages grouped 9 to 11, 10 to 14, 14 to 20. Four times a year children visit town halls for concerts. Students purchase low-cost tickets for 15 good plays.

Miss Sandner is surprised at the tensions of American parents in respect to education — something that should be taken in stride, in her opinion. It would seem that parents' pressures might make school distasteful to some students.

She praised schools that she toured in Washington and in Connecticut where she discovered that more money is spent on students in Vienna than in the well-to-do community of Wilton, Conn. The Vienna figure is the equivalent of $80,000 a year for a 30-pupil classroom, not including teachers salaries. They do not keep an estimate on a per pupil basis but, it would be far higher, she says, than Wilton's $783 per pupil.

Last year she spent $50,000 for pictures that go into classrooms. About 6,000 pictures rotate in the Viennese school system as part of a cultural effort to acquaint young people with good art.

The Vienna education aim is much like that of Wilton's she says — to develop the child's potential so that he can help himself. But the education set-up is different. In Vienna a child must choose at 10 whether he will take the 9-year-road to the University or a 5-year road. But he can change his mind. Every student is entitled to receive financial aid from the government if it is needed for higher education, she says.

Americans could improve education — and realize their goal of creating good will over the world — by beginning foreign languages earlier in schools, she observes.

"In Russia, they spend a great deal of money for language and science laboratories. Children speak flawless German and I've heard 11-year-old students discuss Africa in flawless English."

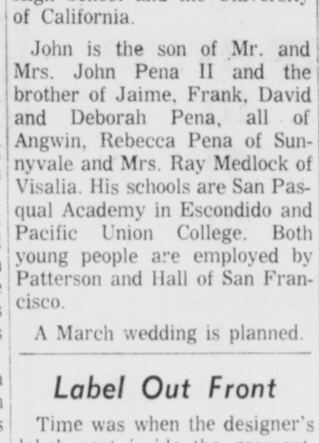
The Lighter Side

CHICAGO (UPI)—Safety is serious business, but it can have its lighter side.

"Family Safety," a publication of the National Safety Council, reported this incident. A woman called the state patrol office in Jonesville, Mich., and asked about road conditions. Told that the roads were "slippery but passable," she replied, "Oh, I don't want to pass anyone. I just want to follow."



KAY DOROTHY KINCAIDE

Dorothy Kincaide Engaged To Wed John P. Pena III

Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Kincaide of Fairfax have announced the engagement of their daughter Kay Dorothy to John Pena III of Daly City.

The future bride is the sister of Mrs. Truman Bruce of San Luis Obispo and Richard Kincaide of Corte Madera. She is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and the University of California.

John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pena II and the brother of Jaime, Frank, David and Deborah Pena, all of Angwin, Rebecca Pena of Sunnyvale and Mrs. Ray Medlock of Visalia. His schools are San Pasqual Academy in Escondido and Pacific Union College. Both young people are employed by Patterson and Hall of San Francisco.

Label Out Front

Time was when the designer's label went inside the garment. But today, the "in" thing is the label or a hint of it anyway in the outside. Name designers such as Adele Simpson, Donald Brooks and Bill Blass put their signatures on scarves as part of the overall pattern. This spring, the firm of Originala used belt buckles in the shape of a large "O" on its vest suit jackets.

MRS. WILLIAM D. McGREGOR

Panhellenic President Is Den Mother

A past president of the Alpha Chi Omega Marin County Alumnae Club, Mrs. William D. McGregor of San Rafael is the new president of the Marin County Panhellenic. She has been first vice president and recording secretary of the organization.

Panhellenic, formed from two delegates from each active sorority alumnae group in the county, plans a punch party later this year for high school junior and senior girls to acquaint them with sorority life and rushing procedures on different campuses. Barbara McGregor has also been Northern California rush chairman for Alpha Chi Omega.

Mrs. McGregor was graduated from Berkeley High School and the University of California. A Marin resident for 14 years, she has helped with Girl Scouts and is a den mother and member of the Church of the Nativity Episcopal Churchwomen.

She enjoys meeting and talking with the girls here in the county and learning of their activities, interests and goals in life. She sews for her daughters Katie and Beth and for herself. She has a son, Billy, 8.

Other officers serving with Mrs. McGregor are Mrs. George Fay of Alpha Delta Pi, first vice president; Mrs. Raymond Zanzot of Alpha Gamma Delta, second vice president; Mrs. Peter Skaer of Alpha Omicron Pi, recording secretary; Mrs. Ward Patterson of Alpha Phi, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Werner Martin of Alpha Xi Delta, treasurer, and Mrs. Herbert Rowland of Chi Omega, publicity.

Cotton Brocades Good For Evening

By EUNICE FARMER

Please discuss suitable fabrics for formal evening wear during very hot weather. We are going on a cruise, and I also wonder if I must wear a long dress? — MRS. MIDDLE-AGED, BUT SLENDER

DEAR MIDDLE-AGED, BUT SLENDER:

Your signature gave me a laugh and a lift. How nice to be slender at any age!

There are so many beautiful fabrics today that actually are difficult to define as to the contents. There are gorgeous cotton brocades, cloques, and ottomans. There are lovely imported fibrannes (100 per cent rayon and acetate) that pack beautifully and have the appearance of silk.

Many of the new crepes are 100 per cent polyester, and have the texture and look of the heavy pure silk crepes. Your choice today is almost unlimited and anything seems to go.

At one time the handscreened cottons were used basically for casual wear. Today, we find these in very glamorous designer evening gowns.

I haven't been fortunate enough to have gone on a cruise, so this information is second-hand. If you are traveling first class, a long gown is in order and is usually worn to the captain's dinner. The type of evening wear you take along on the cruise depends on your own preference of dress. Therefore, you can pack both long and short evening dresses.

Going on a cruise sounds very exciting but if you decide to follow the President's advice to stay home, it will give you a chance to start your spring sewing early. If any sewing problems or questions show up as you do, send them to Eunice Farmer in care of this newspaper.

Mrs. Marvin Garrell, Culver, Kan., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.

"My son had some bones broken in his foot and had to wear a cast for several weeks. I ripped the inside seam of several pairs of his jeans as well as his good dress pants and inserted a 22-inch zipper. The pants slipped over the cast easily and when zippered, looked very neat. When it came time to remove his cast, I simply removed the zippers and stitched up the seams again. It really worked!"

DEAR EUNICE,

Please give me directions for lowering the French dart. — Mrs. K. M. R.

DEAR MRS. K. M. R.:

For the benefit of our readers who are not aware of the term French dart, this is a dart that begins at the side seam and ends at the bust in an angle. This type of dart is best suited to a youthful figure and doesn't usually have enough dart control for a full figure.

We have experimented with several methods of lowering the French dart and find the easiest way is to simply lower the point of the dart to the corresponding measurement of the tip of your bust.

To re-mark the dart lines, use a ruler and draw a line from each side of the wide portion of the dart to nothing at the new point. You may also find that the dart extends too far into the garment, especially if you are fairly large. This can also be shortened to fit your own figure.

Pattern adjustments are made easy for you in Eunice Farmer's illustrated booklet "Your Pattern and You." For your copy send 25 cents, and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Eunice Farmer in care of the Independent-Journal.

Marin Women

ON THE AGENDA

Marin Businesswomen To Hear Women's Legislative Advocate

Ruth Church Gupta, legislative advocate of the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, will be the speaker at the Marin County Business and Professional Women's Club legislation meeting on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Inn Marin (formerly Cherish Inn), 320 Strawberry Town and Country Village.

Mrs. Gupta is an attorney in San Francisco, past president of the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, and a member of the National Air Conservation Commission. She is also a member of the California Constitutional Revision Commission and has been since it was established.

Mrs. Robert Miller, legislation chairman, will present the program, and Salle Seaman Soladay is co-chairman. Reservations chairman is Mrs. Gerlinde Emadin, 228 Laurel Place, San Rafael.

"THE AGE OF ELEGANCE," a showing of authentic fashions from 1860 to 1918, is on the program for the luncheon to be given at 12:30 p.m. Jan. 31 by the Women's Auxiliary of the Corinthian Yacht Club.

Presenting the show will be Fashion Collectors, Ltd., under the direction of Mrs. Richard Phillips of Sausalito, with "ladies of the promenade" from her organization modeling.

Mrs. Arno Masneri is program chairman, Mrs. Cecil Pharris, hospitality chairman, and Mesdames Masneri, Pharris, Albert MacCarthy, and Harris Johnson, reservations chairmen.

THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH of San Anselmo will honor Janet Holmes of San Anselmo at the "Singspiration Hour" tomorrow following the 7:30 p.m. worship service. Janet is leaving early in February to attend the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome. She will study Latin, Greek, history and archaeology and will make several field trips through Italy and Greece. Janet was awarded an Old Dominion Scholarship and a National Defense Education Act loan to further her studies abroad. In June she will return to her senior year at University of California where she is studying to teach Latin and German.

HENRY B. GRANDIN JR. of Ross is chairman of the Marin County Girl Scouts' annual sustaining membership enrollment, which is under way and will continue through Jan. 31. Sustaining members make Girl Scouting possible for more girls, supplementing United Bay Area Crusade support.

A DOMINO TOURNAMENT for members of the Tiburon Peninsula Club is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Arno Raynor is chairman.

A PUBLIC INSTALLATION of officers of Mill Valley's Blythedale Rebekah Lodge 305 will be held on Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in the Odd Fellows Temple, Mill Valley. A business session will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Peggy Dahl, district deputy president of District 61, will be the installing officer.

Officers are Mesdames Paul Hughes, noble grand; Charles Norris, vice grand; Peggy Dahl, recording secretary; Bill Williams, financial secretary; Albert Hughes, treasurer, and Pearl Howard, trustee. Appointed officers will be named at the installation.

Mrs. Eva Frazier, who had served as financial secretary for 17 years, and Roy Wright, who had served as recording secretary 11 years, were honored by the lodge at the last meeting.

DOUBLE-TAKE ON TWIGGY

British fashion model "Twiggy" — Lesley Hornby — wears a "Bonnie" style 1930s jumper suit in London as she poses beside a photo of herself in a "Clyde" style outfit. She was presenting her summer collection in London. The styles are from the movie "Bonnie and Clyde," based on the lives of gunmen Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker in the 1930s.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

By MOLLY MARIN

Looking forward with special interest to the World Affairs Council benefit premiere of "Dr. Dolittle," are Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Rowley of Belvedere. Two years ago they visited the village of Castle Combe in England. The beautiful little English village, built around a manor house, with its river, bridge and old houses was, Mrs. Rowley said "Like stepping into the past." Nate Rowley, self-styled "Sunday Painter," did a water color of the village, during the time the Rowleys stayed in the manor house, which has been turned into a small private hotel. The charms of Castle Combe attracted the interest of movie makers and it was chosen to be the village of Dr. Dolittle in the film. The Rowleys will attend the opening performance at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday at the United Artists Theater in San Francisco, with Miss Olive Featherstonhaugh of Belvedere as their guests. They will also go to the cocktail buffet, arranged by the World Affairs Council before the premiere, at the Fox Plaza.

LESLIE BRICUSSE, who wrote the score for "Dr. Dolittle," and his wife, actress Yvonne Romaine, will attend the pre-performance affair, as will Cheechee, the chimp, who has a major role. The "push me, pull you," famed double headed llama, will be wearing two black ties for the reception. A reservation has also been made by a real Dr. Dolittle, Dr. Robert Doolittle of San Leandro.

Among those attending from Marin will be Merritt Ruddock, who is director of the World Affairs Council of Northern California, and Mrs. Ruddock, of Belvedere, Mrs. John C. Lyman of Ross, and Messrs. and Mesdames Glenn C. Bassett of Tiburon, Charles Detrich, of Sausalito, Ralph Dewey of Belvedere, W. F. Funk of Belvedere, George C. McCabe of Sausalito, Ivan White of Strawberry and Howard Elting of San Rafael. Mrs. McDonald Denman of San Francisco, formerly of Mill Valley, is reservations chairman.

THE LITTLE Jim Club of Children's Hospital will honor the 1968 Queen Candidates at a "hobo brunch" which will take place at the Anchor Steam Brewery, 541 8th Street (down by the railroad tracks) tomorrow. Hobo garb will be worn by the guests and the menu will consist of "mulligan stew," biscuits and steam beer. The 10 Mardi Gras Queen Candidates are all deep into their campaigns and it can be safely predicted that conversation will be concentrated on the queen race.

A PIONEER Marinite will celebrate her 90th birthday Sunday. Mrs. Jennie Dawson of Pt. Reyes Station first came to Marin from San Francisco as a small girl, when her family camped in the Larkspur Canyon in the summer months. Later her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Perry, moved to Corte Madera, buying the former Sausalito School and remodeling it into a home. From here she attended high school and San Francisco Normal School in the city. She taught at the Bolinas School 67 years ago and several of her former pupils still live in West Marin. She now lives with her daughter, Mrs. Perry McDonald, in Pt. Reyes Station.

MR. AND MRS. Andrew S. Dewing (she is concert pianist Janet Graham) will be hosts at a musicale tomorrow at 3:30 at their home in Kent Woodlands featuring soprano Sarah Fleming (Mrs. John Schickling) of San Anselmo. She will sing compositions of Handel, Beethoven, Wolff, Ravel and Menotti, accompanied at the piano by William Clark of Ross. The hostess will play the Beethoven sonata in E flat. Guests in addition to the singer's husband will be Dr. and Mrs. Constantine Bricca, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Albritton, Mrs. Tom Kent and Henry Drath of Kent Woodlands, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nelson of Ross, Wilbur F. Russell of San Anselmo, Mr. and Mrs. Willem Wegman of Mill Valley, Miss Rosemund Hagney of Hillsborough, Mesdames Robert Gage Burmister and Lester Roth of San Francisco and Messrs. and Mesdames Alvin Fabris and Henry Mass and Mrs. Helen Sizer of Berkeley.

THE JOHN FINNS III had a birthday dinner party Thursday night at their home in Mill Valley for their daughter Ferris. Guests were Jill Baucom and Michael Chirco. Afterward they took the young people to a theater in San Francisco.

A NUMBER of dinner parties are being given tonight preceding the program "An Evening with Edna St. Vincent Millay" at the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts.

Entertaining are Messrs. and Mesdames Arlie Backlund, Carl Mosher, Benjamin Dreyfus, Arne Anderson and Albert White of Mill Valley, Mrs. Joyce Enright of San Rafael and Mrs. and Mrs. Kenneth Erickson of Terra Linda.

KATHY LOU WOLLAM

Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Rangell of Novato are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Kathy Lou Wollam to George Franklin Smith Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Smith Sr. of Oakland.

Kathy is the sister of Mrs. John Kource of Bangkok, Thailand and Mrs. Fredan Alfonso of Hawaii. She was graduated from Novato High School and is attending St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing.

George is the brother of Mrs. James Burruss of Oakland and Bonnie and Nishia Smith of Montgomery. He was graduated from Fremont High School in Oakland, and is in the Air Force.

Lynne Honsinger Plans April Wedding To Anthony Piazza

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Honsinger of San Rafael are announcing the engagement of their daughter Lynne to Sgt. Anthony Piazza.

The bride-elect is a graduate of the San Rafael High School, attended College of Marin and is employed at McGraw Hill Publishing Co. in Novato. She is the sister of William Honsinger of Marysville.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Piazza of Buffalo, N.Y., and the brother of Sgt. Vincent Piazza of Otis Air Force Base.

He is a graduate of Seneca High School in Buffalo, and has attended the State University of New York at Buffalo. He is now weather observer with the 35th Weather Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base.

A wedding is planned on April 20.

Near-Sightless Get Help From Library, Club

Some people who have all but given up reading because of severe sight problems may be reading again this year, thanks to the Mill Valley Lions Club and Mill Valley librarian Dorothy Thomas.

The Mill Valley library now has a set of 60 books printed in special oversize type for the enjoyment of persons whose sight has weakened.

Mrs. Thomas initiated the project in October when she heard of a similar project elsewhere in Northern California. She called the Mill Valley Lions to suggest the project because the Lions concentrate their civic efforts on sight aids and help to the blind.

Investigation showed a potential demand for the books, and after delays for delivery and processing the books went into circulation this week.

The books, well-designed and printed by Keith Jennison Books, in type approximately ¼ inch tall, include a wide and lively variety of titles.

Twain, Hemingway, Steinbeck, Shakespeare and Jack London are among the authors, and titles by others include "Pinocchio," "Funeral in Berlin," "Sherlock Holmes' Greatest Cases," "Kon-Tiki," "Walden" and "Catcher in the Rye."

Marinwood Has Seats Open For Trip To Opera

The Marinwood Recreation Department still has reservations open for anyone who wants to attend the San Francisco Children's Opera presentation of "Little Red Riding Hood" at Marine Memorial Auditorium on Jan. 28.

Other winter recreation activities still open for signups are:

Conversational German on Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m., and round table short story discussion on Wednesdays at 10 a.m. Instructor for both classes is George Hewitt of Berkeley. These courses will begin Jan. 31.

Judo for 6-year-olds and up is held on Thursdays at 3:45 p.m., and tumbling for 3- to 5-year-olds on Thursday at 3 p.m.

Adult sewing class at 1:30 p.m. on Tuesdays still has some openings. Children's sewing classes are full, said Gordon.

Witchcraft Comedy To Open In Tiburon

"Bell, Book and Candle," the comedy about modern-day witchcraft written by John van Druten, will be performed at 9 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, Feb. 2-24, at the Main Street Theater, Tiburon.

Phillis Courtney of Ross, John Hawkins of Novato, Jim Menlove of San Anselmo, Richard Maurice of Tiburon and Ernest Mendenhall of Belvedere will play the leading roles in the play directed by Dan Totheroh of Mill Valley. The theater is located at 41 Main Street.

DRAMA REVIEW

'My Three Angels' Has A Good Opener

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

"My Three Angels" is a perfect piece for amateur theatrics and last night the Terra Linda Little Theater gave it a commendable opening night reading.

On the whole the cast showed firmness in lines and a much faster pace than is usually seen from a non-professional company.

All the ingredients for a laughable evening are in the script, which won the play praise on Broadway and was followed by an equally successful film.

The fairy-tale story line is simple: Three convicts come to the aid of a family faced with financial ruin from a rather shady cousin.

Playing the trio is John Peebles as Joseph; Richard Sparapany as Jules, and Don Maritzen as Alfred. Peebles holds the other two together well in doing social justice in the spirit of Christmas. If anything, they were a little too clean cut. Angelic yes, but hardened no.

Adding to their unit strength was Jessie Diffley as Emilie Doucotel. She delivers lines well. Her husband, Felix, was played by Harold King, who at times caught the spirit of a man occasionally too honest for his own good.

The romantic leads were taken by Betty Jarboe as Marie Louise, the couple's love-stricken daughter, and Richard Rowland as Paul. Starting out a little shaky, both gained confidence as action proceeded.

Taking the role of Henri Trochard, the Scrooge of the story, was Joe Bologna, who needs to check overacting. Mary Diederich took the role of Mme. Parole, who also verged on overplaying.

As in past plays, the Terra Linda troupe assembled an excellent small set, showed taste in the 1910 costumes and ran a good light board.

With the straightening out of a few fluffs here and there, the cast, headed by Sparapany as director, should enjoy a good run.

The play continues at 8:30 p.m. today, next Friday and Saturday nights, Feb. 2, 3, 9 and 10 at the Church in Ignacio.

CONCERT REVIEW

Symphony Late Debut A Success

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

A splendid concert version of Gluck's opera "Orfeo et Euridice" sung in Italian marked the long delayed start this week of the San Francisco Symphony season at the Opera House.

Last night's triumph was shared by the orchestra directed by Josef Krips, the Stanford University chorus of some 200 voices trained by Harold C. Schmidt and three superb vocal soloists.

GLOWING ORFEO

Most impressive was the glowing warmth of English contralto Janet Baker singing the major role of the great mythical musician Orfeo, whose skill and love for his beautiful wife, Euridice, is enough to move the gods and conquer death.

The voice of the Spanish soprano Pilar Lorengar with its silvery ringing high notes was so good for Euridice that one wished this role could have been of equal importance with that of Orfeo. The rising young American soprano Shelia Marks had a youthful clarity and beauty of tone.

ORCHESTRA ANSWERS

Heavy demands were made on the string sections and were fully met throughout the performance, indicating that there must have been some intensive individual practice during the long silent period before settlement of the dispute. In the first act, however, playing was too loud at times to permit the finer nuances of Miss Baker's singing to be heard.

Well trained in the finer points of choral technique, the chorus was equipped with a wide range of dynamics in expressing the varying moods of shepherds, nymphs, spectres, furies and heroes and heroines. The soprano section's being too strong occasionally for perfect blend was the only noticeable flaw.

Alonzo Baker Will Open College Lecture Series

Subjects of the College of Marin concert-lecture series will range from politics to drugs, ethics, learning languages, a concert trio.

First in the winter-spring series will be Alonzo L. Baker speaking on U.S. domestic and foreign policy in "What's Right with America? Almost one acre of land afford complete privacy for this two year old, architect designed home in Tiburon with a captivating view of S.F. and the Bay. The master bedroom has a separate dressing room — large enough to double as a nursery or a sitting room; two more bedrooms, a dining room, family room and den or library. Just listed and we think that it is truly exciting value at $51,500. See for yourself!

● YES ●

It would be smart to see why we've sold 7 houses out of 8 as soon as they were completed. And the lowest priced one is left for you. Architecturally stunning, huge view, surrounded by tall trees, finished in bold woods, 35 ft. living room, castle-sized fireplace, and the builder may RAISE his price from $39,500.

FOR THE BIG FAMILY

Can you use four or five bedrooms? Maybe even more: it will depend upon how good you are at making use of space. This home offers 2 bedrms.; tile bath; roomy kitchen; dining rm.; living rm. with fireplace; and big sun porch. All on one level, with about the same space downstairs. Presently this space is used for a single garage; a ½ bath; a shop; and a huge summer kitchen. The lot is approx. 90 x 140 with some fruit trees and is all useable.

The location is easy walking distance to school, shopping, and bus and offers ideal weather.

The present owner had this home built less than 20 years ago and has babied it ever since: It's perfect.

A RARE FIND

The perfect combination. Imagine used bricks with redwood shakes on a sunny knoll with just enough trees for summer shade, a block or two from the library and a short distance to church, shops, theater, and bus. The charming cottage offers 2 bedrooms, a tile bathroom, a cozy living room with fireplace, and a neat kitchen with dinette adjacent. Hardwood floors in all rooms. Garage attached. The lot is spacious enough for expansion if one wishes and has ground cover for easy upkeep.

This perfect combination of brick and redwood, in its setting of trees, so perfectly located can be yours for

THE GOOD LIFE
Enjoy it in '68 in this custom-designed, 3-bedroom home with great character. The architect has provided for some dramatics in the use of a 2-story window set into the well of a cantilevered staircase. There's a wonderful all-purpose room, paneled and with access to a patio, which lends itself to quiet studying or parties. Wall-to-wall carpeting and draperies are top quality, and the landscaping is most attractive. Convenient, desirable neighborhood.

CONTRACTORS—DEVELOPERS.
18 acres zoned and approved for mobile park. This choice wooded site has over 1000 feet of river frontage with an area suitable for a boat harbor. An old 22-room Victorian mansion with elevator, would be perfect for club house, plus restaurant and bar. A main street with utilities and sewer front the property. A small shopping center and a service station site has been planned on a portion of the 18 acres. Most of the costly engineering plans have already been done, and asking price of $250,000, makes this an exceptional buy.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

Personality disorders among our senior citizens may be just as bothersome as the physical problems of old age. Emotional disturbances are not always dependent upon changes in circulation such as those that produce softening of the brain. They are traceable to how the oldster behaved during his earlier years. Men and women who have maintained a broad range of interests usually remain alert in later life.

In addition, it is easier to mellow with age if the young and middle years had been kind. Men and women blessed with good health as well as financial, emotional, and spiritual security, tend to accept the declining years gracefully and make the most of them. But those who never could adjust to adversity or who become upset over trivialities, generally do not undergo a metamorphosis as they get older.

IN OTHER WORDS, the groundwork for happiness during the golden years is laid long before. The arts of friendship and good companionship are difficult to cultivate after age 50 or 60. This is unfortunate because it is at this time these traits are important. The younger generation should keep this in mind and do their best to prepare for the time when life centers more about companionship, rather than competitive and sexual activities. Because this lesson is not learned soon enough, many individuals waste the early years of retirement trying to adjust.

We need organizations where the 50-year-old could go for an appraisal of his chances for happiness in old age. Such an agency might point out to a mother who is overly attached to junior why she ought to cut the silver cord and develop new sources of satisfaction from friends, books, and hobbies.

PARENTS WHO hammer away at how much they have sacrificed or insist upon a return of their investment will be disappointed. Unless this situation is corrected, mom and dad may be lonely in their old age when the children sever all ties of compainonship as well as dependency.

THYROID AND HEART

E. T. writes: Could an overactive thyroid gland lead to a fatal heart attack?

REPLY

Yes. Thyroid overactivity increases the heart action and causes irregularities of the beat. Unless the disturbance is corrected, the heart may go into a state of failure.

BLOODSHOT EYES

G. R. writes: What causes redness of the whites of the eyes?

REPLY

Conjunctivitis, irritation due to a speck or other irritant, overexposure to the wind, and overuse of eyes are the most common causes.

DIAGNOSIS OF CYSTS

G. Y. writes: How does a physician determine whether a breast cyst is or is not malignant?

REPLY

The only sure way is to take out the cyst and send it to the laboratory for examination.

CAUSES OF CLOTS IN VEINS

W. F. writes: What makes the blood clot in a vein?

REPLY

Injury, inflammation, or stasis (slowing of the circulation due to obstruction or inactivity).

HOW FUNGUS ENTERS EAR

B. E. writes: How does a fungus get into the ears?

REPLY

It floats thru the air.

Student Cleared In Draft Protest

A federal grand jury in San Francisco refused Thursday to indict Christopher L. Jones, 21, a student at the University of California, on the charge.

U.S. Attorney Cecil Poole also announced yesterday that he would ask U.S. Commissioner Harold Jewett in Oakland to dismiss a charge against Jones of failing to carry a draft card during the demonstrations. Similar charges against four other persons also would be dropped, Poole said.

Gas Chamber Order Voted

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Sacramento County Superior Court jury has sentenced Willie Curtis Miller, 40, to death in California's gas chamber.

Miller listened without visible emotion as the verdict was read Thursday. A juror said six ballots had been taken in 100 minutes of deliberation.

The sentence carries an automatic appeal to the state supreme court.

Missing Sailor Called Deserter

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Stephen H. White, 21, a sailor from Menlo Park, disappeared in January 1966 after telling a companion he was going for a swim in the ocean at Pomponio Beach.

Sheriff's deputies found his clothing and identification on the beach but there was no sign of White who was scheduled to return to naval duty at Norfolk, Va.

The FBI disclosed Thursday it was charging White with desertion after announcing he had been arrested Jan. 12 at Vancouver, B.C., by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Garbage Disposal Units Are Stolen

Someone took five garbage disposals valued at $225 and an installed toilet valued at $45 from the Country Club apartments at 980 Ignacio Boulevard, Novato, Albert Charles Menne of Petaluma, foreman of the construction job, reported Thursday to Novato police. The disposals were taken between 4:30 p.m. Wednesday and 8 a.m. yesterday.

The toilet was taken between Jan. 12 and yesterday, police reported.

JAZZ IN CATHEDRAL — New York's Episcopal Bishop Horace W. B. Donegan, famed musician Duke Ellington and Swedish singer Alice Babs bow heads for the benediction following Ellington's presentation of a jazz concert in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. (UPI Telephoto)

Cathedral Rocks To Duke's Jazz Concert

By DONALD E. MULLEN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Duke Ellington put music and choreography to the 150th Psalm last night as the Lord's "messenger boy" in America's largest church.

The Duke combined his orchestra with two choirs, soloists and dancers for a new sacred concert whose theme combined humility and joy in offerings from Down Home gospel to moaning blues to hard-driving and soaring swing that reverberated off the arched ceiling 120 feet above the audience.

'PRAISE GOD . . . DANCE'

His message of "Praise God and Dance!" was received with an ovation from the more than 7,500 persons jammed in the Episcopal Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine on Manhattan's upper West Side.

"I think of myself as a messenger boy," the smiling and obviously delighted Duke told the audience. "We shall keep this land if we all agree on the meaning of that unconditional word: Love."

It was Ellington's second sacred concert. His first, which made its debut in San Francisco's Grace Cathedral in September, 1965, received high praise from churchmen and music critics alike. Since then, he has repeated it in churches and synagogues at home and abroad.

The concert whose proceeds went to the Exodus House, a private project for rehabilitating young drug addicts, was commissioned by the Cathedral Church.

BISHOP EXPLAINS

The cathedral's bishop, Right Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, explained:

"A cathedral should be a place where creative people can express themselves, as well as a place where those who appreciate creative people can gather."

In a welcome to Ellington before the performance, Bishop Donegan told the audience, "The King James version of the Bible mentions 29 dukes. But not one seems to have displayed as much praise of God as Duke Ellington.

"And," he added with a smile, "if the spirit moves you at some time to express your praise—please feel free to do so."

AUDIENCE CLAPS

The audience did. On some of the driving, rhythmic numbers they clapped in unison or rocked until the cathedral's nave, stretching almost a tenth of a mile, was a sea of undulating heads. Even a small group of Roman Catholic nuns sitting in the press section did a little unobtrusive toe tapping.

The concert's opening and closing numbers were based on the 150th Psalm which exhorts, in part:

"Praise Him with trumpet sound; praise Him with lute and harp!

The ensemble did just that, with dancers in bright colored robes high stepping the length of the 600-foot aisle.

Swedish soprano Alice Bab's soaring voice went from classic reverence to a high-flying duet with Johnny Hodges' alto sax to a poignant minor toned blues backed by Cat Anderson on trumpet.

There was even a "Fire and Brimstone Sermonette" with the Duke warning of the "pitfalls, potholes, booby traps and snares" set up by the "competition," and socked home with a flashing drum duet by Sam Woodyard and Steve Little.

And, in "Don't Get Down on Your Knees to Pray Until You Have Forgiven Everyone," singer Tony Watkins winged it on a gospel beat with the Duke directing with one hand and encouraging the audience to clap with the other.

He obviously had no one left to forgive.

Grand Jury Indicts Suspect In Soldier's Apparent Execution

Joaquin Antonio Herrera, a wiry little immigrant from Central America, was indicted by the Marin County Grand Jury yesterday for the execution-style murder of a San Rafael Army cook.

The indictment, brought after three hours of testimony and deliberation, charges that Herrera, 23, of 1710 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, killed Sp/5 Ronald Lee Washburn, 20, of 90 Hoag Avenue. The body of Washburn, whose widow, Mary Kathleen, expects their first child next month, was found Jan. 9 in a vacant lot behind Herrera's apartment house.

"It sounds like an execution," Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said yesterday.

Testimony indicated that Herrera accosted Washburn outside his home the morning of the murder, as the cook prepared to leave for his job at the Nike missile site in Santa Venetia, Bales said.

Herrera handcuffed Washburn and drove him in the cook's car to the vacant lot, where he shot him four times — in the heart, between the eyes, in the ear and through the top of the head — Bales said.

One witness told the grand jury that Herrera was in Washburn's apartment the week before Christmas, just looking around, the district attorney said.

Another allegedly reported Herrera was at a sporting goods store the day before the murder to buy a replacement part for a .38 caliber revolver — the gun Bales claims is the murder weapon.

The district attorney said the alleged murder weapon and a set of handcuffs were found in Herrera's apartment after the murder.

Bales would not comment on a motive for the slaying, other than to say "it seems a jealousy motive would be better than others."

San Rafael Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa said, after the murder, that Washburn and Herrera's wife met two years ago — before either was married — but that he had found nothing to connect the two since that time.

Herrera is in the United States on a visa from El Salvador, living with his wife at the home of relatives near the spot where Washburn's body was found by an off-duty policeman walking his dog.

Washburn was last seen by his wife at 5:30 a.m. the day of the murder. When he failed to return home that night, she reported his disappearance to the police.

HEARING IS CALM

Novatan Turned Down On Land-Locked Lot

Novato property owner Paul Brindel, who feared "adverse witnesses" might cause some "rough stuff," did most of the talking and all of the arguing at yesterday's zoning hearing.

The "adverse witnesses" turned out to be three mild-mannered housewives, who sat at one end of the table, with two sheriff's men sitting between them and Brindel.

Zoning Administrator Thomas E. Cordill denied Brindel's request for a variance to permit a legal building site on a 17,198-square-foot lot near Maestro Road and Wilson Avenue in Novato. Brindel's lot has no frontage on any road, and only a 20-foot right of way easement to Maestro Road. A 40-foot right-of-way easement is required for a building site.

Three housewives who have property nearby objected to the building site because septic tank failures have already occured in the area.

Cordill announced he could not grant a variance because there is no deprivation of property rights and there is possibility of detriment to surrounding properties.

Brindel argued that the notices for the hearings on his application had been "inadequate and defective," and that yesterday's hearing set for 10:30 a.m. had been delayed until 11:17 a.m. He said he would appeal to the county planning commission, the board of supervisors, and ultimately "I will have to go to litigation."

The zoning administrator took under submission a request for a foot clinic, hospital and convalescent building in Santa Venetia next to the Marin Jewish Community Center.

Dr. R. J. Tikker of San Rafael wants to build the podiatric facilities on 1.76 acres of land on the south side of North San Pedro Road near Meriam Drive.

New Rights Call By Bishops

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's Roman Catholic bishops have told their faithful to work for the betterment of less fortunate Americans, saying "persistent poverty in this affluent nation can only breed bitterness and despair."

Two major problems, the bishops said, are inadequate welfare programs and unemployment which hit Negroes particularly hard.

The statement on human rights was made this week on behalf of the United States Catholic Conference by the Most Rev. John J. Dougherty, auxiliary bishop of Newark, N.J., and chairman of the U.S. Bishops' Committee for World Justice and Peace; and the Most Rev. John J. Wright, bishop of Pittsburgh, Pa., and episcopal chairman of the Social Action Department of the U.S. Catholic Conference.

The bishops said all men should strive to achieve the goals outlined in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights adopted by the United Nations 20 years ago "which as yet have been only imperfectly realized in our nation."

Although that declaration declared the right to feel secure in society, the bishops said, the United States is still struggling with the problem of poverty.

The bishops urged American Catholics to work with other citizens and with civic bodies to change laws and social-economic institutions where necessary to aid the underprivileged.

Kol Shofar Will Host Methodists At Friday Rites

Congregation Kol Shofar will host members of the Aldersgate Methodist Church of Terra Linda at an 8:15 p.m. service Friday at the Marin Jewish Community Center on San Pedro Road.

Conducting the regular Sabbath rites will be Rabbi Jacob Milgrom and Walter Hotzner. Minister of the Methodist church, Rev. Paul G. Schruman will deliver the sermon.

Before moving to its present headquarters, Kol Shofar used the church's sanctuary for services.

Rev. Miller Named Assembly Delegate

Rev. Aaron Garnet Miller, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Santa Venetia, has been elected to attend the annual Presbyterian general assembly to be held in May in Minneapolis.

Rev. Miller served for 20 years as stated clerk of the former Presbytery of the Redwoods. He has served in Marin pastorates for the past 18 years.

Oriental Philosopher Will Give Lectures

Alan Watts of Sausalito, a specialist on Oriental philosophy, will speak on the "Crown of Heaven: G. K. Chesterton," at 8 p.m. Thursday at Campbell Hall of Christ Episcopal Church, Sausalito.

His talk will be the first of three, with others scheduled Feb. 1 and Feb. 7. The fee series will be sponsored by the adult education department of the church.

Lesson-Sermon

"For in Him we live, and move, and have our being." This verse from Acts is part of the responsive reading of this week's lesson-sermon tomorrow on "Life" to be read in all Christian Science churches.

Church Schedules Annual Meeting

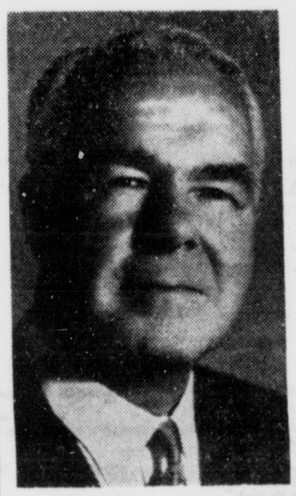
The annual congregational meeting of the Novato Presbyterian Church will be at 7:30 p.m., Sunday at the church on Wilson Avenue at Vineyard Road.

A potluck dinner will be held at 5:30 p.m. preceding the meeting.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be celebrated at the 9:30 a.m. service tomorrow.

To New Post

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—The Rev. A. J. Brakke, a member of the staff of the American Lutheran Church, Division of Social Service, for the past seven years, has joined the staff of Ebenezer Home Society in Minneapolis as the director of social services.



LECTURER — Geith A. Plimmer of London will present a lecture at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Old Mill School auditorium, 352 Throckmorton Avenue in Mill Valley. A member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, he will discuss "Christian Science: The Christian's Best Friend."

GUEST PREACHER — Dr. Gudon C. Oxtoby, former dean of San Francisco of the San Francisco Seminary in San Anselmo, will be guest speaker tomorrow and next Sunday at morning worship services at the First Prebyterian Church of San Rafael.

Youths Still Accepted For World Conference

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Baptist World Alliance reports there is still plenty of space available for young people wishing to attend the Baptist Youth World Conference in Berne, Switzerland, July 22-28.

However, a spokesman pointed out that reservations for the conference must be made no later than Feb. 1.

Guest Preacher

Dr. Theodore A. Gill, formerly president of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo and now director of the Joint Study Commission on Education for the World Council of Churches at Geneva, Switzerland, will be the guest preacher at both the 9:00 and 11:00 worship services tomorrow at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

Marinite To Position At Divinity School

Albert V. Whitehall of Corte Madera has been appointed director of development of the Church Divinity School of the Pacific.

Adjoining the University of California's Berkeley campus, the school is the fourth largest of eleven Episcopal seminaries in the United States, and the only one on the West Coast.

For the past 23 years, Whitehall has been active in the health care field. In 1945, he went to Washington, D. C. as director of the Washington Service Bureau of the American Hospital Association and in 1950, was also made an assistant director.

From 1952 to 1954, Whitehall was executive director of Washington Hospital Service, the Blue Cross Plan for Washington and Alaska. And from 1955 to 1961, he was director of health insurance of the Life Insurance Association of America, and a vice chairman of the Health Insurance Council.

ALBERT V. WHITEHALL
To seminary post

Since 1961, he has been executive director of the American Society of Internal Medicine, with national headquarters in San Francisco. During the latter months of 1967, he was a planning officer for the California Committee on Regional Medical Programs.

Whitehall began his career as staff attorney for the Chicago Daily News for nearly 10 years. He is a graduate of Chicago Kent College of Law, and of London Normal School, London, Ontario, Canada, with other education in Canadian schools and at Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois.

World Religion Day Is Slated By Marin Baha'i's

The Bah'i Community of Marin will observe World Religion Day tomorrow by having official representatives attend the worship services of over two dozen Christian churches throuhgout the county. Baha'is attended synagogue services last night.

World Religion Day has been sponsored annually for the past 18 years by the U.S. Baha'i Community. The theme of this year's observance is "Many Paths — One God."

Film On Berkeley

The film, "Berkeley — A New Kind of Revolution," will be shown at 7 p.m. tomorrow at the Marin Evangelica Free Church, Fifth and H streets in San Rafael. It was filmed by the Crusade for Christ.

Unity Octave Dinner Is Scheduled Tonight

Dr. James William McClendon Jr., former Baptist seminary instructor and now an associate professor of Protestant thought at University of San Francisco, will keynote Unity Octave 1968 at an 8 p.m. dinner today at Canoles Hall at the San Rafael First Presbyterian Church

His theme for the inter-faith dinner will be "What Kind of Unity Are You Looking For?"

Dr. McClendon, formerly professor of Systematic Theology and Philosophy of Religion at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary at Strawberry, is president of the Marin County United Nations Association.

A graduate of the University of Texas, he continued his studies at Princeton Theological Seminary, Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary and the University of California at Berkeley, where he did graduate work in philosophy. He also worked under a research fellowship at the University of Oxford.

The Unity Octave, in which five San Rafael Christian churches are participating, will include "Visiting Sunday" tomorrow from 1 to 3 p.m., in which the churches will be open to visitors of all faiths with members acting as hosts and guides.

The churches are First Methodist, 9 Ross Valley Drive; Trinity Lutheran, 333 Woodland Avenue; First Presbyterian, 1510 Fifth Avenue; St. Paul's Episcopal, 1123 Court Street, and St. Raphael's, 1104 Fifth Avenue.

Also scheduled tomorrow at 8 p.m. is the Junior-Senior Forum for high school students to be held at Trinity Lutheran Church. "How Do We See God?" is the discussion topic. Leaders from the clergy will be Rev. John K. Ring of St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Larkspur, Rev. T. Royal Scott of First Presbyterian and Dr. Philip F. Whitmer of First Methodist.

The annual ecumenical event will close Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Newman Center, 885 College Avenue, Kentfield, with members of all five faiths joining in a service of hymns, psalms and scripture readings.

Rev. Charles Robertson, Protestant student chaplain, and Rev. Philip O'Donnell, Catholic student chaplain, will discuss the aims and programs of the center.

DR. JAMES McCLENDON
Unity Octave speaker

Education Session

Religious education leaders from 15 western states, including Hawaii and Alaska, will meet Thursday and Friday at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary at Strawberry.

New Program Is Under Way

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI)—Girls in the 8,506 Assemblies of God churches throughout the nation have a new program developed just for them called Primary Missionettes, or "Prims" for short. The program is for seven and eight year olds.

Activities for Prims include Bible lessons, stories about children and customs of other lands, character-building stories, music, games, arts and crafts.

49ers Pick Proven Winner As New Head Coach

Dick Nolan Gets Five-Year Pact

Like the starved Chinese, the San Francisco 49ers started another five-year-plan yesterday.

If nothing happens on his birthdays, the next five years will be known as the Dick Nolan era for the title-craving, victory-starved 49ers.

Club president Lou Spadia announced the hiring of the 35-year-old Nolan, Dallas Cowboy defensive coach for the past five years, yesterday at a packed news conference in San Francisco.

DICK NOLAN
A Winning Record

Nolan was signed to a five-year contract, terms of which were undisclosed although speculation is that it runs near $177,000 over the time span.

The announcement ended a month-long search in college and pro ranks for a successor to Jack Christiansen, who was fired last month on his birthday after compiling an overall record of 26 wins, 39 losses and two ties in his tenure since 1963. He was 7-7 last year.

GREAT BACKGROUND

"Dick has a great background," Spadia said. "If he can't get the job done, I don't know who can."

"We made the change because we felt we needed better leadership and I think we have it," Spadia added.

The 49ers got a man who is in the winning groove and always has been as a player and a coach.

Nolan was a defensive back on the championship University of Maryland team of 1953, played eight years of defense in the National Football League, during which he helped the New York Giants win one NFL title and two Eastern Conference crowns, and in the past six years with the Dallas Cowboys has had a hand in their conference championships of 1966 and 1967 and in their near misses against the Packers in both years.

STEADY WINNER

"He has been a winner all his life," Spadia said hopefully, "I am very hopeful that his streak won't break."

If anyone can break that streak, San Francisco can do it.

Dallas coach Tom Landry, who has known Nolan both as a player and defensive aide, hailed the choice.

"He is an excellent coach and is well qualified," Landry said. "I wish him all the luck in the world."

Nolan will have a free hand in all decisions, according to Spadia.

"He'll run the show his way. We'll back him up all the way," Spadia said. "Our only restriction is he's not to draft a girl in the first round."

Nolan said he had made no decisions about assistant coaches or preparations for the upcoming professional combined draft in New York Jan. 30.

STUDY FILMS

He said that he had not talked to any 49er players yet, and said his first task would be to look at a lot of game films.

In response to questioning, Nolan said that certain points of offense have to be improved

NFL West Favored In Bowl

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 18th annual Pro Bowl football game, matching the favored West against the East, winds up the National Football League post season campaign tomorrow in Memorial Coliseum.

Good weather is in prospect but the NFL and the game sponsors, Los Angeles Metropolitan Newspapers, hardly expect the all-time attendance record of 72,250, established in 1959, to be threatened.

The affair, which brings together the best of the Eastern and Western Conferences, will be televised nationally via CBS, starting at 1 p.m., PST. Southern California will be blacked out.

The East has won the last two encounters, but trails the West 10-7 since the series was inaugurated in 1951.

The game promises to be a wild one, with the East to be guided by two of the league's wide-open quarterbacks, Don Meredith of the Dallas Cowboys and Fran Tarkenton of the New York Giants.

MORE CONSERVATIVE

At the helm for the West will be the more conservative, but equally exciting, Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts and Roman Gabriel of the Los Angeles Rams.

Game plans are generally simple due to the nature of the mixed personnel and shortage of training periods. But Coach Don Shula of Baltimore, handling the West, and Washington Redskin pilot Otto Graham of the East certainly are stocked with star talent.

Cerrudo Charges Back Into Contention

The birds were flying in the $125,000 Kaiser International Open Golf Tournament at the Silverado Country Club in Napa yesterday.

The birds fell for former PGA champ Dave Marr, for rookie Ron Cerrudo of San Rafael and for two-time U.S. Open champ Billy Casper.

Marr, who says he is trying harder and daydreaming less, added a three-under par 69 to an opening round 68 for a 137 total to take a one-stroke lead over Kermit Zarley of Seattle and George Archer of Gilroy.

Cerrudo, the San Rafael youngster in his first pro golf campaign, knew he needed a hot round to stay alive in the tourney after an opening-day 76. He got hot.

Cerrudo, who played the back nine first, finished with a four-under par 68, a round that included five birdies and a bogey, for a two-day total of 144, seven strokes off the pace. It was a methodically steady round which saw him birdie the 15th, 11th, 18th, 1st and 5th holes and reach all 18 greens in regulation play. He missed only one fairway.

Casper came on like gangbusters. He blistered the 6,849-yard North course for a record 65, in a torrid round that included eight birdies and a bogey.

Casper, who would up losing to Johnny Pott in a playoff in the Crosby Tournament last week, is now four under tand three strokes back of Marr.

Marr played the back nine first and recorded three birdies and a bogey, which was caused when he landed in a trap on the 412-yard 14th hole.

"I hit some bad wedges on the par-five holes," Marr said. "I was generally hitting on a line but they were short."

Marr lost Howie Johnson and Rex Baxter, who had shared the opening day lead with him. Johnson had a 73 and Baxter a

Alcindor To Play In Cage 'Natural'

By BOB GREEN

HOUSTON (AP) — The awesome UCLA Bruins were late for practice at the Astrodome yesterday, but Coach John Wooden promised they would try to make it on time for tonight's showdown against Houston.

"We'll try not to disappoint anyone," Wooden smiled after a slow plane and heavy traffic had delayed his nationally top ranked Bruins from getting their first glance at the 55,000-seat Astrodome.

The game, a natural if ever there was one, is a sellout and is assured of breaking all college basketball attendance records.

It will be televised nationally by Sports Network, Inc., beginning at 6 p.m. PST (channels 2 and 3).

UCLA, possibly the most outstanding college team ever put together, comes in riding a string of 47 straight victories, including last year's national championship triumph. Houston, ranked No. 2 in the nation, has a 16-0 mark.

SUPER STARS

Each has a super star, UCLA in 7-1 Lew Alcindor, he of the troubled eye, and Houston, in All-American Elvin Hayes, the Big E a 6-8 forward who is No. 3 in the nation in scoring.

Alcindor, player of the year last season as a sophomore, missed the Bruins' last two games because of an eye injury and still remained a very minor question mark.

He was scheduled for one more medical examination before the game but "at this moment I am anticipating he will play," Wooden said.

"It would take a reversal of his condition, a major change for him not to play."

Big Lew, the Bruins' top scorer and rebounder, took his first full workout in a week last night and showed no ill effects although he complained of some double vision.

"I'm sure he'll be in there," Houston Coach Guy Lewis said. "I sure hope so. The game would lose a lot of meaning if he wasn't."

HARD RUNNERS

Both teams use a hard running, fast break offense and both coaches said they planned no change.

"I think you could stay closer to UCLA by playing slowdown," Lewis said. "But you can't change your whole team in four days. We'll run with them."

He said he was equally worried about Alcindor and UCLA's deadly pressing defense.

"Alcindor makes it go," he said.

On most other aspects of the game Wooden and Lewis had divergent opinions.

"I haven't slept in three days," Lewis said. "I've never had a game affect me like this."

The laconic Wooden pointed out that "we try to get up more for conference games. You have to win those to get to the championship. And this is a non-conference game. There are, of course, other factors which lift this above the ordinary."

HOUSTON STRONG

And how do they assess their opponents?

"Houston is one of the physically strongest teams we'll play," said Wooden. "We have great respect for them and for Hayes. But on a given night we think we can beat any team in the country."

Lewis said "I can only go along with the consensus, which says UCLA is the greatest, but I don't think they are unbeatable. I don't think any team is unbeatable."

Then he surveyed the vast reaches of the Astrodome and murmured, half in jest:

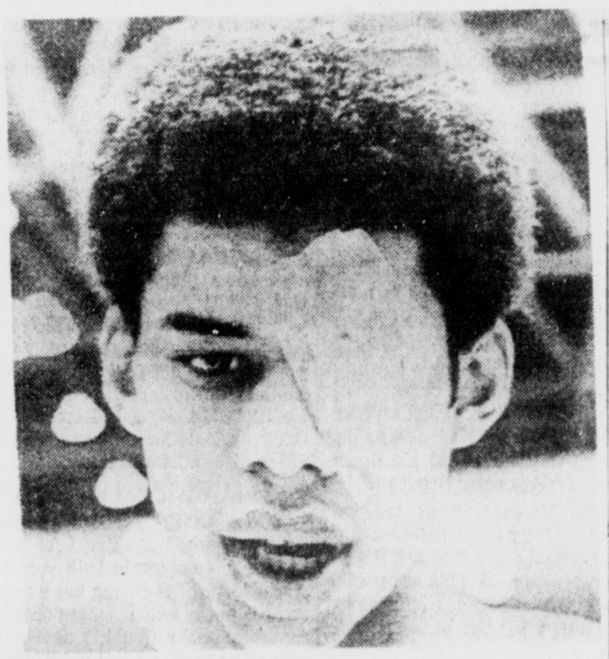
Harlem Globetrotters To Perform In S.F.

The barnstorming Harlem Globetrotters basketball team will perform in San Francisco's Civic Auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock.

The comedy team's opponents will be the Washington Generals. A vaudeville show will accompany the basketball feature.



LEW READY — UCLA's basketball whiz Lew Alcindor, his injured eye well on the mend, will play against Houston tonight in the nationally-televised college feature. (UPI Telephoto)

Marin Keeps Occult Winning Skein Alive

By KIMO CAMPBELL

For some occult and unfathomable reason, the College of Marin is unbeatable in the home gym of its biggest rival, Santa Rosa Junior College. The Tars, who haven't lost in Santa Rosa since 1958, did it again last night, gliding past Napa College 80-51 before about 150 diehard fans.

The Mariners outscored Napa 29-15 in the second quarter to put the game out of reach at the half, 43-22. Reserves played much of the second half as the entire squad saw action and 11 men hit the scoring column.

Russ Williams led the pointmakers with 16, mostly on long, stabbing jump shots from outside, while steady Tom Stetson had 15 and Chip Tyson 10.

The convincing win, the Tars' fifth in a row, strengthened their hold on first place in the Western Division of the Golden Valley Conference. Marin is 5-1 in GVC play to runnerup Santa Rosa's 3-2. Siskiyous is the loop's only unbeaten team and leads the East with a 4-0 mark.

PLATOON SYSTEM

Napa, without a strong starting five, played platoon ball throughout, but neither team could cope with the Tars. Football star Gordon Reese led the Chiefs' attack with 13 points and 11 rebounds.

Marin coach Cal Riemcke is "pleased with the way we've been playing, both tonight and recently. We've won a few and developed some momentum. The team has very good spirit, they've been unselfish, they pull for each other, pass off, and work very well as a unit. They've had some hard knocks but have come back from them well."

The Mariners, now 10-8 on the year, travel to Marysville next Friday to play Yuba and to Susanville Saturday for Lassen.

Thurmond Hurt, Out 6-8 Weeks

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors won the battle with the Philadelphia 76ers 131-120 last night but they may have lost the war.

Center Nate Thurmond, the Warriors' top rebounder and scorer, tore ligaments in his right knee late in the game and will be sidelined "a minimum of six to eight weeks."

Fred Hetzel or Clyde Lee will take over the center slot for the Warriors tonight when they meet the Los Angeles Lakers at the new Los Angeles Forum.

Loss of Thurmond definitely dampens San Francisco's chances to repeat as Western Division champion in the National Basketball Association. The Warriors are currently four games behind division leader St. Louis with eight weeks of the season remaining before the playoffs.

GREAT JOB

Thurmond was doing a great job on Wilt Chamberlain of the 76ers at the Oakland Arena until he injured his knee. Six of Wilt's 20 points came after Thurmond exited. Chamberlain snagged 27 rebounds to 23 for Thurmond but the Warriors outrebounded Philadelphia 95-69.

Thurmond finished with 18 points. A team spokesman said there was a possibility Thurmond may return to action for the playoffs if the Warriors are still in the running.

The injury occurred early in the fourth quarter as Thurmond was blocking an opponent. He said he thought Matt Guokas, 76er guard, ran into him but wasn't sure.

San Francisco was leading the 76ers by 23 points when the Warrior regulars left the game with 2:50 remaining. The victory was the third in four meetings this season for the Warriors over Philadelphia.

Guard Jim King of San Francisco topped all scorers with 26 points. Lee contributed 25 and pulled down 18 rebounds. Spunky guard Al Attles played a big part in the victory with 13 assists.

Bill Cunningham meshed 25 to pace Philadelphia whose lead in the Eastern Division was cut to half a game over Boston.

Champions Fizzle In L. A. Track

Not the world champion, Randy Matson? Not Tommie Smith, sprinter? Not Bob Seagren, pole voulter? Not Ralph Boston, long jumper, also world record holders?

No, it was George Woods, who got off a 66-5¾ bomb on his first put and it held up.

Matson? Randy for the first time since he was a freshman at Texas A&M, failed to qualify for the finals. His best was 60-4.

Tommie Smith got off to a bad start and finished third in the 440-yard dash in 50.0 to the 49.5 by winner Jim Kemp of the U.S. Army, formerly of Kentucky State.

SEAGREN SECOND

Seagren placed second in the pole vault to Erkki Mustakari, of Finland and Fresno State. Both finished at 16-6 but the Finn won on fewer misses.

Bob Beamon of Texas at El Paso, with 26-1¼, beat out Boston's best of 24-10½.

A crowd of 10,182, well under capacity, saw it all in the Sports Arena last night.

Favored Charlie Greene, ex-Nebraska, had to settle for a tie in the 60-yard dash at 6.1 with John Carlos, while still another USC grid hero, O.J. Simpson, was third in 6.2.

MEET RECORD

Veteran distance runner George Young captured the 2-mile in a fast 8:39.4 breaking his own meet record of 8:41.2.

Matson said that when Woods, 24, of the Pacific Coast Club of Long Beach, got off his first pop he began to press and could never match the mark. Randy said he wasn't interested in second or third. He wanted to win.

"With my long legs," said Tommie Smith, "if I get off wrong, I'm out of it. That happened. I didn't get a good start."

Boston, asked if there was anything wrong, grinned. "No, just me. I'm just not jumping. But it'll come around."

Woods, 24, a 6-foot, 290-pounder, raised in Sileston, Mo., and a graduate of Southern Illinois, had a previous best of 64-8 this season.

"I'm happy to win over Randy but I wish he'd had a better night," said the big fellow.

Marin Catholic Pulls Surprise

By GARY TISCHLER

While Drake faded.

And Terra Linda faded.

And San Rafael went down tough for the fourth time.

That, in effect sums up Marin County Athletic League action for the night of January 19, 1968.

It was a night that saw Wildcat coach Larry Fulton start his second team and wind up platooning in a mild upset of defending champion and fast-skidding Drake, 71-60, in the Marin Catholic gym.

It saw prime pretender to the throne Tamalpais overcome stubborn Terra Linda in the Trojans den, 77-61, on an avalanche of free throws.

NOVATO'S SURGE

It was Novato, dead-dead last in 1967, move into a tie for second place with Redwood by clipping San Rafael, 61-52, for a 3-1 loop won-lost mark.

And it saw the Redwood Giants, perhaps preoccupied with the league race, sloppily put away Washington of San Francisco, 50-36.

They, in particular Mark Carbone, Rich Tobin and Art Goepp, showed it on the court too as they outhustled Drake for a 9-8 first-quarter lead.

REGULARS RALLY

The regular five took over in the second and most of the third periods and worked Drake over for an 11-point advantage that spread to as much as 15 points. The Pirates, cold before a zone defense, still cut it to three points in the third quarter but never caught up.

Chief wild wildcat was guard Rick Garms, who knows where the hoop is. Against the Pirates, Garms put his intuition to good use, pouring in 22 points, all on fielders, on a variety of twisting drives, rebounds and jumpers in a quarter and half of play.

The game was another one of those whistle stops with 44 fouls called, most of them at the wrong time. Art Pla, who scored only four points, went the way of all toots, as did peppery guard Curry Miller for Drake, both fouling out.

ALVARADO HIGH

Don Alvarado with 14, Miller with 12 and Don Stone with 10 points topped Drake, now 2-3 in league play. The win gave the Wildcats a 2-2 mark and snapped a two-game league losing streak.

The league-leading and unbeaten Indians fell behind 20-15 to the game Trojans but a 22-8 bombarding in the third quarter did the losers in.

Tam forward Don Mackin, playing man-to-man on Trojan Pat Purcell, held the loop's leading scorer to seven points but John Thibedeaux took over for the Trojans with 17 points.

Springy forward Floyd Jackson knock in 25 points for the Indians who had three other players in double figures—Pat Schafer with 19, Leroy Barrow with 10 and Ron Small with 10.

27 CHARITIES

The Indians cashed in on 27 of 42 free throw attempts to make things easier, enjoying only a 25-23 field goal edge.

Novato, which didn't win a league game last season, won its third by overcoming a seven-point halftime deficit and pulling away to win, behind Ed Herrnberger and center Bob Tait.

The Hornets threw the ball away 13 times in the first half but settled down. Tait and Herrnberger split 36 points between them while Steve Durham waxed hot again for the Bulldogs, now 1-4.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG

CHECK LEFT KNEE AT DELIVERY

Bending the left knee as you deliver the ball is not one of the optional features of a good delivery. It is a must. True, the ball should be lofted over the foul line as you release it, but it should not drop from a height of more than a few inches. Knee-bending is something that a teammate can check you on. Either you are or you are not. If you do, you will look — and sound — more like a good bowler.

Raiders On Spot In All-Star Tilt

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —Fred Biletnikoff returns to the Gator Bowl tomorrow where once he has a super-star. But this time he'll be waiting in the wings.

Fearless Fred, who caught four touchdown passes for Florida State in the 1965 Gator Bowl, isn't even starting for the Western Division American Football League all-stars.

But you can expect to see a lot of action from the Oakland Raider end when the favored West takes on quarterback Joe Namath and the East all-stars at 10:30 a.m. PST. The game will be nationally televised (NBC).

PRIME TARGET

Biletnikoff is one of 11 Oakland Raiders on the West team—nine of them starters—and has been a prime target for starting quarterback Daryle Lamonica of Oakland all year. This could be a big factor in what is expected to be a passing battle.

If Biletnikoff is let down because he wasn't voted a starter by coaches around the league, he can always take a look at those old Gator Bowl films in which he and FSU quarterback Steve Tensi stood Oklahoma on its ear 36-19.

Biletnikoff will be playing behind split end Lance Alworth of San Diego, a perennial all-star, and flanker Al Denson of Denver. Rounding out the West backfield will be big fullback Hewritt Dixon of Oakland and halfback Mike Garrett of Kansas City.

WEST FAVORED

The experts say the Easterners haven't much chance of picking up the $1,000 each which will go to the winners unless New York Jets quarterback Namath has a prime day. Losers get $600.

Namath, the shaggy-haired sharpshooter who was paid a reported $400,000 to sign with the Jets when he graduated from Alabama three years ago, will be throwing to his three regular-season receivers. They are Don Maynard, George Sauer and Pete Lammons.

Both West coach Lou Saban of Denver and East mentor Joe Collier of Buffalo agree that the outcome could hang on Namath's versatile arm. Both also concede that Oakland's warmup loss to Green Bay in Miami gives the West a big advantage.

Woman May Get Jockey License

BALTIMORE (AP) — Kathy Kusner, like any red-blooded female, wants to attend the races attired in silk.

But, unlike other females, Kathy also wants to wear a number and carry a whip. In short, she wants to be licensed as a jockey.

The odds on the attractive 27-year-old rider reaching her goal shortened considerably yesterday when the Maryland Racing Commission reversed a previous decision and said Kathy should be given a tryout.

Miss Kusner, a lissome 103-pounder from Monkton, Md., is hardly a novice in the saddle. She has competed in the Olympics as a member of the U.S. equestrian team, and in 1960 was named horsewoman of the year in the show horse world.

But breaking into the "man's world" as a licensed jockey is another matter.

Kathy said she asked steeplechase officials for a license nine years ago and was told to "forget it" because she was a girl.

PASSES TEST

Last month, she applied for a license to compete in both steeplechase and flat racing but was turned down after telling the commission she wouldn't accept fees so as to retain her amateur standing. She passed a test breaking a horse from the starting gate before being turned down.

Grant Leads '500' Racers

RIVERSIDE (AP) — Twenty-four more spots were up for grabs today in the final day of qualifying for Riverside Raceway's Motor-Trend 500.

Jerry Grant of Escondido, drove a 1967 Plymouth 107.736 miles an hour around the 2.7-mile course for the top speed yesterday. His time, however, was below eight of the 10 qualifiers Thursday.

Trailing Grant was Bobby Allison, Hueytown, Ala., 107.688 m.p.h., and James Hylton, Inman, S.C., 106.415, as 10 qualified.

Dan Gurney, winner of the first four Motor-Trend races, grabbed the pole position Thursday with a run of 110.971 m.p.h. Winner of the $86,000 event should take home about $25,000.

Besides Grant, Allison and Hylton, those qualifying yesterday were: Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., 106.287 m.p.h.; Buddy Baker, Charlotte, N.C., 105.916; Dave James, Los Angeles, 102.955; Scotty Cain, Fresno, 102.315; John Sears, Ellerbe, N.C., 100.808; Ray Elder, Carruthers, 97.112, and Jim Cook, Norwalk, 95.905.

Tart May Not Join His New Teammates

COMBINED AP & UPI

TEANECK, N.J. — Levern Tart, the American Basketball Association's leading scorer, says he needs a few days to decide if he will join the New Jersey Americans.

Tart was traded to the Americans Thursday by the Oakland Oaks in exchange for Harry Leibowitz and a high 1968 draft choice.

FOOTBALL

CINCINNATI — Heisman Trophy winner Gary Beban of UCLA has been named the winner of the first annual Dolly Cohen Trophy to be awarded by the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame at a dinner March 6.

Beban, in addition to receiving the trophy, also will get a $1,000 scholarship for post graduate study.

A Jet's spokesman said Seiler apparently wanted to begin his military obligation instead of waiting to be drafted.

KANSAS CITY — The Kansas City Chiefs, restocking their American Football League roster following the Cincinnati expansion draft, yesterday picked up two stars from Denver who reportedly were in Coach Lou Saban's doghouse.

The Chiefs obtained running back Wendell Hayes and defensive back Goldie Sellers. Denver will receive Kansas City's No. 3 and No. 4 selections in the collegiate draft Jan. 30-31 and a player to be named later.

COOKEVILLE, Tenn. — Don Wade, an assistant coach at Clemson University, was hired yesterday as head football coach at Tennessee Tech.

Wade, a native of Lenoir City, Tenn., will replace Wilburn Tucker who was fired several weeks ago.

GOLF

Barnum, of Belmont, Mich., was defeated by Don Headings of Long Meadows, Mass., 2 and 1.

FREEPORT, Grand Bahama Island — Canada's Wilf Homenuik has shaken off a strong case of shaky putting to hold first place by one stroke going into today's third round of the Grand Bahama Open Golf championship.

Roland Stafford of Verona, Pa., shot a 70 to grab second place by two strokes over Bob Watson of New Rochelle, N.Y., and Glen Stuart of Grand Rapids, Mich. Watson carded a 73 and Stuart had a 71 Friday.

BOWLING

SAN JOSE — Mike Limonjello of Babylon, N.Y., continued to set the pace through 32 games with 7,567 points in the Professional Bowlers Association $50,000 San Jose Open.

BOXING

MONTREAL — Eugene Brousseau, 73, the only Canadian to win two United States amateur boxing titles, welterweight and middleweight, died.

upon but he refused to be drawn into a discussion of the tangled 49er quarterback situation involving the merits of John Brodie, George Mira and Steve Spurrier.

When the discussion turned to defense, Nolan lit up. He said the 49ers hadn't taken the ball away from their opponents enough last year.

"I am shooting for a better record than last year," he said.

Crosby champ Pott came back with a 68 for a 142 total, five strokes back. Bruce Devlin, who also figured in the Crosby playoff, barely made the cut at 147.

Good weather prevailed yesterday, after frost had to be cleared by helicopters. Tournament officials started half the third-round players at the first tee and half at the 10th to allow everyone to play in good weather.

Some of the players had to start early to finish their first round yesterday. It was too early for Randy Glover, who didn't finish on time and didn't get up on time.

Glover was among 39 golfers caught by darkness after a late start on the Silverado Country Club course Thursday. He reported that he had not been awakened in time yesterday and withdrew.

Among those who didn't make the cut was Bob Duden, who couldn't use his pendulum putter and took a 149. Also failing to make the grade were former national amateur champion Harvie Ward, at 149, Mike Souchak with a 153, and Art Wall and Frank Beard with 154 each.

Thirty golfers remain under par 144 for the two rounds.

Casper, who had a 75 first round trip, carded a 32-33 in a dramatic turnabout.

"I didn't have any touch at all yesterday but I really made a lot of putts today," Casper said.

Playing the back nine first, he dropped putts from 10 feet and 25 feet for birdies to start his round. After a par he added another birdie with a 12-footer.

On the front nine he dropped putts from 12 feet out on the first hole, 30 at the third, 15 at the fourth, four at the fifth and eight at the seventh while going over par only at the second when he missed the green.

Terra Linda Prep Boosters Slate Meeting

Winter sports will highlight the first meeting of the new year for the Terra Linda High School Trojan Boosters Association at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the school cafeteria, Booster President Bill Saleme announced today.

Bob Corley, Trojan athletic director and head basketball coach, along with wrestling coach Bob Hetherington and their staffs, will be on hand to discuss the necessity of conditioning and training of young men in these athletic programs.

Trojan basketballers will be seen in action on film and several of the Terra Linda wrestlers will put on a live exhibition of their sport.

Little League Sets Signup Dates, Times

Signups for the 1968 Marinwood-Lucas Valley Little League will be held Saturday, Jan. 27, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Marinwood Community Center. A second signup period, also at the center, will be on Thursday, Feb. 1, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The league is open to boys 8-13. Signup fees are $7.50 per boy — with a $15 maximum per family, no matter how many boys from the family participate.

Baseball League For Marinwood

A Senior Division Baseball League for boys 13-15 has been organized for the Marinwood-Lucas Valley area.

The league will take the place of the Pony League, the usual extension of Little League. The Pony League, which has operated in the area for the past several years, will not be active this season.

Players on high school and junior high teams are eligible to compete. While practices are to start earlier, the actual games will be played after the high school season ends.

Signups will be Saturday, March 2, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., at the Marinwood Community Center. A second signup, also at the center, will be held Thursday, March 7, 7-9 p.m. Fee is $7.50 per boy, $15 maximum per family, as in Little League.

Cal Reinstates Suspended Cager

BERKELEY (AP) — Cal basketball Coach Rene Herrerias says center Bob Presley, suspended from the team last Thursday for disciplinary reasons, will be reinstated next week.

The 6-foot-10½ junior will not play in the Bears' game against Portland in Harmon Gymnasium today, Herrerias said.

Cal's next games are on the road Feb. 2 and 3 against the Air Force Academy and Denver University.

Herrerias refused to give reasons for the suspension and reinstatement.

"The matter is personal in that it is a coach-player situation," he said, "and I feel that the violation involved and the penalty imposed are comparable."

Race On Radio

Radio KWUN, 1480 on the dial, will broadcast tomorrow's sixth annual Riverside 500 auto race. The broadcast starts at 10:45 a.m. and will remain through the finish of the race.

Marin's Best-seller on current events

You can learn a lot that's not in the books from your daily I-J. Unlike a text, it presents the texture of living events . . . the here and now of history drawn from the most exciting library — the world itself.

Each day, hundreds of news stories and articles bring you the mental stimulation of WHAT HAPPENED, where, how and why. Combined, they bring you perspective; they help you form judgements, enable you to act in an informed manner on public affairs.

And the range and scale is immense: From a new view of Rhodesia to a new bargain on chairs at your favorite store.

With the I-J you're not merely "taking the paper," you're subscribing to a liberal education . . . provided you read and think. All yours at a price which even includes personal delivery to your door.

Today is Saturday, Jan. 20, the 20th day of 1968 with 346 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and its last quarter. The morning star is Venus. The evening stars are Mars, Saturn and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1936, Britain's King George V died.

In 1965, Lyndon Baines Johnson was inaugurated for his first elected term as President of the United States.

Accurate Defense May Depend On Knowing Partner's Suit Lengths

Accurate defense sometimes depends on knowing how many cards your partner holds in a suit, and sometimes on how high those cards are. If he cannot tell both stories at once, your partner must decide which message is more important.

HEART LEAD

When West led the four of hearts a few months ago in the annual European Team Championships, declarer put up dummy's ace. East didn't know whether to say that he had poor hearts or that he had four of them. For some obscure reason he decided that the count was important and he therefore played the six of hearts, beginning a high-low to show an even number of cards in the suit.

Declarer led a club from dummy and played the queen from his hand. West won with the king of clubs and led another heart, assuming that his partner's signal had been encouraging and that East therefore held the queen of hearts.

MAKES GAME

Now declarer could not be beaten. He won with the queen of hearts and led the jack of clubs to force out the ace.

Even if the defenders switched to spades, South was sure to take 10 tricks.

RIGHT PLAY

East should have played the discouraging deuce of hearts at the first trick. The count was less likely to be important than the message that East could not encourage a heart continuation.

West would then shift to a spade on winning his first club, and the defenders would defeat the contract with two clubs and four spades.

Iowa Sues Firms On Antibiotics

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—An antitrust suit claiming price fixing on antibiotics by five major drug firms was filed in U.S. District court here Wednesday by the state of Iowa.

The firms named were Chas. Pfizer & Co. Inc.; American Cyanamid Co.; Bristol-Meyers Co.; Olin Mathieson Chemical Co.; and the Upjohn Co.

The suit seeks three times the actual damages that allegedly resulted to state institutions because of what were claimed to be price fixing practices by the drug firms.

What It's Like To Hear Rusk Off The Record

IT'S A PITY THAT everyone can't go to an off-the-record press conference with a high government official, at least once just for the experience.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk held one in San Francisco last week during his visit to these parts.

If you were to go, you would receive a phone call a few days ahead of time from a man you never heard of before. The caller would give his name, say he is "in the State Department," call you by your first name, and tell you that Secretary Rusk hoped you could attend a small breakfast he was giving at the Fairmont Hotel.

That's all the invitation you get.

WHEN YOU SHOW UP at the appointed time and place, you still wonder if it is some kind of practical joke. But uniformed and plain clothes guards at the door of the dining room indicate that it's not a joke.

Inside one of the Fairmont's plush meeting rooms you find half a dozen newspapermen (most of whom you recognize as long-time acquaintances) sitting around a table in the corner drinking coffee.

In the middle of the room a stately table is set. It is U-shaped. There are 21 places set.

YOU ARE INVITED to come at 8:30 a.m. You get there a couple of minutes early. No later than 8:35 Secretary Rusk appears at the door and without waste of time, effort or words begins introducing himself to each of those present.

He chats briefly with some whom he obviously knows from previous contact. These include William Randolph Hearst Jr., Hearst columnist-reporter Bob Considine, and former Sen. William F. Knowland, publisher of the Oakland Tribune.

Knowland greets Rusk as "Mr. Secretary," and Rusk lets Knowland know that a person of Knowland's stature doesn't need to "Mr. Secretary" Dean Rusk.

About 8:40(an aide indicates its time to be seated. Iced orange juice is on the table. It is pretty awful orange juice. It's either too old or too long in the can, or both.

AT 8:45 RUSK SAYS he will open with a few remarks of a general nature and then move along to questions and discussion. He does precisely this without wasting time on amenities.

His general remarks include recitation of "the ground rules."

Those present may NOT quote him on anything he says They may not report what he says as coming from a high government source, "highest authority," or any other such attribution.

Some things may come up, he says, which he will say to "forget you ever heard."

Information not compietely "verboten" may be used for publication provided it is presented as the writer's information and the source is not divulged directly, or indirectly.

WHAT KIND OF A PERSON is Dean Rusk?

Mostly, he comes through personally even less than does Defense Secretary McNamara (sometimes called the human computer).

But there are exceptions when Rusk comes through as a thoroughly human person. In an hour and 15 minutes this happens momentarily only two or three times.

On one occasion, he seemingly enjoys laughing at his own discomfort over an unfortunately public utterance he made a couple of years earlier. In this respect, he is something like the late President Kennedy, who could laugh at his own mistakes.

In the instance which Rusk mentioned at breakfast it turned out that while Rusk suffered some public embarassment at the time, subsequent events revealed a very important beneficial effect for the U.S.

In short, Rusk was criticized at the time for saying something which would cause adverse reaction in certain foreign countries. As it turned out, one unfriendly foreign power reacted in a way which was beneficial to U.S. interests.

THE SECRETARY IS SO BUSY answering questions that he has little opportunity to eat, which may be a blessing in disguise. The bacon is cold, limp and greasy. The scrambled eggs remind one of wartime GI powdered eggs prepared by GI cooks on a field stove. The pastry is the best thing on the table.

All in all, Saturday morning breakfast at the Woodlands in Kentfield is infinitely better.

Promptly at 10 a.m., the secretary glances at his watch, says he knows all of his guests are busy people and do not wish to be held longer. He thanks everybody for coming, rises and strides toward the door.

It takes him several minutes to make it to the door as each of those present stops him to extend thanks for being invited.

If you want to know the gist of Rusk's off-the-record remarks to the press at this small breakast in San Francisco, re-read that portion of the President's message to congress which dealt with U.S. reaction and response to recent "peace feelers" from North Viet Nam.

Even the language is similar.

Honeybee Shortage

Honeybees are in short supply in our state, according to the University of California Agricultural Extension Service. For example, there are 140 per cent fewer bees in the San Joaquin Valley this winter than last. They are particulary important there because of their vital function in pollinating the blossoms in the vast orchards in the central region.

The growing bee shortage is attributed to the constant use of powerful insecticides. The shortage is noticeable in Marin, too.

TAKE PEOPLE WHERE YOU FIND THEM

Few men in history have been shrewder judges of human nature than Benjamin Franklin.

Therefore the following tips that he formulated hundreds of years ago deserve thoughtful attention:

"The best thing to give your enemy is forgiveness . . . to an opponent, tolerance . . . to a friend, your ear . . . to your child, good example . . . to a father, reverence . . . to your mother, conduct that will make her proud of you . . . to yourself, respect . . . to all men, charity."

Taking people where we find them is far more arduous in fact than in theory.

But such a habitual attitude, multiplied over and over by millions of people, could bring about a heartening renewal.

Based on love of God, such an effort is essential in individuals and the family, as well as public and private institutions of all types.

And it can begin with you!

"If the readiness is there, it is acceptable according to what a man has, not according to what he has not."

(2 Corinthians 8:12)

Help me to see in every person Your divine image, Lord, and show my love for You.

Ex-Town Clerk Opposes Tax Hike

Editor, Independent-Journal:

This is with reference to the Ross Town Council's letter of Jan. 3, 1968, concerning proposed tax rate increase.

The letter completely overlooks a very basic fact — that assessed valuation for Ross have increased from $4,442,600 in 1957-58 to $8,911,060 for 167-68. So, in that 10-year period tax receipts will have more than doubled. And to say that the tax rate has not increased is also not true. Here are the tax rates for the periods mentioned:

General Govt.	$1.	$1.00
Parks	.15	.30
Bonds	.10	.00
Retirement	.00	.12
Storm drains, floods	.00	.20
Total	$1.25	$1.62

The county's reappraisal programs in 1961 and 1966 sharply increased the market values and assessed values in Ross. In 1970, the county is going to again have to increase the assessed valuations by an increase in the percentage applied to market values from 23 to 25 per cent. In turn this will mean increased taxes for all property owners.

The town council's letter also states that if the street lights were turned off at midnight, the savings would contribute to an annual savings of $27,000. The PG&E's filed tariffs do not provide for limited hour street light service. There are no meters on the lights. The charge to the town is on the basis of the light intensity times the number of lights.

The letter also stressed the need for a surplus. The last report I made to the state before having to resign as Ross town clerk showed these surpluses: 7/1/60 — $75,746; 6/30/61 — $83,286. Where did the money go?

The council also mentions expenditures for surveys on zoning and police protection. These were made and paid for while I was still town clerk — and we still had a substantial surplus. So far as the flood damage item of $20,000 included in the letter, the I-J report of the council's Dec. 14 meeting said the town expected to recover about $9,500 of this from the state.

You may rest assured that I am opposed to the tax rate increase.

GOLDEN GATE VIEW

Two Appear Prospective Kettenhofen Challengers

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Rumors persist that someone may have the courage to run against Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen.

One person being mentioned —who certainly could run a hot race against Kettenhofen — is Lawrence A. Mayer of 1 Upper Toyon Road, Kentfield, an attorney and owner of Mayer's Ltd., Mill Valley department store. Mayer told this reporter he "may run, but I'm still considering the problems of time and money."

Somewhat ironically, Kettenhofen reportedly was instrumental last October in getting Mayer appointed to the Marin County Human Rights Commission.

ANOTHER POSSIBLE candidate for the second supervisorial district seat is J. Robert Fitzhenry of 115 South Ridge Road, Kentfield, a physical education teacher at Sir Francis Drake High School. "It's gone through my mind a few times," he said, adding he will make a decision "soon."

The most potent possible candidate, William M. Bennett of Kent Woodlands, said he has rejected pleas by "some people" that he run. "My political interests do not run along county lines," said the state public utilities commissioner.

His PUC appointment, however, expires on Dec. 31, and since he is an outspoken Democrat he may be looking for a new political job.

Kettenhofen's first term expires the same day as Bennett's appointment.

THERE WERE TWO versions of the Democrats' meetings last weekend in Fresno, just as there were meetings of two utterly disparate Democratic groups — divided over the Vietnam War.

"We really are forging together a party, thanks to Ronald Reagan," enthused Mrs. Elaine Guthrie of Marin, a member of the California Democratic Central Committee.

A slightly different version was offered by Bennett: "If any party ever was up for grabs, it's this one. There was an air of hopelessness," he said.

The Republicans, meeting in Sacramento, were all smiles. "Things are going great," said Marin GOP chairman Charles Michals. "We don't want to create conflicts where we don't need them," he said.

There's a lesson there for the Democrats.

WORD THAT the highly successful Custom Commute Club is about to extend its posh bus service from Terra Linda to Lucas Valley has brought a reservation all the way from Vietnam, club treasurer Richard Rosenberg reports.

A Marin housewife passed the word to her husband, who is about to return from the war to civilian life — and he wants to be certain to have a place to sit down for a change.

If a handful of enterprising commuters can provide first-class bus service to San Francisco at a profit and with reasonable fares, couldn't a tax-supported public agency do the same?

Merchant Marine Sadly Needs Subsidy

By EVERETT McKINLEY DIRKSEN

What do we Americans want to do about the sad state of the out-of-date, lagging United States Merchant Marine?

Here is a mighty country with power and richness unsurpassed, whose ports ship and receive goods and products to and from everywhere on the globe. You would think, then, that our merchant fleet would also be unsurpassed. Well, it is not.

During World War II it was the largest merchant fleet in the world. Where do you think we rank today in world ship construction? The Soviet Union, Japan, Germany, Great Britain, France, among others, are outsailing us and outbuilding us. We rank 14th as builders of ships.

WHEN WE WERE a new nation of 13 states, we were a truly maritime nation. Ocean commerce was brisk and our merchant sailing vessels navigated all of the Seven Seas. When pirate ships and the ships of other nations harassed or attacked our oceangoing commerce, American fighing ships hunted them down and put an end to it and we were respected. Substantial shipyards developed along the eastern coast and the whole nation was enriched by our maritime success.

Now look at us Although the operations of the various American oil companies in foreign fields are enormous and require a huge fleet of tankers, and although our Navy must be supplied wherever it may be, the American merchant tanker fleet right now averages about 15 years of age per tanker. It is the oldest tanker fleet in the world.

Of all the petroleum brought to the United States from the foreign oil areas of the world, U.S./flag tankers carry only three per cent of the total. Our waterborne commerce has increased by 31 per cent or more in the last six years, but our ship capacity has increased by only four and one-half per cent. There is an overlying reason for those melancholy facts and that is the matter of cost.

IT HAS BEEN SAID that because of low labor costs abroad, three ships can be built in a foreign yard for the price of two in the United States. The result is that enterprisers here at home can receive a subsidy from the federal government when they build vessels here that have installations of certain defense facilities. But only 13 vessels will be built in American shipyards this fiscal year. All of them must be subsidized.

There is the problem of the cost of operating American ships. By law our ships must hire a substantial percentage of American seamen. Foreign-flag vessels, by and large, can sign on anybody available in the seamen's market — Filipinos, Chinese, East Indian lascars — at lower wages and with lower living standards aboard ship. Their shipowners, therefore, can quote cheaper rates to shippers everywhere.

We must then ask ourselves if, in spite of such conditions of economics, we want to maintain an American merchant marine that comports with the prestige and the commerce of this country. Do we want to make certain that in time of international difficulty we will have an adequate merchant marine? Should we use public funds to subsidize it?

The answer must be, indeed yes.

'Thin Red Line Of 'Eroes' Left In British Outposts

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Most of the small states east of Suez accepted philosophically, if not happily, the British decision to withdraw the protective canopy under which they had lived for more than 100 years.

These states, most of them too small to protect themselves, now must depend upon new regional alliances for which talks already are under way or planned.

They had been forewarned of British plans but had been led to expect it would come closer to 1975 than 1971.

AND LONG BEFORE Prime Minister Harold Wilson's announcement in the House of Commons on Tuesday, the once-mighty British garrisons around the world had shrunk to a very thin line.

The official Defense Ministry estimate presented to Parliament in 1967 shawed Britain had about 80,000 men with the three services and supporting civilians in Singapore and at Brunei in Malaysia.

In the Persian Gulf, about 2,500 troops were stationed in Bahrein. Also at Bahrein is a British naval base. The plan to build up Bahrein troop strength to about 6,000 men now has been abandoned.

About 500 Royal Air Force men are stationed in the Gan island staging post in the Indian Ocean. Five mobile squadrons of the Trucial Oman scouts have British officers and NCO's, and the armed forces of the Sultan of Muscat and Oman also have some British officers.

There are small army detachments in other scattered areas of the Persian Gulf.

Especially vulnerable are the seven Trucial states on the southern coast of the Persian Gulf. The term derives from a 1920 truce reached by Britain and local sheiks.

The nearby Sultanate of Muscat and Oman is independent, but three times in the last 13 years has called in British troops to put down uprisings against the medieval Sultan Said Bin Taimur.

Both Bahrein and the Sultanate of Muscat and Oman have active nationalist "liberation" movements such as that which took over after the British departure from South Arabia last year

Primary defense of that area now will fall upon Saudi Arabia.

THROUGHOUT ASIA the main question is one of time to fill the vacuum left by the British withdrawal. If their governments are to stand, local sultans must institute reforms long urged upon them by the British and western oil companies.

In southern Arabia, the Russians already have a foothold in Yemen. Looming above Malaysia and Singapore in the threat of Red China.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

The next time you stand in the rain trying vainly to flag a taxicab, let your thoughts drift back to Sept. 30, 1907. That's the day New Yorkers saw a taxicab in operation for the first time. Twenty-five of them chugged down Fifth Avenue in line and pulled up in front of the new Plaza Hotel, which was celebrating an opening of its own.

Nobody realized it at the time, but these taxis marked the beginning of the end for the smelly old hansom cabs. The few still in operation make their last stand at the very spot where the taxi invasion began — opposite the Plaza Hotel!

Herb Shriner tells about a farmer bringing in a load of hay who drove up to one of those old covered bridges that still dot the New Hampshire landscape. He took one long, despairing look at the dark tunnel ahead, turned his team of horses around, and retreated, explaining, "I could have gotten in all right, but I'd never be able to squeeze through that little hole at the other end."

Behind The News

THE GREEN BERETS

U.S. Special Unit In Shadowy War

NHA TRANG, Vietnam (UPI) —The Green Berets have their own kind of war in Vietnam.

Somewhere deep in Communist-held territory, at a stopover point on a main infiltration route from North to South Vietnam, a man in the uniform of a North Vietnamese soldier squats on the ground munching on a ball of rice.

The station is filled with Communist soldiers on their way to a battlefield. Like soldiers anywhere, they talk of home and the hard trip south, swap gossip about their units and trade whatever information they have about their destination.

The man listens, joins occasionally in the conversation, and when he finishes his rice is up again and on his way. A short distance down the trail he vanishes into the jungle.

Not long after, he joins a group of three or four Vietnamese like himself. With them are two Americans dressed in camouflage fatigues, their faces shadowed by the low brims of camouflage hats.

The Americans are troopers of the U.S. Special Forces, or Green Berets as they have come to be called from the distinctive headgear they wear when they are not in the jungle fighting Communists or keeping track of their movements.

What these Americans and their small patrol have just done has become a standard tactic in the shadowy war that goes on in the Vietnamese jungle.

If the information the man has learned is valuable enough —and many times it is—it may result in a major U.S. operation to head off a Communist buildup before the enemy has a chance to move in on its objective.

The two Americans described are part of an effort which began in 1961 when the Special Forces came to Vietnam to take over from the Central Intelligence Agency a program of organizing resistance to the Viet Cong among the tough little Montagnard tribesmen.

There were only about 300 to 400 Green Berets in the country in the beginning, but as the troopers organized their Civil Irregular Defense Groups (CIDG's) in areas outside Saigon government control, the program began to grow.

Today there are some 2,500 highly trained troopers operating in the special forces program, from the demilitarized zone to the Ca Mau Peninsula at the southern tip of Vietnam.

The American Green Berets work with about 1,650 men from the South Vietnamese special forces. Together they train, arm, feed, clothe and pay a total of approximately 50,000 "irregulars," including Montagnards and mercenaries of Chinese and Cambodian origin.

It is a $100 million a year operation, run from a headquarters in Nha Trang by Col. Jonathan F. Ladd, an unconventional war expert of 46, from Toledo, Ohio, whose Vietnam experience goes back to 1962.

Ladd, for obvious reasons, will discuss his operations only in the broadest terms. But he does say, "we're doing a good job of it." He noted for UPI that the program has not suffered any serious reverses since a March, 1966, attack on the Ashau Special Forces camp by North Vietnam troops.

Out of a total 2,500 men, 73 Green Berets have been killed in 1967, a low figure matched against the war's high over-all casualties and the high risk nature of so many of their missions. Against this, they are credited with a kill ratio of better than six to one.

2—Supply points for infiltration down Mekong and Bassac Rivers.

3—Supply points, rest areas for operations in Plain of Reeds and Saigon.

5—Supply areas, rest camps parallel to Cambodian Highway 7, from which Loc Ninh and Bu Dop battles launched.

6—Supply and rest camp areas.

THIS WEEK In The World

U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A determined President Johnson, speaking before members of Congress and appearing to millions on television, this week promissed new social progress at home and no let up in the Vietnam war without reciprocal military reductions by the enemy.

The President's comments on the war were brief compared to his domestic proposals in the State of the Union Message in which he outlined his programs for the nation and what he thought it would take to get them going.

This would include a budget for the coming fiscal year that would put government spending at a record $186 billion, up $10.4 billion.

To maintain the strength of the dollar, Johnson called on Congress to enact a 10 per cent surcharge on corporate and individual income taxes and to remove the "gold cover" backing for the dollar.

As for the war effort in the next fiscal year, Johnson said that would take $1.3 billion of a proposed $2.9 billion increase in defense spending.

Around The World; Around The Clock:

Saigon — South Vietnamese President Nguygen Van Thieu charged the United States with "working alone" for peace talks instead of allowing Saigon to play the central role. U.S. officials immediately assured the Saigon Government it would be consulted on all peace proposals

Guatemala City — Two members of the U.S. Military Mission were killed and two other U.S. servicemen wounded in a shooting the government blamed on leftwing terrorists backed by Cuba's Fidel Castro.

Geneva — The United States and the Soviet Union agreed upon a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons and officials predicted it would be ready for worldwide signing by late spring or early summer.

New York — Weeks of intensive stock market trading led the nation's three leading securities markets to shorten indefinitely the trading day by 90 minutes.

CAMBODIA BORDER CRISIS

Unpatrolled Frontier Is Scene Of Violations By Reds, Allies

By GEORGE McARTHUR
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — In the fall of 1967 the Communist command in Vietnam unleashed its new peripheral strategy of full-scale attacks from sanctuaries in Cambodia.

The ensuing bloody battles at Loc Ninh, Bu Dop, Dak To and elsewhere brought a heated response from U.S. Gen. William C. Westmoreland. He renewed to President Johnson his long-standing request for the right of "hot pursuit" into Cambodia.

The threatened spillover of the war into new territories raised new fears, notably in Congress, from those who saw the war threatening dangerous international complications. This was heightened when neutralist Cambodia's volatile Prince Norodom Sihanouk hinted he might call for Red Chinese volunteers if South Vietnamese or American troops violated his frontiers.

However, the prince later backed off this strident position and now, after talks with Chester Bowles, U.S. ambassador to India, has agreed to seek a buildup of the border guard and prevent incursions from South Vietnam, hopefully through a strengthening of the International Control Commission. Bowles told the prince the United States would not adopt a policy of "hot pursuit" of enemy troops into Cambodian territory.

The border crisis has been building since 1965 as the Viet Cong supply network gradually grew in Cambodia. The prince turned a blind eye and denied it completely. The United States, while protesting informally and making occasional leaks to the press, did little more.

At first American officers felt that the situation in Cambodia, and in Laos, could be handled by some unpublicized air raids and a few clandestine Special Forces operations on the ground.

In Laos, along the most important segment of the Ho Chi Minh trail, this war has long since mushroomed. Almost as many air strikes hit the jungled Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos every day as hit North Vietnam. Operations by Special Forces troopers and Montagnard mercenaries are frequent. The fragmented Laotian regime — its paper "neutralism" guaranteed by the big powers — is in no position to protest. The present rulers in Vientiane don't want to protest anyway.

So the Laotian frontier, at least for the moment, presents minimal international complications. In addition, its 225-mile border with Vietnam is wildly jungled and largely unpopulated.

It is significant that much of the 625-mile Cambodian border is similarly barren, sparsely populated and virtually unpatrolled by Sihanouk's small army.

In the exoticaly named northern provinces of Ratanakiri and Mondulkiri, facing the Vietnamese Central Highlands, the Cambodian army stays 25 to 30 miles back from the border. Further south, as the jungle blends into the populated marshland of the delta, the army patrols no closer than five miles to the border.

Much of the delta border area, in fact, is a virtually unpoliceable interchange of marshes, jigsaw paddies and interlacing streams and canals. The only really high ground is a jungled stretch in the extreme south known as the Seven-Mountain area, equally as rough as the northern jungles and long an area of Viet Cong infiltration from one side and Special Forces operations from the other.

The Cambodian border guard officially consists of village militia along the frontier. The militia forces are not disposed to interfere with either Viet Cong infiltrators or quick operations from Vietnam.

"We ask them to leave," he said.

And when American or South Vietnamese units come across?

"We just watch until they leave," he smiled.

Equally as serious as the frontier violations themselves is the Viet Cong use of Cambodia's highway network. Although it is done clandestinely, the Communists are moving tons of supplies and even men along the border highways.

In the far south the route is from the port of Sihnoukville to the provincial roads along the border. In the center, national Route 7 is used where it parallels the border opposite Tay Ninh Province and War Zone C. In the far north, supplies and men come down the Ho Chi Minh trail and then filter down national Route 13 paralleling the Mekong River. Side roads lead off to Red bases in the tri-border area — Cambodia-Laos-Vietnam — opposite the Central Highlands.

Maillard In Frustrating Battle For Merchant Ships

Transit Needs Another Major Target For Him

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES

WASHINGTON (AP) — During all of his 15 years in Congress, Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Calif., has concentrated major attention on maritime policy and the problems of the American merchant marine.

The 50-year-old millionaire from San Francisco has found it a frustrating experience. The merchant marine in his opinion, is falling farther behind the nation's needs for commerce and defense. But he is continuing to plug away.

"I view the deterioration of our maritime industry with alarm," Mailliard said in a recent speech in San Francisco. "We no longer can afford to continue to sweep our shipping problems under the rug."

Since coming to Congress in 1953, Mailliard has represented roughly half of the city of San Francisco. This year, in a redistricting, he will be seeking re-election in a district that includes a lesser portion of San Francisco and about 80 per cent of Marin County across San Francisco Bay.

Mailliard said in an interview that while he did not advocate the change, he has strong personal ties with Marin County.

Descendant of a pioneer Marin County family, the congressman was born in Belvedere, Marin County, June 10, 1917, one of three sons of the late John Ward Mailliard, Jr., and Kate Peterson Mailliard. The family moved to San Francisco when Bill Mailliard was an infant, but he attended boarding school in San Rafael for six years.

Although Marin County for the rest of this year remains a part of the California First Congressional district represented by Republican Don H. Clausen, Mailliard said he and his staff will assist Marin County residents in any way they can.

He said he felt that he is now in a position to try to bring about an agreement between Marin County and San Francisco officials for an improvement in trans - bay transportation which he said is sorely needed.

Mailliard inherited wealth from his family's household cleanser manufacturing business (S.O.S.), later sold to General Foods.

He was graduated from Yale University in 1939 and entered the Navy, first as assistant naval attache at the U. S. embassy, London, in 1939-40.

World War II assignments included the Bureau of Naval Personnel, 1941-42; the Naval War College, 1942, and flag lieutenant and aide to Vice Adm. D. E. Barbey on the staff of the 7th amphibious force, 1943-46.

Active in the U. S. Naval reserve, Mailliard is the only rear admiral in Congress. He was commanding officer of the Capitol Hill Naval Reserve unit from 1961 until the unit was abolished in 1964.

On several occasions, Mailliard has arranged for naval reserve active duty in the Panama Canal Zone, an assignment related to his Congressional position as ranking Republican on the Inter-American Affairs subcommittee of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. A similar active duty assignment last month was deferred when Mailliard injured a vertebra in his back straining to open a jammed door on his garage.

In Congress, Mailliard enjoys a reputation for diligence and perseverance among his colleagues. He is one of a relatively few members of the House assigned to two standing committes.

A member of the Merchane Marine and Fisheries Committee since coming to Congress in 1953, he is now its ranking Republican member and would become its chairman if Republicans gained a majority in the House. He has served on the House Foreign Affairs Committee since 1960.

In 1963, Mailliard was appointed by President John F. Kennedy as a member of the United States delegation to the United Nations General Assembly. He has served by presidential appointment since 1959 as a member of the Corregidor-Bataan Memorial Commission.

In 1963 and 1966, Mailliard was selected for commendation by the Claremont College California Congressional Recognition Project for his work in foreign and maritime affairs.

REP. WILLIAM S. MAILLIARD
Concerned with ocean, Bay problems

Politically, Mailliard classifies himself as "pretty much a moderate." He was the only California House Republican in 1964 to endorse Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York for the Republican nomination for president and he said he is still for Rockefeller in 1968.

A supporter of the American military effort in Vietnam, Mailliard appealed to a military audience at the San Franicsco Presidio last Memorial Day for tolerance with dissenters.

"The time may come when we, too, may feel an obligation to dissent," he asserted.

Before coming to Congress, Mailliard was assistant to the director of the California Youth Authority in 1947, secretary to Gov. Earl Warren, 1949-51, and assistant to the director of the California Academy of Sciences in 1951-52. He was unsuccessful in his first campaign for Congress in 1948.

Mailliard married his second wife, Millicent, in 1957. His first marriage ended in divorce. He has seven children ranging in age from 24 to 5, William Somers, Jr., Antoinette, Henry Ward, Kristina, Julie Ward, Josephine Fox and Victoria Leigh.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Reagan Takes Back Food Tax Proposal

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — A proposal to extend the state's 5 per cent sales tax to food has been dropped quickly, just when a wave of opposition to the plan was beginning to gather steam.

Gov. Ronald Reagan had mentioned the suggestion a week ago, following a receipt of a task force report on tax reform. However, in announcing there were no plans to seek the extension, Reagan said it had been mentioned only in a "theoretical discussion" of taxes.

The tax force had suggested that some of the inequities and regressive elements of the state's tax structure might be eliminated by a general broadening of the tax base. Reagan said he hadn't had time to study the whole task force report but, in this one area, already had determined that a sales tax on food would not be equitable.

The Legislature finished its second slow-paced week and recessed for its four-day weekend.

A total of 261 bills had been introduced out of an expected total of some 4,000 for the year. Bills may not be heard in committee until 30 days after introduction so the slow start in putting bills in makes it certain it will be at least March before much serious work can begin.

Following the reorganization fights in both houses on the opening day of the session, Jan. 8, things have been relatively quiet, with no opportunities for more partisan bickering.

Gov. Reagan made another two trips into the East during the week. He addressed central committees in Oklahoma, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia and an economic council in New York, then conferred with congressional leaders in Washington, D.C.

After returning to California for a University of California regents meeting, Reagan made a one-day trip to St. Louis for a party gathering address.

Meanwhile, a national poll showed Reagan had slipped in the republican presidential popularity contest. The governor told newsmen the drop in his standings in the poll "is a tribute to my unceasing efforts to convince the people that I am not a candidate for President."

The Lieutenant Governor will not be robbed of his right to cast a tie-breaking vote in organization of the Senate. The Senate Rules Committee, considering a number of drastic changes in the senate rules, has dropped the part of its proposal which would have eliminated the tie-breaking vote on organizational matters.

It became a big issue this year because both the Republicans and Democrats have 20 members in the Senate. The full Senate will vote on the rule changes, which include splitting the judiciary committee into two groups — judiciary and criminal procedure — and giving a year of seniority to senators who are elected to the upper house from the Assembly.

A graduated scale of tuition increase payments for university and state college students has been proposed by Assemblyman Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, Republican leader in the assembly.

Monagan presented his plan to the university regents, as they considered a report of their own committee, calling for an across-the-board annual increase in fees of $156 per student. Monagan said his plan called for an across-the-board boost of $30.

The balance of the increase would depend on parents' income, ranging from nothing to $600 per year. The legislature has authority to increase fees at state colleges but not at the university. Monagan said he would drop his plan for state colleges unless the regents agreed to do it for university students.

The 160-acre limitation on land which may be owned by a person, and still be served with federally developed water, has been challenged by Reagan. He presented a plan whereby the limitation would be increased to 640 acres, and persons owning more than that would be able to make supplemental payments and still receive water. The governor said the 60-year-old reclamation law does not take modern farming into account.

An Assembly committee has proposed changes in penalty laws to relax the penalty for marijuana possession but stiffen the punishment for possessing LSD or other dangerous drugs. Assemblyman W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, chairman of the committee on criminal procedure, said the present penalty for marijuana possession is a felony while the penalty for dangerous drugs is a misdemeanor, calling for a county jail term.

Biddle and the committee proposed that the laws be the same for both marijuana or the dangerous drugs — that it be a felony but judges be permitted to reduce the crime to a misdemeanor under certain circumstances. He called it a "support your local judge" bill.

The appointees of Reagan now outnumber others on 15 of 23 major boards and commissions in the state. Members of these boards, many of whom are unsalaried, are generally appointed to four-year terms, thus preventing a new governor from gaining immediate control of the boards.

Marin YMCA Official Gets Promotion

DALE L. GREENLEE
Leaving for Illinois

Dale L. Greenlee, director of the high school and camping programs of the Marin County Young Men's Christian Association, has been named general director of the YMCA in Paris, Ill.

Greenlee will leave Marin on Jan. 31.

Since coming to the county in 1963, Greenlee has formed river excursion trips for high school boys and their fathers and organized model county and judicial government events for young persons.

He also startetd courses on how to study in college. In 1964, Greenlee and his wife took a group of teen-agers to Osaka, Japan, as part of the San Francisco YMCA cultural exchange program.

Greenlee, of San Rafael, is secretary of the Southern Marin Kiwanis Club. He holds a masters degree in education, specializing in human relations, from San Francisco State College.

Robert R. Moser of 35 McNear Drive, San Rafael reported to police Thursday an auto stereo unit and tape worth $512 was stolen from his car parked in a garage area at his home.

Heroism Medal Award To Marinite In Vietnam

SGT. RONALD G. GAITHER

Marine Reserve Sgt. Ronald G. Gaither of San Rafael has been awarded the Bronze Star medal with Combat "V" for "heroics achievement" under fire in Vietnam.

Gaither, son of Floyd U. Gaither of 59 Oxford Drive, exposed himself to intense enemy fire while serving with Company F, Second Battalion, Fifth Marine Regiment, First Marine Division near Nong Son Combat Base.

According to the citation, he displayed bold courage when he saw the enemy attempting to overrun a nearby mortar position.

He entered the trench the enemy was using to reach the mortar site, killed four enemy and forced the others to retreat.

After seeing that the wounded were moved to safety, he established security for a helicopter landing zone.

Recital Jan. 28

The free organ recital by Carl Weinrich at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo will be on Jan. 28, not tomorrow as previously printed. It is his only Bay Area appearance this season.

Bail Reduced In Bribery Charge

David Green, 55-year-old Greenbrae contractor charged with attempting to bribe three Tehama County supervisors appeared in Red Bluff Justice Court yesterday and a preliminary hearing was set for Feb. 2 at 10 a.m.

Judge Noel Watkins reduced Green's bail from $30,000 to $15,000 on a plea from his attorney.

Middle School Plan Will Be Discussed

The city-school district Project 17 proposal for a middle school and joint recreation area will be discussed Monday at a joint meeting of the Mill Valley Planning and Parks and Recreation commissions.

The commissions will meet at 8 p.m. in the city council chamber, and are also to discuss a precise development plan for part of Boyle Park.

The Birch Society's Man In Marin County Is Gary Woodward

By DON BRANNING

The trouble with the John Birch Society, the once-feared scourge from the right-wing, is that hardly anybody bothers to hate it anymore.

Take William Gary Woodward, 41, of Larkspur, a nice, honorable, basically shy engineer, who was more or less persuaded by his wife and mother-in-law five or six years ago into discovering that what the John Birch Society stands for is more or less what he stands for.

He is the John Birchers' man in Marin County.

Who could hate Woodward? It would take an unusually unforgiving and unbending liberal. Woodward is altogether too likable.

"All the signs are building up that there is going to be another attack on the John Birch Society within about six months," said Woodward, almost hopefully this week in the very neat living room of his very well-ordered, pleasant home on a hill at 15 Holly Avenue in Larkspur.

"THAT MAY give us the opportunity to break out of the silent treatment that we have been getting from the Communist-controlled press."

Any publicity is good publicity, he admitted, and the Birch Society hasn't been getting the news play it used to receive, particularly since that for them gloomy November day in 1964 when Goldwater went off to a crushing defeat.

But it's not because the Birch Society just isn't very hot news anymore, Woodward insisted. It's because the communications media is controlled by "the Communist conspiracy." For instance, he asked, "How and why is news from Venezuela suppressed?" His answer: It's because there is a guy on the Associated Press desk in New York who is controlled by the Communists, and he suppresses the news from Venezuela.

WOODWARD, who has a master's degree in electrical engineering, is a sales engineer for the General Electric Co. in San Francisco. In addition, he is a specialist within a specialty. His sole customer is the Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

He grew up in Des Moines, Iowa, and never gave much thought to political philosophy until he went to the Illinois Institute of Technology to become an engineer. "All I was interested in was electrical engineering and calculus."

But someone there told him that if he wanted to be well-rounded, and not just an educated illiterate, he ought to read a news magazine or something like that every week.

"I READ Time Magazine from cover to cover every week," he said. "When I got out of college, it had been my main source of information. I thought I was pretty well informed, but I discovered later that I had picked up an awful lot of misinformation that I defended as the truth."

The Woodwards moved out to California in 1957, and Woodward's wife, Betty, and his mother-in-law, who had immigrated to the United States from Poland, kept telling him that there was more going on than he thought there was.

Woodward's wife, who runs the John Birch book store, American Opinion Library, in Novato, thinks women outnumber the men two to one in the John Birch Society in Marin County because "women are more intuitive about morality than men." Woodward, who is out there working all day with his client, the PG & E, thinks it is because housewives have more time on their hands.

IN ANY event, Woodward, who had been telling his wife and mother-in-law they were going to be locked up if they kept talking like that, finally read one of the books they had been pressing upon him. It was "Poland Betrayed," by Arthur Bliss Lane, who had been a U. S. ambassador to Poland. The book made an impression on him, and he read another book on Poland that his wife and mother-in-law said he ought to read.

Then he read all the paperback books in the basic Birch library, which is called "One Dozen Candles." There are actually 13 books, because one was added after the set was dubbed "One Dozen Candles," and they include such titles as "America's Retreat From Victory, by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy; "Shanghai Conspiracy" by Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby; "The Invisible Government" by Dan Smoot, and "While You Slept" by John T. Flynn.

Soon he was watching Fred Schwartz' "Christian Anti-Communist Crusade" on television.

HE WENT to hear a lecture by Herbert Philbrick, a former FBI agent who wrote a book called "I Led Three Lives" that became the basis for a television series, and, he said, "I kept Philbrick up until 2 o'clock in the morning asking him about the John Birch Society."

Reading the "Blue Book" of Robert Welch, founder of the Birch Society, he discovered that Welch's principles pretty well coincided with his own. He tore out the coupon in the back of the "Blue Book," mailed it in to become a member.

When Woodward joined the Birchers in 1962, there was only one chapter in Marin County, and it wasn't very active. Now, five years later, there are six chapters and Woodward is the section leader for all of them. He won't reveal the number of Birchers in Marin, but it is a matter of record that the total U. S. Birch membership is 100,000.

Profile Of A Marinite

THE BIRCH Society's leader, Robert Welch, once announced a membership goal of one million, but is now willing to settle for 400,000.

Woodward's philosophy, and the philosophy of the Birch Society, can be stated simply.

"Communism is not our only enemy or even our main enemy," Woodward said. "Our enemy is coercive collectivism, which inevitably leads to a totalitarian society.

"We believe that there is a battle between good and evil, between Christ and anti-Christ, between morality and amorality, between responsible individualism and coercive collectivism.

"UNDER Communism, the leaders of evil have joined with the forces of collectivism. They would plunge us back into the Dark Ages, when people had not much liberty, but lots of security."

The Birch Society is, as charged, monolithic, he admitted. It is run pretty much as a one-man show by its founder, Robert Welch.

"But I haven't taken a blood oath to the John Birch Society," said Woodward. "If somebody can show me another organization that's doing more, I'll join it. You can resign from the John Birch Society, but you can't resign from the Great Society."

Conservative fundamentalists are not noted for airy whimsy, but the Birch Society members even have an occasional joke at the expense of the founder.

"ONE NIGHT we came home from a meeting," said Woodward. "I guess we were all a little giddy. Someone said that Robert Welch was probably a dedicated agent of the Communist conspiracy, because he had us all chasing around trying to impeach Earl Warren, keeping us so busy with that we weren't doing much against Communism"

Woodward admits that a problem for the Birch Society right now is to stir up a little action, i.e., defeat the efforts of "the Communist-controlled press to isolate us, to give us the silent treatment."

The Birch Society has had a few hard knocks in recent months. A Saturday Evening Post article told how some of the Birch's top leadership had become disenchanted with Welch and some of his more extreme goals, like impeaching Earl Warren.

A SEPTEMBER article in the Wall Street Journal, which Welch dismissed as a hatchet job, noted that the society is losing some of its top administrators and is apparently losing members and revenue. The article quoted Slobodan Draskovich, who resigned as a director and member of the society the year before. "I don't think the John Birch Society can be saved," said Draskovich.

But the dedicated little people of any cause are not so quick to call it quits. Although the lady liberals still glare angrily at him when he lectures to schools and other groups, Woodward doesn't intend to give up on the John Birch, because he believes that his cause is an honest one.

The beautiful second-home colony on the Sonoma Coast

There is a priceless dividend with your homesite at The Sea Ranch. Open space. Hundreds of acres of it. Great white beaches and quiet coves to explore. Over 45 miles of bridle trails to ride. Broad, green meadows to walk. Wooded hills to climb.

In fact, The Sea Ranch—with a private swimming pool, tennis court and saunas—gives you the pleasures of a large country estate, without the cost and maintenance problems.

Careful planning (including paved roads throughout and underground utilities in most units) sets this development apart. It also makes Sea Ranch building sites (priced upwards from $5,500) an excellent investment.

When A Rail Disaster Saddened Marin

Two Were Killed And Many Were Hurt As Funeral Train Left The Tracks

By FLORENCE DONNELLY
Independent-Journal Historian

The wreck of the Warren Dutton funeral train in Marin County in 1903 was a disaster that caused sorrow throughout the Bay Area.

There were many other wrecks, a number with fatalities, on the old North Shore Railroad. But because of the prominence of Dutton and the victims, and the controversy in the investigation that followed, with its charges and counter charges, numerous newspaper columns were devoted to the tragedy.

Because there has been so much misinformation about the wreck, I'd like to give the story as my father, the late Frank Sargent Holland, told it to me:

WARREN DUTTON, whose wife was the former Martha Holland, was the brother-in-law of my grandfather, Franklin Warren Holland of Tomales. Mrs. Dutton had died a number of years before her husband and was buried in the family plot in the cemetery beside tthe Presbyterian Church in Tomales. They had a daughter, Carrie, who became the wife of Dr. George Rodolph, and they had a palatial home near Lake Merritt in Oakland.

The Warren Duttons' son, John Dutton, married Antoinette Roman, daughter of Anton Roman and the former Eliza Fletcher. The John Duttons had two sons, Warren and Holland.

The senior Warren Dutton had come to California in 1849 and, after a couple of years in the mines, moved to Tomales where he became a partner of John Keys. The partnership was dissolved a few years later, and Dutton became owner of what was known as the Upper Town in Tomales. He had a fleet of schooners which plied between Tomales and San Franccisco.

GRADUALLY HE acquired large tracts of land in California, realizing early that land was wealth. In Tomales he was an incorporator of the Bank of Tomales and bought many shares of stock in the North Pacific Coast Railroad Co., later the North Shore.

It was Warren Dutton who hosted a huge banquet for the community when the first train brought passengers to Tomales.

Dutton was a millionaire when he died at his ranch home at Dutton's Landing on the Sacramento River on June 18, 1903. The body was brought to the family home on California Street in San Francisco. There funeral arrangements were completed.

THE BODY was to be taken to Tomales by a special train on Sunday, June 21, where services and interment would take place.

About 60 relatives and close friends were on the funeral train, which met the ferry in Sausalito and carried its passengers to West Marin. After the funeral and interment in the family plot, relatives and friends gathered at the Holland home for luncheon.

The return special train, with 28 passengers, left Tomales at 2:25 p.m. A mile or so out of Point Reyes Station, there was a sharp curve in the track and then a reverse curve on the trestle. As the engine struck the second curve, coach and tender were snapped off and flung from the trestle to land in the creek bed. The engine continued for quite a distance.

THE ROOF of the coach was crushed pinning the passengers in the wreckage. Although the fall was only 10 feet, only one of the passengers escaped unhurt. Two were critically injured and

The Tragedy Of The Dutton Funeral Train

The conductor, Davis Burrows, although badly bruised, freed himself from the wreckage and with brakeman Charles Axtell, engineer Orth and fireman Sheets began the rescue work. Sides of the car had to be chopped away to get out several of those injured.

Bray Dickinson, the late railroad historian, said help was received from the cadets of the First Congregational Church who were camping nearby. They had with them a hospital corps and two physicians who rendered first aid.

AS SOON as the conductor saw that everything possible was being done for the victims he went to Point Reyes Station to report the accident. Upon receiving his message, officials of the company sent out dispatches to every town on the line asking for surgeons and nurses. At 3:20, an ambulance train left Sausalito with eight surgeons and several assistants on board.

In the meantime, a special train had been made up at Point Reyes Station and, with all doctors available, rushed to the wreck scene. Taken back to Point Reyes Station, the injured were cared for by the townspeople who provided cots, blankets, pillows and food.

At 10:30 that night, all the victims were placed on the ambulance train and brought back down the line. Those who resided in San Rafael were taken to their homes. Eight ambulances met the train at Sausalito to carry the remaining injured on to the ferry. At 2 o'clock in the morning the steamer arrived at the Ferry Building in San Francisco, where distraught relatives and friends had been waiting for hours.

IN TOMALES, after news of the wreck was received, all was turmoil. Those who had remained there after the funeral were beside themselves with grief.

Finally the dread news came. Anton Roman and Michael Kirk had died in the wreck. Among the injured were Justice Frank M. Angellotti, Judge E. B. Mahon, Dr. William J. Wickman (whose wife was the former Henrietta Dutton), Samuel Augustine (whose wife was the sister of Mrs. Wickham), Thomas Bonneau (former Marin County clerk), all of San Rafael; James Tunstead of San Anselmo, who served several terms as Marin County sheriff, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Tucker of Sausalito, relatives of Mrs. Franklin Warren Holland.

Only passenger to escape injury was Mrs. Fletcher Tilton.

NATURALLY the Marin County newspapers gave much space to the obituary of Michael Kirk, a native of Ireland, who had come to San Rafael in 1851 and moved on to North Marin in 1858 where he owned a large ranch. At the time of his death, he was retired and living in San Francisco.

IRONICALLY, it was for the funeral of Warren Dutton, above, one of the biggest boosters of the North Shore Railroad in West Marin, that the victims of the 1903 railroad disaster near Point Reyes Station had traveled to Tomales.

Homage To Deceased Marin Man Ended In More Deaths

The San Francisco newspapers had long accounts of the life of Anton Roman, the colorful Bavarian, who had founded the famous Overland Monthly and knew many of the famous writers of San Francisco.

Roman had migrated to America in his youth and in 1849 crossed the mountains and plains to come to California. He joined the gold-seekers at Weaverville and Shasta. Realizing that the miners yearned for reading material in the long winter months when snow stopped them from working, he opened a bookstore in Shasta in 1853. In 1857 he established a bookstore in San Francisco and began his career as a publisher.

"ANTON ROMAN, Argonaut of Books," is the title of an article written by Madeline Stern and published by the California Historical Society. In it she told of Roman's association with writers, among them Bret Harte, and such poets as Ina Coolbrith, Emilie Lawson, B. P. Avery, John R. Ridge and C. H. Webb.

The Stern article said: "By 1868, even a Bancroft publication could declare 'the leading publishing houses in California are those of H. H. Bancroft & Co. and A. Roman & Co."

Manuscripts were constantly being submitted to Roman for publication and he was confident that the abundant material, if not suitable for publication in book form, would still be valuable for use in a magazine.

CHARLES Warren Stoddard, whose poems Roman had published, recommended that Bret Harte be the editor of the planned magazine. Thus was born the Overland Monthly — "devoted to the development of the country."

Roman wanted Harte to contribute an article every other month for the Overland. The first publication of the magazine was in July of 1868. In the second edition Harte's "The Luck of Roaring Camp" appeared.

The talent of the West Coast had found a medium for its work. The magazine was sent to the East Coast with articles ranging in topics from diamond mining to art.

AT THE END of the first year of the Overland, Roman became ill. On the advice of his doctor, he sold the magazine. By the terms of the contract, Roman agreed not to enter the magazine field for 10 years.

As soon as the 10 years had elapsed, Roman began publishing the Californian. The first number appeared in January of 1880. In that magazine appeared the writings of Joaquin Miller and Ambrose Bierce. Again ill health forced Roman to give up publication of a magazine.

The California Publishing Co. revived the Overland monthly and the Californian was merged with it.

ROMAN'S bookstore then took

ROY D. GRAVES took this picture of a North Shore Railroad train on the trestle and making the second of two curves near Point Reyes Station. It was there, in 1903, that the coach and tender of another train left the tracks in Marin County's most spectacular and most tragic railroading accident. Two people were killed and a number of others injured.

A Sad Page In Marin County's History

all of his attention and he had agents in New York, London and Paris who shipped large supplies of books to his store. Ships carried his books to Japan, China, Honolulu, Australia, Mexico and British Columbia.

By 1888, however, Roman had abandoned the book field. At the time of his death his name appeared in a San Francisco directory with his occupation listed as real estate agent, dealer in city and county property and timber lands, and loan broker.

It is ironic that Dutton, who had used his influence and money to bring the railroad to Tomales and who had hosted an immense banquet in his large warehouse near the Tomales station when the first train reached the town, was the innocent cause of the tragedy. Michael Kirk, who had been a pallbearer at the funeral, was one of his closest friends.

A NUMBER of damage suits were filed against the railroad resulting in long litigation.

Only three days after the wreck of the funeral train, another railroad tragedy took place. The morning passenger train on the way to Cazadero jumped the track near Tocaloma. The accident was on a curve and the locomotive and tender rolled over.

The engineer, Jack Williams, was the hero. He held the lever to the air brakes steady, preventing the coaches from leaving the tracks. But he was crushed to death beneath the cab.

ROBERT CLARK, the fireman, was scalded and badly burned, requiring months of hospitalization. The baggagemaster Miller was also injured in the wreck.

On Sunday night, July 5, 1903, a special train, six coaches, pulled by two engines, left Sausalito. It carried workmen, section hands and fire-fighting equipment to battle a forest fire near Monte Rio which was endangering railroad property.

About 1 a.m. Monday, the lead engine struck a cow lying on the track. The accident occurred about three miles from Tomales. The first engine plunged from the track, killing the engineer, Charles Hamilton, and seriously injuring the fireman, George Neil. The second engine was also derailed but the engineer and fireman on it escaped serious injury.

Early railroads in general, however, had impressive records for safety, serving the public needs faithfully and efficiently and with a minimum loss of life and injuries.

(Editor's Note: A number of readers of the Independent-Journal Marin Magazine have called to its attention the omission from the story in its Jan. 6 issue on the murder of Nick Sturtevant, and the trial and conviction of Vincent Lucich, mention of the prominent role played by the late Robert D. Duke as the special prosecutor who tried the case.)

"How Could My Cleaner Make My Dress Fade?"

When you received your dress from your cleaner, you promptly hung it away for several months in the drycleaner's wrapper. That is why you feel your drycleaner caused your dress to fade. If you had removed the dress and inspected it after it was cleaned, you would know that your cleaner did not cause the fading.

Most fading in garments that hang for periods of time in a closet is caused by what is known as "fume fading." This is a color change that takes place when certain types of dyes in some acetates and wools are subject to combustion gases in the atmosphere of the home. The "fading" appears in streaks or on shoulders even without drycleaning, though drycleaning often reveals it.

While inspection of your garments when they return from your cleaners will not prevent "fume fading" at least it permits you to determine exactly what caused the fabric to fade.

The Positive Approach Pays Off

Victim Of Cerebral Palsy Refused To Be Discouraged

By JUDY KAYE

Devotion to a philosophy and attitude of "can do," instead of discouragement and "can't do," has been the major force in the life of Elizabeth Rodiach, daughter of San Rafael gynecologist Dr. Edward Healey and a lifetime victim of cerebral palsy.

"That attitude of 'can do' was really instilled in me by my mother," Mrs. Rodiach says today. "She had me walking seven years before the doctors had predicted I would be able to do so."

Mrs. Edward (Betty) Healey was delivered of daughter Elizabeth after an excessively long labor and delivery, a factor concerning which there was only limited knowledge at that time.

IN THOSE years the medical specialty of obstetrics was only beginning to come into its own.

"Today's doctors ordinarily wouldn't allow labor to be that prolonged," says Dr. Healey, "since we know now that extended labor is a major cause of cerebral palsy."

Doctors today realize, too, that any complication in delivery can spell trouble. Pediatricians are especially alert to those situations, detecting and treating problems at the earliest possible stage.

THE HEALEYS brought home a little girl they believed to be in perfect health. Only an accident — a fortunate accident, it developed — prevented them from remaining ignorant of the problem and losing years of crucial therapy.

The subsequent examination also detected a case of monoplegia, spastic cerebral palsy, which meant that Elizabeth would suffer from uncontrolled spastic movement. And, it was announced, if she eventually walked, she would not do so until she was close to 12 years old.

Mrs. Betty Healey remembers her feeling during those first days: "Thinking of this happy little infant not walking until she was almost a teen, and the implications of that, were inconceivable."

IT WAS AT this point that "can do" became a watchword in the Healey household. Mrs. Healey would administer as much therapy as possible. There was to be a positive approach.

A rigorous routine began with therapy three times a day for two hours each session.

By now the war overseas was becoming a bigger threat to the United States every day. Soon Dr. Healey was enlisted into the medical corps. Twice during the three years that her husband was away Mrs. Healey was to receive telegrams saying that he was missing and presumed dead.

Mrs. Healey threw herself more and more into her work with Elizabeth and keeping her family well-ordered.

IN 1945 DR. Healey returned home to find Elizabeth walking, years before anyone, including himself, had expected. Mrs. Healey had kept Elizabeth's progress a surprise.

Before the war Dr. Healey had moved his practice and family to Marin County to give Elizabeth that advantage of the warm climate and a pool for exercise-therapy. Now they settled down at their home in Sleepy Hollow to make up some much missed family life.

Elizabeth's progress was remarkable, what with the continued therapy and the daily swimming, and although her handicap was still quite obvious, she had accomplished what is called a scissor-walk. She had reached the point where she could do almost everything other children could do.

THERE WAS no cause for disappointment until Elizabeth was ready to begin the first grade. She was enrolled at St. Anselm's School in 1945.

In 1945 educators were just beginning to admit handicapped children into regular schools. Elizabeth was the first such child in Marin County. She was above average in intelligence, well-adjusted and happy, and until school, had thought very little of her own handicap.

"Even as late as 1945 handicapped children were kept pretty much out of the public eye," says Dr. Healey. "Elizabeth's schoolmates were not used to seeing her scissor-walk. At first they were frightened, then curious; then STRICKEN by cerebral palsy at birth, Elizabeth Healey Rodiach was determined that her handicap should not prevent her from living a normal, vigorous life. That "can do" philosophy, supported by her parents, has culminated in her present busy and satisfying life as mother, housewife and volunteer service worker. Even such tasks as the pruning of a tree fall well within her scope of activities.

Rising Above Her Handicap

The Girl Who Set Example For Others

they made fun, and called her names."

THIS WAS to continue for years, until Elizabeth was finally able to prove herself in the field she eventually chose.

"It broke my heart to see her come from school heartbroken after the name-calling, vowing she'd never go back to school," Mrs. Healey recalls.

"They used to make a big thing of not choosing me in games," Elizabeth says. "Poor mother! I'm sure that in many ways it was harder on her than me. She kept telling me to concentrate on the things I could do, instead of worrying so much about the things I couldn't. It finally sank in, I guess."

DESPITE, OR more likely because of, those experiences which could have made another child shy, Elizabeth became very outgoing and developed a flair for conversation.

She also had an abundant compassion for other handicapped children. She used her special sensitivity and abilities to help hundreds of others as well as herself.

"I began giving therapy to handicapped children at the school in Kentfield that later moved to Terra Linda," she says, referring to Marindale School.

ELIZABETH even now corresponds with and is frequently contacted by children she helped 10 and 12 years ago. She was that much of an influence in these young peoples' lives.

"I was in a special position to help these kids because they knew I really knew what it was all about."

Elizabeth decided that she'd like to go to a public school and after six years at Dominican and graduation at St. Anselm's, she transferrred to Sir Francis Drake High School where she became even more deeply involved in her service work.

SHE BECAME a teen member of the board of directors of the first United Cerebral Palsy of Marin organization in 1956 before it had become a national affiliate. Her job was to organize and put on benefits at the high schools on behalf of United Cerebral Palsy.

Nostalgically, she recalls one show: "I had our campaign child who was in braces, and another child, in a wheelchair, coming from each side of a blacked-out stage with single spots on each. As they crossed toward center stage, our singer began 'You'll never walk alone!' Yes, I guess it was a bit much, but it was very effective."

Elizabeth put on two or three of these shows a year, each featuring name and local talent, and was mistress of ceremonies for each.

BY THIS time in her life there was very little Elizabeth couldn't do.

She continued her therapy work, did well in her school courses and became assistant recreation director for the handicapped in Marin County. This last took her away from home each summer as camp counselor for the handicapped at Camp Campbell in the Santa Clara Mountains.

Thereafter it was a series of credits for the young Miss Healey.

AFTER HIGH school she was admitted to Stephens College in Missouri and, while there, began a volunteer therapy program for the handicapped. Today, seven years later, the program there has grown almost to the size of our Marindale School. She was, in effect, the founder.

"I was so irritated when I found that Missouri had almost no provision for handicapped children. It wasn't till then that I realized how lucky I was to have grown up in California."

It was this that prompted Elizabeth to make a personal study of the history of the treatment of handicapped children. She later lectured to such groups as the Parent-Teacher Association on her findings.

"EVEN AS late as the 1920s and 30s people kept these children in what they called 'black houses' away from the main house and fed them. That was about all," she says.

"Since that time," she continues, "it's amazing how much has been done for the handicapped in the field of education and recreation, especially here in California.

"NORMAL PEOPLE cannot always understand how important things like recreation are for the handicapped. Aside from the fact that it does so much for morale, if it were not for organized recreation designed to the capabilities of the handicapped, they would have no opportunity for group activity. And that is so important for one's identity."

After college Elizabeth returned to the Bay Area and began school at San Francisco State where she met her husband, Jim Rodiach. There were married in 1962 and now have a lovely, healthy little girl, now 4, named Laura.

Elizabeth was lucky. She has had a happy and productive life despite her handicap.

BUT HAD IT not been for her philosophy of "can do" and the advantages that she received from her mother and from those agencies which provide for normal experiences for handicapped people she could have spent her life repressed rather than encouraged, as did so many handicapped people just a generation ago.

United Cerebral Palsy of Marin is a charitable agency which is working specifically in those areas where handicapped people are most directly benefitted: recreation, education and therapy.

This month United Cerebral Palsy of Marin is making its annual appeal to residents of Marin County for contributions.

EIGHTY per cent of all funds received in Marin are used inside the county for such things as speech therapy, occupational therapy at MARC workshop, recreation including camperships, swimming programs and instruction, and in meeting personal requests for financial aid from those in Marin with cerebral palsy who are in need of special equipment.

The remaining 20 per cent of Marin's contributions goes to the United Cerebral Palsy national headquarters where it is dispersed as research grants and used in public information programs.

United Cerebral Palsy of Marin receives no financial aid from any other agency. All members of the organization are volunteers.

Elizabeth Healey Rodiach tells her story to inspire the handicapped and to encourage the more fortunate others of Marin County to lend their support to United Cerebral Palsy when the appeal for funds arrives in the mail.

WHILE STILL a teen-ager, Elizabeth Healey was active on behalf of United Cerebral Palsy of Marin, organizing benefit shows and serving as mistress of ceremonies.

THE REDWOOD SIDING of this Ross home designed by Hageman - Thomas - Eklund blends perfectly with the wooded site as well as with the secondary building material, fieldstone. The unusual trellis arrangement provides shelter and shade over the garage area. The house earned its designers American Institute of Building Design and American Journal of Building Design recognition. (Photos by Ken Molino)

THE ENTRY COURTYARD for the home is formed by three wings of the house. Sonoma fieldstone retaining walls and chimney combine well with the rough-sawn redwood.

Marin Living

A House For A Steep Site

Rough-sawn redwood and Sonoma fieldstone are two building materials that combine in perfect harmony.

Proof of this can be seen in the charming five-bedroom house designed by the San Rafael firm of Hageman-Thomas-Eklund for a Ross slope site.

It won them a "best of show" award in the 1967 design competition of the American Institute of Building Design in the residential custom design category.

(The same firm was also among the winners in the commercial buildings classification.)

The Ross home was planned to meet the special needs and problems posed by the site — steep, narrow and pinched.

The resulting layout features access from the living room, the family and all five bedrooms to the redwood deck, which, in turn, overlooks the pool and patio area, and offers a superlative view of Mount Tamalpais.

TALL WINDOWS lend a light and airy feeling to the living. The redwood half wall allows light to enter two rooms. The deck overlooks the pool and patio area below.

Nassau's Other Face

The Travel Page

There are two faces to the famous resort of Nassau, Bahamas, hard by the sea.

One is the face of business — the hurried figures going about their work on Bay Street, the sound of taxis skittering through crowded side streets and all the noises of city life.

The other face is that of the native towns "over the hill," where time seems to run a little slower, where the pace is easier and where the sounds of mellow Bahamian voices and rhythmic drums mute the garish noises of the city.

NO TOURIST on a visit to Nassau should go home without going "over the hill" to see how life is lived in communities that are throwbacks to older, easier days. The best time to go sightseeing, naturally, is in the daytime when bright sunshine makes picture-taking easy and the multitude of colors brighter.

He will find the nearest communities, Grant's Town and Bain's Town, as fascinatingly different.

There are small, wooden dwellings, streets no larger than alleys and alleys no larger than goat paths. Market Street in Grant's Town and Blue Hill Road in Bain's Town are a little broader, but both suburban communities were old before city planning was popular and the topographical confusion that resulted from this lack of planning is actually the main charm of these Bahamian villages.

OLD-TIME residents say existence has changed but little in the last century. Houses still crowd the streets as if front yards were a menace. The women's costumes are gayer in these communities than they are in Nassau, often rivaling the bougainvillea and other flowering vines that cling to houses and fences.

Grant's Town was founded in 1829 and got its name from Gen. Sir Lewis Grant, then governor of the Bahamas. It was settled by 370 Negroes rescued from a slave ship on the high seas.

Bain's Town, named for an early resident, was settled by freed Negro slaves who had come from the Gold Coast of Africa. Their descendants still reside in the little cottages that give this village its unique character.

THESE TOWNS, and other localities just beyond, are lumped together in the phrase "over the hill." The reason is a simple one, tied directly to topography.

Just back of Nassau and the other shore resort areas on the north shore of New Providence Island runs a ridgeback following a rough east and west axis. To get from the center of busy Nassau to the suburbs stretching away to the south one must go up over this ridge and everything on the far side has come to be known as "over the hill."

While the tourist will want to see these colorful areas in the daylight he will miss a wonderful experience if he doesn't go back again long after the sun has gone down.

That is the time to whistle up a surrey — a carriage with a fringe on top—and ask the driver to go "over the hill." When dinner is out of the way, Grant's Town and Bain's Town come to life again — gay, picturesque and exciting.

THIS IS when the music of the islands comes beating upon the eardrums like a leitmotif of the tropics. There is music for all tastes but those who long for authenticity will listen most eagerly for the beat of the goombay drums, direct descendants of the drums that echoed along the Congo centuries ago.

Goombay rhythms are indigenous to the Bahamas. They are different from calypso music in Trinidad, different from the music that is heard late at night in the valleys of Haiti and Santo Domingo. To the untutored American ear the difference may not be too impressive, but it is there, and the true musician distinguishes one from the other.

Your driver will take you to such night spots as the Yellow Bird, the Drumbeat, the Cat and Fiddle and the Banana Boat.

THE TOURIST finds some of this nightlife a trifle artificial. It has to be, for it is the life blood of many an entertainer. But it is legitimate music, honest in its origins and honest in its cadences.

If this seems impossible, just stroll away from the night clubs with their flickering candles, their mellifluous voices and their noisy percussion instruments and listen to the music that comes from cottage windows, latticed verandahs or the shadows of alley cul-de-sacs.

Be quiet for an instant and listen. From somewhere out of the darkness will come lilting songs and intoxicating rhythms from drums. The music will be the music of the people — music that had its beginnings half a world away.

Once you have walked the narrow streets "over the hill" you will know the other face of the Bahamas — warm, sentimental and romantic.

You will save gas, advises the National Automobile Club, if you learn to use the accelerator gently.

Pressing hard and suddenly on the pedal spurts gasoline into the combustion chamber in far too great quantity to permit its effective use.

FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT
The President . . .

FELIX FRANKFURTER

ROOSEVELT AND FRANKFURTER: Their Correspondence, 1928-1945, annotated by Max Freedman; Atlantic-Little Brown, 772 pages, $17.50. Reviewed by James E. Williams.

Publication of these letters represent a unique chapter in American history—the personal correspondence of a law professor, who became a member of the Supreme Court, and a President of the United States.

It is also a probing look into the important "unofficial" role Felix Frankfurter played in the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Just prior to his death on Feb. 22, 1965, Justice Frankfurter summoned Freedman to his bedside to urge: "Tell the whole story. Let people know how much I loved Roosevelt, how much I loved my country and let them see how great a man Roosevelt really was."

Probably neither Roosevelt nor Frankfurter knew the strength each would provide the other when they became closely associated during Woodrow Wilson's World War I administration.

Frankfurter, the Harvard law professor, was chairman of the War Policies Board, and Roosevelt was assistant secretary of navy.

Not, however, until Roosevelt's first term as governor of New York did the friendship really take seed.

Some critics have called the Frankfurter-Roosevelt association sinister, claiming that the professor used the President to satisfy purposes remote from the national interest.

As early as 1949, historian Arthur Schlesinger Jr., later to become an adviser to President John F. Kennedy, sought from Frankfurter permission to open a portion of the sealed correspondence. However, Frankfurter refused because he was still on the bench, and felt selected letters would be superficial and misleading. When he did release the letters for publication, he wanted the record to stand for itself.

The correspondence begins in 1928 with FDR's first term as New York governor. It builds in interest through the election of FDR to the presidency, formulation of the New Deal, the Supreme Court packing controversy of 1937, the buildup of Germany in the late 1930s to the years of World War II.

The 1937 affair is a particularly fascinating segment of modern American history.

The isolationism of Joseph Kennedy, ambassador to the Court of St. James prior to World War II, brought sharp criticism from Frankfurter in the personal exchange. He feared Kennedy's appeasement leanings might taint U.S. foreign policy.

A volume of this length tends to bog down at times. The needed transfusion, however, is supplied by Freedman's running commentary. Also the half titles keep the main points of each period in focus.

The book will no doubt bring about a flurry of comments in the months ahead as befits one of the important historical documents of 1968. It fills a vital gap in the exploration of the Roosevelt personality by a man who always felt himself an "outsider looking in."

The Good, Gray Poet Markham

THE BALLAD OF THE GALLOWS BIRD by Edwin Markham with notes by Louis Filler; Antioch Press, 54 pages, $4. Reviewed by Laurel Shapiro.

That Markham is Filler property the professor made amply clear in his highly subjective biography "The Unknown Edwin Markham," published in 1966.

Now, digging deeper in what one would not think to be an especially rich claim, he presents the poet's major work, with proprietory notes and comments.

The poem, a morbid, Swedenborgian flight into life after death, has a gusty, gothic vigor that makes it well worth reading. It is not a masterpiece, as Filler insists, but certainly is far superior to the tinny, prosaic poems that, along with "Man With A Hoe" and a very few others of that caliber, earned Markham the astonishing adulation he enjoyed during his long life.

But the best part of this book is Professor Filler's introduction. His dressing-down of the slow-witted world for allowing Markham to be forgotten, and of colleagues who stake out claims on famous forgotten authors, is so entertaining that the Good Gray Poet is nearly forgotten all over again.

A British Journalist Sums Up

Journalist Cameron describes this missile as an attempt at "autobiography" with summations of his junkets to the news fronts of the world as one of England's top correspondents.

From the atomic bomb tests at Bikini to Albert Schweitzer's Africa, the reader will find himself fascinated with the rich description colored by the element of personal involvement.

He doesn't pull punches — uprooting a number of sacred cows along the way.

Following a visit to North Vietnam, he created a furor in the U. S. press with his analysis of the war. Time Magazine assailed him as a "conduit."

In discussing his personal entanglement with America, he claims nobody but Americans "could have invented a President who posed as a peasant to conceal the expert ruthlessness that concealed the fact that he was a peasant all the time."

His meeting of Sir Winston Churchill in the statesman's twilight years again points to Cameron's excellent command of the descriptive element:

". . . the prostrate figure of Sir Winston Churchill came emphatically into being, gesticulating and muttering in a fashion most indicative of life and within a few minutes was established in a drawing room chair and manifestly the man who had come to dinner."

A Novel About Lord Byron Hit As 'Tasteless Reconstruction'

THE MISSOLONGHI MANUSCRIPT by Frederic Prokosch; Farrar, Straus & Giroux, 338 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Laurel Shapiro.

"I have kept innumerable diaries and journals in my life," the author has Byron say early in this novel, "but it is time I spoke from a deeper 'recess' of my being."

Would that he had — or to be more accurate, for the poet himself must be cleared of all blame for this tasteless "reconstruction" — would that author Prokosch had come up with something more than this cheap, pointless, and, one would think, libelous twaddle.

The beginning, a cloak and dagger affair of Byron's last, lost notebooks coming to light, is promising. These supposedly are notebooks he wrote as he lay dying in Greece, at the age of 36, and in which he reminisces on his life and loves. But all too soon the reader sees what he is really in for.

LORD BYRON
Victim of twaddle

According to the dustjacket, the author immersed himself in the study of Byron. One wonders why, for he hurries over all the drama, (and it was high-pitched sexual drama, as everyone knows) in favor of what he seemingly can handle best — pornography.

Page after titilating page he strings together the sexy peccadilloes and perversions that he has decided to graft on the defenseless dead. Page after page — surely only a duty-bound reviewer and/or determined voyeur could stick it out to the distant end.

Occasionally (after all, this is supposed to be about the great poet) he sticks in a banal discussion of poetry; but the reader, quite rightly, never for a moment believes in this spurious hero as the historical Lord Byron.

Just How Important Is Diet?

DR. CANTOR'S LONGEVITY DIET by Alfred J. Cantor; Parker, 228 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

The split continues within the medical world between those who regard diet as all-important to health, and those who believe it to be of secondary, less than commanding significance as long as a person sticks generally to what has come to be called "balanced meals."

Dr. Alfred J. Cantor, physician and proctologist, is among the most outspoken of the former.

In his newest book, he directs himself to a subject that seems to concern virtually all Americans — the holding back of the aging process.

This can best be done, he maintains, through diet, and he offers his own program. Briefly, it involves fewer calories (through half portions and the elimination of carbohydrates and starches), the substitution of polyunsaturated fats for the saturated ones, and increasing water consumption. Safflower oil and ocean fish are his standbys. He insists that the fewer calories you take in and the less you weigh (providing you feel well), the better off you are and the longer you will live.

He also offers a program of moderate, non-competitive exercise (walking, bicycling, rope skipping, etc.), and urges the minimization of emotional stress. Hormone therapy (administered by a doctor) is discussed.

The book is chaotically organized (or disorganized) and filled with repetition. The editing seems to have been deplorably haphazard (Nero Wolf, we are told, is a famous mystery story writer). But the doctor's certain to be controversial theories are most interesting. Only the experts are in a position to rule on their validity. But you can bet they won't agree.

THE BOOK PAGES

A Maverick Senator

By DON KEOWN

Robert F. Kennedy is easily the most complex, most baffling figure on the American political scene. As such he makes a fascinating if difficult biographical subject, and has attracted a number of writers.

Unfortunately, most of them have begun their work with preconceived opinions of either adulation or detestation for Kennedy. And those feelings inevitably have colored and weakened their reports.

Now comes a brilliant young British journalist, Margaret Laing, to offer in her "The Next Kennedy" what is probably the most objective, least biased study to date of the man many regard as a certain future president of these United States.

Miss Laing's factual mass is detailed and interesting, but rarely new. Most of it has been told before. But what gives her book a fresh dimension are her own keen evaluations and interpretations of those facts, and her perceptive observations and conclusions stemming from personal contacts with the Robert Kennedys.

Senator Kennedy, hypersensitive to criticism, almost certainly will not approve the book. But to this reader, on balance and speaking relatively, he nevertheless seems to earn a favorable verdict from Miss Laing.

She does not soft-pedal his shortcomings — his propensity for over-hasty judgments, his tendency to see people and issues as either all-bad or all-good, his lack of a creative imagination, the sometimes mercurial quality of his enthusiasms, the ruthlessness which he can generate in driving for his objectives, the aloof and brusque demeanor he so often exhibits in dealing with both associates and strangers.

But along with this emerges a picture of a man of exceptional ability and energy with a stronger dedication to his principles, a better grasp of American problems, a deeper commitment to the underdog, a stouter courage for the expression and upholding of unpopular viewpoints and causes, and a greater charismatic appeal than any other political leader on the bland and shopworn list of those regarded today as potential future candidates for president. The unpredictable, even the unstable, seems preferable to the mediocre.

As for the ambition which many of his critics cite as the main reason for their distrust, Miss Laing asks effectively: Since when has it been a crime or an evil for a man to aspire to the presidency of the United States?

Her biography does not illuminate all the shadows and uncertainties that are a part of this complicated, often confusing man. But it does shed a great deal of light upon some of the more mysterious and controversial facets of the character of the maverick who is causing so much uneasiness these days in the ranks of political orthodoxy.

LENNY BRUCE

THE NEXT KENNEDY by Margaret Laing; Coward-McCann, 320 pages, $5.95.

THE ESSENTIAL LENNY BRUCE edited by John Cohen; Ballantine, 319 pages, paperback, 95 cents.

LENNY BRUCE was a controversial figure while alive. Dead, he is no less so. But the weight of public opinion has shifted steadily in his favor.

Ironically, many who ignored, disliked or even despised him while he was performing now claim to admire him and praise him as one of the great satirists of our time. A Lenny Bruce cult has arisen.

Its members will seize upon the opportunity to acquire "The Essential Lenny Bruce," edited by John Cohen and published by Ballantine as an original paperback, for a mere 95 cents. It is billed as "uncut and uncensored."

Yes, the four-letter words are there. But so is the bite and acuity with which Bruce pointed out and dissected the hypocrisies, the foibles, the evils of society.

Whether Cohen has captured the very best of Bruce might be debated. But what he has chosen is certainly representive. It reflects the real Bruce in style as well as content. For that reason, it will be most appreciated by those who heard (and really listened) Bruce perform. They will be able to associate the written words with his delivery and his voice.

Whether Bruce's reliance upon the four-letter words for their shock impact was overdone, or, indeed, not necessary at all, remains a subject for argument. But with or without them, there is no questioning the devastation which he wrought upon pretense and pomposity. And while it was often done in despair, it was rarely done in malice.

Along with a text by Creighton Gilbert, the Brandeis University art historian, the buyer of this book receives as an illustration bonus a portfolio of 20 color slides of that immortal's greatest works.

Gilbert's narration of the life of Michelangelo and discussion of his work is very brief but satisfying enough. There is added commentary on the slide subjects, plus additional photographic illustrations in black and white.

McGraw-Hill hit upon a most striking and effective method of presenting illustrative materials for art books when they devised this imaginative format. The eye-appeal of these beautiful slides cannot be overstated.

TIME-LIFE Books has added another volume to its splendid "Library of Art" series.

This time the subject is "The World of Durer," written by Francis Bidwell, and telling the story of Albrecht Durer, the great German artist of the 15th and 16th centuries who was largely responsible for the flow of Italian Renaissance ideas into northern Europe, and who also played a major role in giving graphics — woodcuts and engravings — a new dimension and popularity.

JOHN F. KENNEDY
The second son

ROBERT F. KENNEDY
Third in line

In Bidwell's hands, Durer becomes one of the most interesting subjects yet tackled in the well-done but unpretentious Time-Life series that now numbers 10 volumes. The book, like its predecessors, is excellently illustrated with reproductions of the work of the principal subject artist and his contemporaries, some of this in color.

The book sells for $7.95, a most reasonable price for a book of its caliber.

Sleuths & Suspense

Aaron Marc Stein involves his much-traveled, adventure-prone engineer, Matt Erridge, in new international intrigue and shenanigans in this new Crime Club selection.

However, it is generally less satisfactory than earlier books featuring Erridge.

The plotting seems loose and somewhat on the slipshod side. And the breezy, first person narration seems forced and finally becomes tiresome.

UHF— What is it? All TV sets manufactured in the last couple of years have a UHF tuner built into it in addition to the standard VHF tuner. VHF means Very High Frequency. The regular TV channels; namel to 6 and 7 to 13 are tuned in with the normal VHF tuning dial. Channels 2 to 6 are tuned in on frequencies from 54 megacycles (millions of cycles) to 88 megacycles. The FM frequencies of 88 to 108 megacycles follow channel 6 then there is a large gap, used for commercial use, from 108 to 174 megacycles where channel 7 starts. This upper end of the VHF channel goes from 174 to 216 megacycles. Why do we call these Very High Frequencies? The standard AM radio band covers the frequencies from 550 to 1600 Kilocycles (thousand cycles). The cycles or wave vibrations through the air are very slow compared to the millions of cycles used for TV and FM.

UHF means Ultra High Frequency. In other words, these are frequencies much higher than what we have been considering as VHF. This newer form of TV broadcasting uses the UHF frequencies. These ultra high frequencies were alloted for TV use because the lower VHF frequencies did not allow enough channels and were used up in most metropolitan areas. The new UHF TV channels have been assigned numbers ranging from channel 14 through to channel 83. As you can see, the VHF channels of 2 to 13 provide only 12 station channels, and the UHF channels of 14 to 83 provide a possible 69 more stations for each area.

The UHF tuner on the TV set requires a different antenna than the regular TV channels. The UHF antenna is quite small and sometimes looks like a toy TV antenna. Good lead-in wire is required to bring the signal to the set. Modern TV antennas incorporate the VHF and UHF portions of the antenna as one system, and a combining device at the antenna allows sending the signal down one cable to the TV set where it is split again and tied to the two sets of antenna terminals. In some areas, the small wire ring or bow-tie furnished with the TV set will bring in the UHF stations.

On January 2, 1968, CHANNEL 44, a Kaiser station, went on the air with full color capabilities. Their transmitter site is on San Bruno Mountain with channels 2, 4 and 9. They will televise the Warriors basketball games and Oakland Athletics baseball games as well as variety shows.

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

BUFFALO SPRINGFIELD — Atco SD 33-200:

This is a very tight and well-matched rock group. They come on strong, but not without form or sense.

Their hit, "Sit Down I Think I Love You," will probably be the most familiar to listeners.

Their work has a density about it which all the better rock groups share, and which the Beatles, of course, have the most of. Density, that is. There's a lot going on at once, and repeated hearings bring out more below the surface.

THE HOLLIES — "Evolution" — Epic BN 26315:

THE BYRDS — "Younger Than Yesterday" — Columbia CS 9442:

The Byrds have been in the forefront of the new rock for a relatively long time now. They have pioneered the use of Indian elements in their music, written lyrics with serious meaning and message, and developed new electronic effects with their guitars.

Their latest is an excellent LP, almost as complete and integrated as the Beatles' work.

"So You Want To Be A Rock 'n' Roll Star," is very funny and wise, "Renaissance Fair" a delight, and "Everybody's Been Burned" possesses more than a passing similarity to Dylan's "Everybody Must Get Stoned."

THE YARDBIRDS' GREATEST HITS — Epic BN 26246:

This group, while not known for blazing new paths in rock, has turned out consistently interesting LPs. This one is a sampling of some of their previous three Epic LPs.

As is the case with Donovan, I notice most of their material was originally recorded only in mono, and now must be re-channeled for stereo effect. This seems rather surprising for such recent recording sessions, with the accent in modern rock on striking stereo separation (witness the Beatles' Sgt. Pepper).

Garden Page

THERE are countless good groundcovers available to Marinites, most of which can be planted now. One of the best is that old standby English Ivy, that provides a neat, trim, evergreen cover that is hard to beat. At left, we see it doing a yoeman's duty on an otherwise barren hillside. Under certain circumstances, however, it is outdone by a member of its own family, Algerian Ivy, which is faster growing, and which can take and thrive in more sunshine than its English cousin.

Carpeting The Ground With Greenery

In number and variety, we have more plants to choose from in this line than do gardeners in any other state. If a problem does arise, it lies in narrowing the choice to one or possibly two groundcovers.

Ivy, the traditional cover, is still the number one choice with Californians and still one of the best. Yet, if all open areas in every garden were covered with ivy, it would be a dull horticultural world.

WHEN THERE'S ground to cover, by all means consider ivy, but also give some thought to these:

Prostrate Abelia. Here's a ground-hugging form of one of the 10 favorite shrubs used in California. Parkways, banks or open beds will be enhanced by the glossy foliage and delicate white flowers.

Carmel Creeper. This native California "lilac" has recently been joined by another member of the family, the Hurrican Point ceanothus, to form an outstanding duo for beds or embankments. Leathery green leaves and blue "lilac" flowers are your reward.

Carpet Bugle. A matting cover for semi-shaded area. Flower spikes are profuse in establishing plantings, and flowers are predominantly blue. This is not for planting where foot traffic will trample.

Wild Strawberry. The hybrid variety No. 21 bears edible fruit to make an already appealing cover even more purposeful. For use in parkways and embankments where the white flowers and red fruits can best be appreciated.

BOTANICALLY the above groundcovers may be found as follows:

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

The Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Annuals which may be planted now in Marin include stock, snapdragon, calendula, cineraria and fairy primrose.
- Azaleas and camellias should be planted for instant color. Many are blooming in nurseries this month and you can see the colors you are buying.
- Wait until early February or warmer weather to prune your fuchsias. But do those roses now.
- Plant flowering quince for an early show of color. Some varieties are in bloom now.
- Plant roses and other deciduous shrubs now while they are dormant and available bareroot. They are less expensive bareroot.

Handyman's Pages

The One Big Need: More Bookshelves

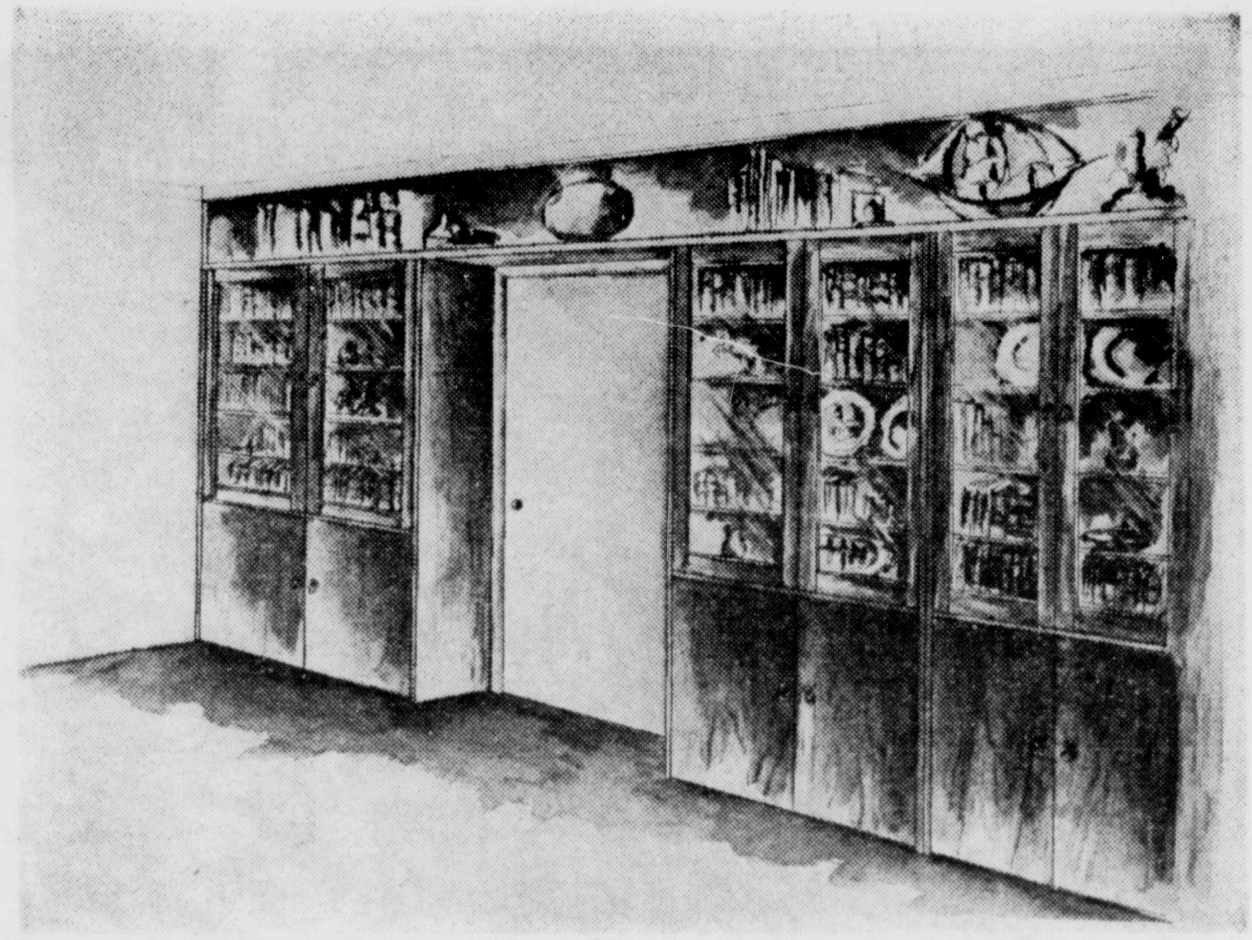
One solution is to build your own.

But to do so, you'll need instructions that are explicit and detailed. You can get them by sending $1 to Independent-Journal, Post Office Box 215, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., 10510, and asking for Book No. 664, "How to Build Bookcases."

This Easi-Bild publication of 68 pages provides directions for the simplified construction of freestanding bookcases, with or without glass doors, and also explains how to build wall-to-wall built-ins to fit any available space.

Since any combination of units can be built, the cabinet space below the bookshelves can be used for high fidelity components, records or whatever other use your needs require.

The step-by-step instructions are given in non-technical language easily understood and executed by the layman.



THE BOOKCASE, whether freestanding or built-in, can be the focal point of any room, whether it be the living room, the study, the den or even the bedroom. It not only adds storage, but character to the room as well. And with the help of Easi-Bild directions, you can construct your own case.

Cut Down On Waste In Your Workshop

The amount of materials wasted during 1967 by do-it-yourselfers can never be accurately determined. But it's a safe bet that it runs into the many millions of dollars.

If you're a home handyman, you have only to look around your own workshop to know that this must be true.

A typical workshop includes several cans of paint which are partly filled and which may never be used again. The chances are that the partial contents of each can have hardened and are unusable.

IT ALSO IS probable that the same thing has happened to two, three or more paint brushes which were used only a couple of times and not cleaned properly.

A paint manufacturer, in a confidential mood at the time, once told us that he believed only about two-thirds of all paint sold to home owners was ever used. Asked why, he said that, first of all, most persons bought more paint than was needed, especially for small jobs, and then never had occasion to use paint of that kind and color again.

Secondly, he explained, most people simply did not take the time and trouble necessary to make the paint can airtight after finishing a project.

SLAPPING THE cover on again in a haphazard fashion allowed air to get inside and eventually ruined the contents.

The proper procedure, he said, was to be sure the top of the can and the cover were wiped clean of drippings, after which the cover had to be forced down very tightly — hammered into place, if necessary, after placing a cloth around the top to prevent splattering.

As for buying only what you need, this is especially important in the case of shellac. This popular clear material deteriorates with age. Buy only what you are going to use in a few months.

THERE IS much waste with many other materials which change their character when exposed to the air. Things like plastic wood and certain adhesives are affected even when the cover or cap of the container is left off while the project is in progress.

While most persons do this the first time they use the material, they neglect it thereafter. Since weeks and months may ensue before the next use, the precautions on the label are completely forgotten during that period.

A DRAMATIC entry is one of the most effective ways to lift your house from the category of ordinary. Here this has been achieved through double entry stock Ponderosa pine panel doors in an authentic Colonial design. It makes a handsome, eye-catching addition to any traditional home, new or remodeled.

Bright Ideas

SCOUR THE antique and second-hand shops for an old oil lamp. Even the street-repair or railroad types will do. Or buy one of the new ones available in some hardware, decorator or gift stores. If you find an old one, rub it down with fine sandpaper or steel wool. Enamel it is a brilliant color, like firehouse red or orange. Two small pulleys and a length of colorful cord are your accessories. Attach one pulley directly above the center of the table to the ceiling. The second pulley goes where the ceiling meets the wall. Right under this, install a piece of awning hardware, about waist-high, to act as an anchor for the cord and for adjusting the height of the lamp. You'll be enchanted by the soft illumination that can be raised or lowered as desired.

Bait For The Male When House-Hunting

Why is it that most men balk when it's time to buy a new or larger house?

Is there some super bait that the little woman can use to lure her man from one hearthside to another?

Attempting to find out, the home building industry got this answer: Men become enthusiastic about a new home only if it contains a room designed especially for their use — a study or a library.

EVEN MORE interesting, the survey uncovered the reasons for the man's wanting a study. One is privacy — escape from household noise and from children's activities. Another is his need for a place to entertain men friends apart from the rest of the house.

Armed with this tidbit of information, a wife can do much towards leading her spouse in the house-buying direction. While finding one that includes a study is no mean trick, she can at least show him only those offering potential for a study.

THE EASIEST would be a house having one more bedroom than is actually needed.

Next comes the possibility of building on, either adding the study or converting a present room to the study (the usual inadequate dining room is a good candidate) and replacing that room with an addition.

Remodeling existing space to make a study isn't a particularly difficult or costly job. Mainly what's needed are bookcases, cabinets built for special needs like sports equipment, a desk and file storage, and comfortable chairs and reading lamps.

THE BOOKCASES are the easy part, though a good deal of thought must be given to their arrangement and size before building proceeds. Any blank wall can be converted to library shelving with little effort. On window walls, bookcases can be built to sill height, providing two good shelves plus a usable counter.

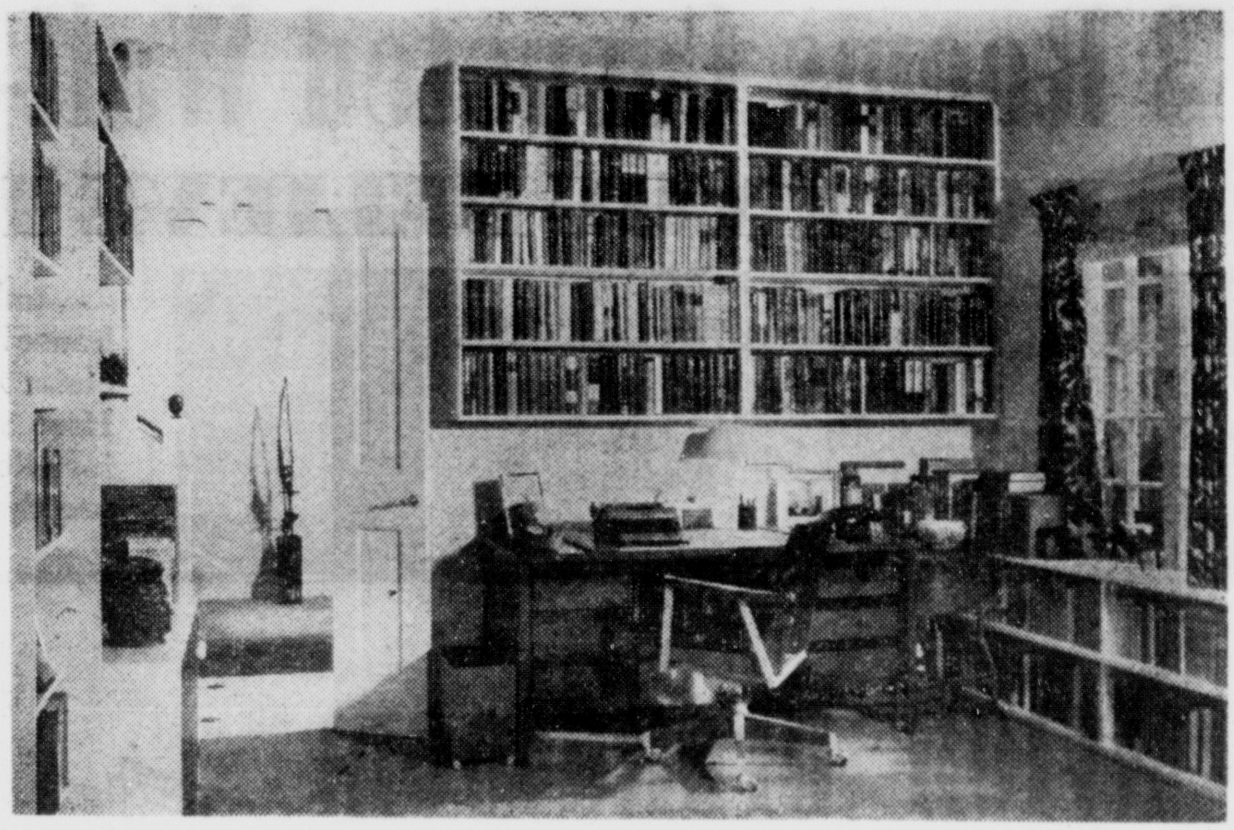
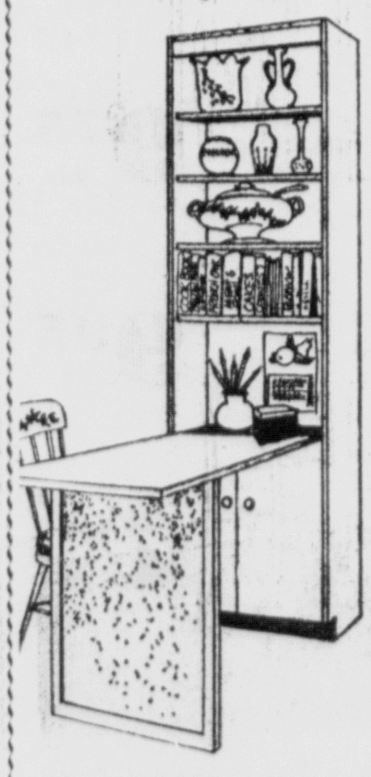
For the needed bookcases and storage cabinets, either ponderosa pine or Douglas fir boards are recommended.



CALL IT A study, home office, or den, any man would revel in this handsome room. It can be built as part of a new home or added to an older house. Or an extra bedroom or some other unused room can be converted.

Foldaway Desk



SPACE for a planning desk is made with bottom-hinged cabinet front that drops down to desk height. When desk is up, leg lies flat against the front, is faced with cork and serves as a bulletin board. Inside cabinet are shelves for cookbooks, etc. Unit is built of ponderosa pine boards.

E. G. MARSHALL, left, and Edmond O'Brien are cast as brothers in a portrait of a contemporary American family on "Flesh and Blood," to be presented Friday at 8:30 p.m. on Channels 3 and 4. The original, two-hour drama was written by William Hanley.

Life Is Brief For TV Shows

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI — There is only one thing more rare than a day in spring, and that is a television show that has been on the air 10 years or more.

With a single exception, those shows that have survived a full decade of prime time on the tube have starred an outstanding personality.

"GUNSMOKE" is the only drama among the handful, and the venerable horse opera is now in its 13th year.

All-time champ is Ed Sullivan. The stone-faced one is celebratng his 20th year on the air this season with the naming of a New York theater after him. Many attribute the Sullivan success to his lack of professional polish. He is someone with whom we peasants are able to identify.

There is no explaining Skelton's weekly high ratings and longevity except that he must be the funniest man on television, otherwise he would have gone the way of a dozen lesser comedians.

JACKIE GLEASON, off and on, has had a 15-year run on television. The round one has had a variety of formats, but has managed to hold in there year after year.

The only female on the list of 10-year veterans is Lucille Ball, another strong personality who has managed to survive 16 years, although not in an unbroken chain, as have Sullivan, Skelton and "Gunsmoke."

Curiously, one thing all these shows have in common is the same network—CBS. NBC-TV hasn't a single show that has shown a 10-year run, although "Bonanza" is now in its ninth year.

ABC-TV has one member of the exclusive little club, Lawrence Welk, who has a dozen years behind the bubble machine.

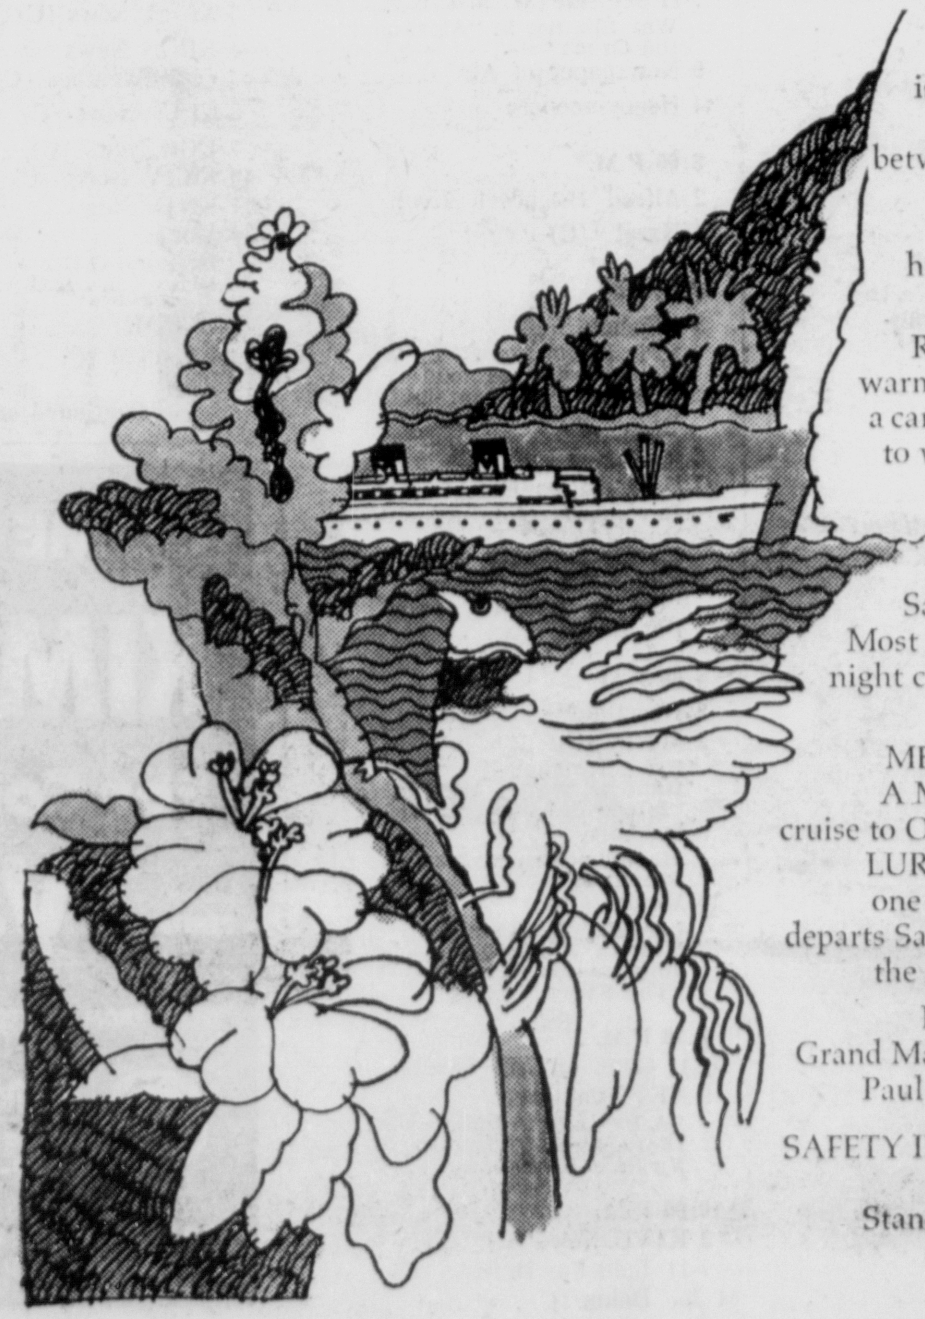
Enjoy Springtime on the SS Lurline



Springtime, like "going Hawaiian", is too good a thing to rush. Linger with them both on a luxury Pacific cruise between Hawaii and California aboard the SS Lurline. Sail across warming waters to an island wonderland where hibiscus bloom. The sea is calm, and the sky is filled with a tropical sun.

Relax in a deck chair and let the Lurline's warm Polynesian atmosphere ease you into a carefree Hawaiian mood. You'll be treated to wonderful food, gala parties each night and exclusively First Class service in the Grand Manner of Matson.

The Lurline sails every week from San Francisco, Los Angeles or Honolulu. Most sailings include a complimentary overnight cruise between the two California ports.

SPECIAL 15-DAY FOUR ISLAND MERRY MONARCH FESTIVAL CRUISE
A Matson exclusive. A 15-day all-expense cruise to Oahu, Kauai, Maui and Hawaii with the LURLINE as your hotel in each port during one of the Islands' happiest festivals. Cruise departs San Francisco April 5, 1968, Los Angeles the next day. For all details just contact us.

Let Matson show you springtime in the Grand Manner. See your travel agent or write to Paul Thompson, Matson Cruise Consultant.

SAFETY INFORMATION: SS Lurline, registered in the U. S., meets International Safety Standards for new ships developed in 1960.
